The News.

The Harvard boat crew sailed for England on Saturday.

The Irish church question continues to cause profound excitement in England, and popular meetings to discuss the subject will soon be held.

The yacht Dauntless, commanded by Mr. J. G. Bennett, jr., has arrived at Queenstown in less than thirteen days from New York.

The Baltimore Sangerfest is in full blast.

The recent elections in Mexico have resulted favorably to the Juarez government.

The Spanish commanders in Cuba continue to execute all prisoners immediately on their capture. Even those who are wounded are executed on the field.

Two more vessels have arrived at New York with yellow fever on board.

The Keystone Base Ball Club of Philadelphia beat the Harvard College Club on Saturday—24 to 18.

Recent dispatches confirm the reported floods in the Colorado Valley, Texas. The water was ten feet deep in the Court House square at Lagrange. It is estimated that 25 houses have been seen passing down the stream, and staging has been stopped for four days. The town of Columbus is entirely surrounded by water.

The opening of the Pacific Railroad has enabled the Postmaster to save $500,000 yearly on the Wells, Fargo & Co. contract. He has also just made such changes in what is known as the El Paso contract from Texas to New Mexico, as will save $105,000 yearly; and such changes in other frontier routes as will reduce the expenses $200,000 more.

Roscoe Conkling reports the Pacific Railroad well and strongly built, and comfortable for travellers.

2287 miles of the French Atlantic Cable had been laid on Saturday.

A Cuban expedition which sailed from New York on the 23d of June, landed in Cuba successfully, but refused to join the insurgents on account of the cholera. They have returned to New York.

Chronicle & Gazette Correspondence.

RYE, July 12th.

The proposed change announced of the name of the "Ocean House" to the "Prescott House," took the public by surprise, as no one had any idea that such a course would be adopted by Mr. Jenness,—and it must have been something very significant, that has caused the change. It is undoubtedly true that much confusion is caused at the depot, in regard to the assorting of the mails and packages, by the similarity of names of the old and famous Ocean House and the new Ocean View House, and in the height of the season it will increase.

And as the Ocean House has had a reputation of 25 years standing, and no one has previously thought of using any name by which any unfairness could be contemplated, it is the general impression of the public that Mr. Jenness had a perfect and legal right to the name, and that other names could have been selected by proprietors of other houses, which would have answered all purposes and not caused trouble and inconvenience to any.

It would seem that the policy of all connected with the boarding business at Rye Beach, ought to be to keep on good terms with each other, and to work for the interest of the Beach as well as for themselves; and it is to be hoped that such will in future be the case. No one doubts but what more houses would bring more business, and that it would be for the benefit of all if there were treble the accommodations for boarders that there are now. And it only requires a good understanding among the Hotel proprietors, and the land owners in the vicinity of the Beach, to make Rye Beach the place of resort during the summer months.

Sunday the weather was hot, the thermometer standing at noon at 87, but a good breeze stirring made living endurable. The houses are filling up, and the farmers are busy haying. Boating and fishing parties are not very plentiful yet, but probably the adepts will have something to do, before long.

Yours, R.

WEST LEBANON, July 12.

SAINT JOB AGAIN.—Messrs. Editors: No one will accuse Uncle Toby of being "a hair splitting theologian or metaphysician," after this. The evidence to the contrary is prima facie. And I am happy to learn that he agrees with me in the opinion that Jehovah does not mean by "a perfect and upright man," a sinless saint. It follows then that Job was a sinner, as he himself declared in the most emphatic manner.

The "only point at issue" seems to be was Saint Job, or was he not a great sinner. I have not affirmed that he was a greater sinner than Peter, nor like Paul, the "Chief" of sinners; only that he was a great sinner. Nor have I intimated that the comparison which Jehovah made between Job and other men, is not entirely true. But that "there is none like him in the earth" does not prove that he was not a great sinner. He was comparatively "perfect and upright," but judged by the perfect law of God his sins were great.

His own consciousness of guilt, "transgression and iniquity" which made him "a burden to himself," and the terrible sufferings which he endured as a consequence of his sins, are full proof that I have not slandered Job by calling him a great sinner. And how does Uncle Toby compare this regular adjective? I have used only the positive degree. "Great, greater, greatest."

I employ the mildest expression that can be applied to a transgressor of God's Holy Law. Every sin against Infinite Perfection is great. If Job was never guilty of profanely denying his Master, then Peter was a "greater" sinner. And if Job never "breathed out threatenings and slaughter" against christians, then Paul was the "greatest" sinner of the three. But it still may be, and is true that Job was a great sinner.

Uncle Toby speaks of Paul's being the greatest sinner before his conversion. He regarded himself such, after his conversion. First Timothy, 1st ch. 15th verse. "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." Our good Uncle will observe that Saint Paul uses here the present tense. And so in the experience of all true christians; the more earnest and sincere their piety, the more aggravating do their sins appear to themselves. Such men judge their own character, not by comparison with other sinners, but in the light of infinite purity and a perfect law.

I am happy to know that Uncle Toby is so faithful a student of the Bible, and trust that he may live many years, to search out the "hidden meaning" of its precious truths, and to practice its holy precepts.

But, gentlemen, your readers ought to be informed that this theological discussion is merely incidental. In a discussion with my friends, the editor s of another paper on School Discipline, and in vindication of the rightfulness and necessity of punishment, as a disciplinary agency, I intimated that in the Divine Government, corporal punishment was inflicted as a penalty against the violations of Law. My opponent objected and instanced Job, maintaining that he could not have been punished so terribly, for his sins. I maintained that Jehovah understood the case quite as well as the editor did, and could not have done any injustice. Uncle Toby seized upon the theological idea, and hence, this discussion.

It was not my purpose, nor in my line of business, to take up either theology or politics, though I have opinions upon both subjects which I am not ashamed to express.

Yours,

HIRAM ORCUTT.

Note by Uncle Toby.—If the Professor has split the theological hair so nicely as to satisfy himself that Job was a great sinner, Uncle Toby would not object. But the common reader, who has common sense, will be puzzled to see why Job should be styled a great sinner by a fallible writer of to-day, tho' he was claimed by his Creator as a perfect and upright man, in his lifetime. "Let God be true, but every man a liar."

—A sketch writer in California delivered a School address, which is better than anything Mark Twain can do, and of which the following is an example; "You boys ought to be very kind to your little sisters. I once knew a bad boy who struck his sister a blow over the eye. Although she didn't fade and die in the summer time, when the June roses were blowing with sweet words of kindness on her pallid lips, she rose up and hit him over the head with a rolling pin, so that he couldn't go to Sunday School for over a month, on account of his not being able to put on his best hat."

—Passengers by the Pacific Railroad stopping at Sherman station are warned to look out for bears.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY ROBESON is of the right stamp, and is a decided improvement on Ex-Secretary Borie. He has issued an order revoking the order of June 23, fixing the working hours in the various yards and stations. The order of May 24, regulating that subject, will stand, with this modification: That the ringing of the bell will commence at such time, not exceeding fifteen minutes before the time of commencing work, as may under the circumstances at each yard or station be found by the Commandant thereof necessary to secure to the Government the full term of eight hours per day. Care should be taken to establish such rules in this respect as will insure justice to the Government, with no unnecessary inconvenience to the working men. The mustering of the workmen after the expiration of the hours of labor will be dispensed with. The custom of mustering the workmen after they had done work was foolish and useless.

☞ On Friday afternoon a young man named James Dunnell, 20 years of age, belonging in York, Me., was struck by a passenger train, outward bound on the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, at Quincy Mass., and fatally injured. He was working beside the track making repairs on telegraph poles, and in avoiding an inward freight train, did not observe the outward passenger train, which struck him. He was taken to the City Hospital in Boston, where his skull was found to be fractured, and he died at seven o'clock on Saturday morning. His remains were sent to his home.

Failing to obtain relief from any of the physicians whom she employed from time to time, she was induced to try the PLANTATION BITTERS, and to her surprise and joy they have relieved her, and she is now in good health and flesh. 23

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and combined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they cannot but expel either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Conclusive Evidence in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

W. H. RENSE, a leading druggist in Monticello, Ill., in a letter of June 6, 1868, writes to this effect: "Having sold Hostetter's Bitters for the past four years, I cannot but speak of the article as being the best tonic and appetizer extant. During the ague season of 1865—6, I could not keep a sufficient stock on hand to supply my customers. In fact your Bitters was as staple as quinine. I learn that physicians prescribe it all over the western country. Indeed, a great many families think they are not safe without your invaluable tonic."

J. K. WYNNEBROOM, a magistrate of Kershaw county, S. C., states, under date April 13, 1868, that he has used the Bitters constantly in his own family for the previous two years. He first tried the preparation when suffering from exhaustion produced by a severe attack of fever. Before the first bottle was finished he experienced a remarkable change for the better. He had tried brandy at the outset, but found that did him more harm than good. In one month from the time he commenced using the Bitters his health, strength and appetite were restored. He had recommended the articles to others in like circumstances, and never knows to fail, and he found it a perfect specific for chills and fever.

MR. SAMUEL YOUNG, of Clarion, Pa., under date April 6, 1868, certifies that he was completely cured of "one of the most distressing attacks of dyspepsia that ever afflicted any mortal," by three bottles of the Bitters, after "various other remedies had proved useless." Restored to perfect health, he thanks "that excellent preparation for the result."

Dr. G. M. SPENCER, of Brush Creek, Perry Co., Ala., writing thence Feb. 8, 1868, says:—"I have used your Stomach Bitters for several years in my practice, and find them superior to most of the Bitters now prescribed by the profession generally." Jy7

A Great Political Revolution

was accomplished by the election of Grant, and a revolution of immense social importance has been effected by the general substitution of that pure and harmless preparation,

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye,

for the deadly compound of lead and brimstone of which, according to the "Journal of Chemistry" and the "Medical Gazette," more than thirty varieties have been foisted upon the public! Cristadoro's Dye is the only one that and Professor Chilton, over his own signature, declared that it is perfectly wholesome.

HAS BEEN ANALYZED;

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a cholic followed by slimy, bilious stools. The relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when exhausted by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it many years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took twenty-two boxes. They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. Je17

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to direction. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, or when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show that the bile is coming, nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the functions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juices to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient loses and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and are ripening. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but its the whole body. The stomach and liver are diseased, or to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach; the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to grow in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Temple St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. Patients can, if they prefer, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

At the Temple—Miss Kate Reignolds.

A HEARTLESS DEED.—Within a mile of Market Square dwelt a dogess; a bulldogess,—perhaps an unregistered and certainly an unkilled bulldogess,—who divided her time impartially between business and pleasure; her business being to furnish her interesting family with something to eat, and her pleasure to herself eat up all other dogs who dared trespass on what she considered her domain.

In one of her playful moods this lovely creature made a dinner of the pet canine of a man of great ferocity, who vowed dire vengeance on her innocent head therefor; and one day last week, happening to pass her cruising grounds and discover her engaged in her usual occupation of eating up another dog, the irate man descended from his chariot, and with various and deadly weapons, to wit: cord-wood, bowie knives, boots, clubs, anathemas, axes and other unlawful weapons, did then and there beat, kill, destroy and assassinate over the head the aforesaid bulldogess hereinbefore mentioned, causing her to yield up her life, die and expire; thus throwing her nameless family upon the charity of a pitiless world, and rending with concealed anguish the bosoms of all dwellers in that neighborhood; to the great derogation of the peace and comfort of the bulldogess aforesaid and the honor and dignity of the State of New Hampshire, and contrary to the law in such cases made and provided.

The mortal remains of the victim of man's barbarity were interred not far from the scene of the tragedy, "the boys" digging the funeral service. In the words of the sweet poet—

"They buried her sadly in broad daylight,
And with gravel and stones filled the hole full,—
So full that her ghost can't get out at night;
Ah, me! but wasn't it doleful?".

On a fence near by they chalked the following record of her virtues and her sorrows: "Dogibus disgustibus, requiescats in pieces, presto sombrero, Corrajo! Et hoc genius hominy, Oui, oui." Gloom rests on that once lively quarter of our city,—but the matter will not be allowed to rest here.

Where were the police? Nobody can tell. The City Fathers some time ago passed a law that all dogs not registered might be killed; but who ever supposed any of them would be? If ferocious dogs are not allowed to roam about, devouring other dogs, scaring timid people and disgusting all decent persons by the exhibition of their savage fights, of what use will it be to keep ferocious dogs? We hope justice will yet be done in this matter.

☞ That beautiful woman and charming actress, Kate Reignolds, so long the reigning favorite at the Boston Museum, and known and admired the world over—is to delight the lovers of the true drama, at the Temple on Wednesday evening. See advertisement, and go and see the Company, all ye who enjoy a good play. You never will see or hear a better actress than Miss Reignolds; and she will doubless be well supported, and should be well patronized.

FIRE.—Shortly before 10 o'clock Monday night, fire broke out in the out-buildings on the farm of Mr. Edward Huntress, opposite the Piscataqua Fair Grounds, and there being no means at hand to extinguish the flames, the barn, sheds, &c., with about 18 tons of hay, farming tools and other articles, were soon consumed. The live stock were all saved. Insured $600. The men engaged in preventing the house from taking fire were somewhat warmed, but the building escaped almost uninjured. Granite State Engine No. 5 was on the ground, but could do no good. Mr. Huntress states that no light had been used in the barn during the day or evening.

☞ The closing-up movement seems to have become general among the merchants of this city. The grocery dealers, who were desirous to close their stores on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, are exceedingly wroth over the refusal of two dealers to enter into the agreement to close. The minority in this instance rule!

☞ The Eastern Railroad Company has just completed a new engine for their road, named the King Lear, with a 16 inch cylinder, 22 inch stroke and 5 feet driver, unsurpassed hereabouts for beauty and finish, and weighing about 33 tons. It will run on the freight train between Boston and Portsmouth.

☞ The rumor that Selwyn's stock company from Boston are to appear in this city shortly and give an entertainment, the proceeds of which are to be applied as a relief fund to be tendered the Market street merchants to be used in paying for sprinkling that street, is unfounded.

RYE BEACH.—We have already announced that the Messrs. Jenness proposed to change the name of their Ocean House to Prescott,—and our Rye correspondent alludes to the matter—but we learn by letter from Mr. Jenness, that on account of the general opposition of their friends and the public to the change, it will not be made. And we hear—what we hope to be true—that Mr. Lougee will probably change the name of his new house, instead. This is as it should be—the Ocean House name and fame is the result of years of work of Job Jenness & Son; and our new and active County Treasurer does not need any adventitious aid to keep a hotel. We would suggest Sea View Hotel for the new house, and wish it as good a reputation in time as the Ocean House has won.

☞ The Rockingham Association of Universalists will hold their Annual Meeting with the Universalist Church at Dover, on Wednesday and Thursday, August 18 and 19: commencing at 11 o'clock, Wednesday forenoon.

☞ The late session of the N. H. Legislature was longer than usual, but about twice as many measures were acted on as at the last session, and only six were postponed to next year.

Morning Chronicle.

A FEAST FOR CONVICTS.—Mr. Dorsey of Rhode Island, who, it will be remembered, provided a poultry dinner for the inmates of the prisons in Massachusetts some time ago, has just furnished the funds for an entertainment of the convicts in the prison at Wethersfield, Ct. The donation took a very singular form, which is thus given in the Hartford Post;

"On Saturday, Captain Willard, the warden, received by express a basket containing 'five loaves and two small fishes'—a donation for the convicts. On examination, it was found that each of the fish had attached to it an uncut sheet of greenbacks, amounting to five dollars, and similar sheets were found in each of the loaves. Across the face of the sheets, on each was printed with a brush, in large letters, 'Give' 'Daily' 'Our' 'Daily' 'Bread,' and on the back the following endorsement in letters of bronze: 'H. C. Llewellyn Dorsey, sign painter ('to the king'), Pawtucket, R. I. —Pharaoh Cloths, Ten Dice Cloths, Sweat Cloths, and Roulette Spreads always on hand, and painted to order, Reference, Squire Sleeper, at the foot of Thirteenth street, Revelation city.' By the evening mail came a letter purporting to contain 'the twelve baskets of fragments taken up,' which amounted to a sum sufficient to provide a generous entertainment for the whole of the inmates of the prison."

On Thursday the prisoners were furnished with an ample supply of strawberries and a generous collation, enlivened by music. The fact is a curious one, that Mr. Dorsey, who gives this feast to the prisoners, gets his money by making gambling implements!—Gamblers abound in the State Prisons, and some of them gamble after they come out.

Communication.

RECONSTRUCTION.—With all the evils and corruption of the public morals, as inevitable attendants of the late war (and it may truly be said of all wars) there will be many good results. Prior to the abolishment of slavery, the colored population, with few exceptions, were the only producers. It required no prophetic eye to foresee that after that event, it would not be disgraceful for a white man to labour on southern plantations, and that thereby the crops would be doubled, if not trebled.

And also that southern society would soon be regenerated and reconstructed—that seminaries of learning would be opened for the benefit of all—that manufactories would soon be established in various parts, where they have better water privileges than in other states, and in a word, the southern people would ere long rise to a level with the northern people. Moral and christian principles, indispensable supports of a free government, would be inculcated and generally diffused. Aristocracy fell with slavery, to rise no more.

It may safely be predicted that in less than a quarter of a century, the sunny plains of the South will have a population of twenty millions. What a mighty and sudden progress in the arts and sciences, in manufactures, in agricultural science, and in civilization! Already white men have begun to labor in the field with colored men, and think it no dishonor, and they will find by experience, that labor, instead of being a curse, will prove to be a blessing. We shall become, by constant intercourse and social, friendly relations, a homogeneous people, and continuing united under the most beneficent government ever devised by human wisdom, we shall soon become the most prosperous, the most wealthy, and the most powerful nation on the earth. X.

EARLY CUT HAY.—Dr. Nichols, the judicious editor of the Boston Journal of Chemistry, records an experiment on this subject which cannot but have great interest for farmers. He says that he had one acre of grass, redtop and clover that was cut June 19, and the hay stored by itself. On the first of last March he put his herd of ten cows upon it, and the immediate increase in the flow of milk amounted to ten quarts per day. The hay fed them before was of the same variety, but cut after the middle of July.

The early cut hay "spent" fully as well as the latter cut, no more of it was consumed, and Dr. Nichols estimates that the money value of the product from this hay, fed to ten cows, was greater by near a dollar a day than from the other. Dr. Nichols also repeats the opinion he has expressed before, that most hay is dried too much, and declares that, if grass is entirely freed from external moisture, as that in the form of dew and rain, it will cure better in the mow than anywhere else, provided enough exposure to wind and sun is had to cause one-half the water circulating in the vessels of the plant to be evaporated. This is accomplished in from six or eight hours of favorable weather.

—Wherever we find a country divided up into small estates, each and every owner working his land with his own hands, we find a brave, patriotic and free people, enjoying competence and domestic comfort with manly dignity.

THE CASE OF MR. STUROC.—It will be remembered that at the September Trial Term, 1867, of the Supreme Judical Court in Sullivan County, a rule was granted against William C. Sturoc, Esq., of Sunapee, commanding him to come into court and show cause why an attachment should not issue against him for contempt of court, in writing and causing to be published in the Argus and Spectator, printed at Newport, an article animadverting upon a liquor seizure case against Welcome A. Angell, to be tried at that term.

The case against Mr. S. created quite a sensation in Sullivan County at the time, and was the subject of several articles published in the Argus and Spectator and N. H. Patriot, in which the cause of Mr. S. was espoused, and severely censuring the Attorney who moved for the rule, and the court for granting it.

The case was transferred for the consideration of the full bench, and at the Law Term held at Newport, on the 22d inst., was decided against Mr. Sturoc, Chief Justice Perley delivering the opinion.

After reading the article, at length, upon which the prosecution was founded, the Chief Justice proceeded to deliver a very able, and somewhat extended opinion, the conclusion of which was, in substance, that the publication of Mr. Sturoc was a wholly unjustifiable and inexcusable attempt to corrupt the course of justice by interfering with and influencing, improperly, the result of a case pending and to be tried before a judicial tribunal, and ordered that Mr. Sturoc be brought into court at the next Trial Term, to be holden at Newport, in September, to receive sentence for his offence. What the punishment will be was not intimated by the court. Monitor.

PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE.—Judge S. gave his son a thousand dollars, telling him to go to college and graduate. The son returned at the end of the Freshman year without a dollar, and with several ugly habits. About the close of the vacation the Judge said to his son:

"Well, William, are you going to college this year?"

"Have no money, father."

"But I gave you a thousand dollars to graduate on."

"It's all gone, father."

Very well, my son; it was all I could give you; you can't stay here; you must now pay your own way in the world."

A new light broke in upon the vision of the astonished young man. He accommodated himself to the situation; he left home, made his way to college, graduated at the head of his class, studied law, became Governor of the State of New York, entered the Cabinet of the President of the United States, and has made a record for himself that will not soon die, being none other than William H. Seward.

What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts collied in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

Is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saudoric with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being obnoxious to the vinous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the circulation, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most refreshing and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our "LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." CURING GRASS, OR DRYING HAY.—The idea has become somewhat prevalent that grass, after being cut, can be dried so much in the sun as to injure its nutritive value. Some claim that drying darkens its color, breaks off the leaves and turns the stock to wood, and the better way would be to partially dry the grass, store it in the barn and put on salt and lime for a preservative. This may be true; still, it is usually safe to examine the reasons or causes of results, especially if such results are contrary to our ordinary observation. I believe that the quicker and more completely grass is dried the better, and that the sun has no damaging effect upon it.

In the summer of 1868 I took a handful of clover, which is the most difficult of all grasses to cure, and hung it in the sun during the day on a post by the side of the house, and at night removed it so that no dew could fall upon it. After several days its color in blossom and leaf was quite fresh and green, and on chewing leaf or stalk there was the same taste as in freshly plucked clover. The sun did not injure the sample.

Then if we consider the ingredients of grass, as given in an article in Hall's Journal of Chemistry—gluten, sugar and starch—are any of these substances injured by drying? In making maple sugar in warm days in spring, the sap and syrup speedily sour if exposed to the air, and the sugar is better if the evaporation of the water is effected quickly. In making vinegar from maple sap or cider, the process is accelerated by its exposure to the air in small quantities, as by filtering through a barrel of shavings. So in wilted grass, the diluted sugar is not only liable to sour, but does sour, when laying thro' a warm night saturated with dew.

If we take the constituents of grass as they exist, in a more concentrated form, in corn, wheat or barley, and pack them in a partially-dried state, as hay is often packed, and allow them to ferment and steam as hay is allowed to do, the gluten, starch and sugar are speedily so changed as to spoil the grain for food. If the housekeeper uses meal from such damaged grain, she may prepare it for food, but those who partake of it will detect the "mould," or whatever we may call the result of the fermentation. So hay that ferments in the mow till it gives off a sour odor, and afterwards becomes dry, reveals doubtless a similar sour mustiness during the process of mastication. As heated and musty grain is not as healthy or nutritious as that kept dry and sweet, we conclude that the same is true of soured and heated hay.

If I could have my hay made and put into the barn in a perfectly satisfactory manner, I should desire a good hay day, in which the dew would dry off early in the morning, and before it was entirely gone, say half-past seven o'clock, I would start the mowing machine and cut an acre an hour till noon; then after dinner, if it seemed desirable, stir with the hay tedder again, but begin to rake with the horse rake before the grass is dry enough to break badly; bearing in mind that the stirring, raking and tumbling should be done while the hay is drying and not after it is so dry that the leaves and heads will break off and be lost. At about three or four o'clock, the hay that yields from one to two tons per acre of timothy, red top and clover, will be dry in the hot sun and ready to cart, and a smart gang of hands will, if the barns are conveniently and centrally situated, put the hay under cover. That hay, if dry, will come out in the winter in good shape.

In a poor hay day, I would mow, shake and rake the same, getting all the moisture out possible, and if it was half dried and the weather seemed likely to be unfavorable, I would get it in, preferring to risk the damage in the mow rather than the effect of wetting.

The effect of a shower is very bad; much of the nutriment in grass being very soluble, as is shown by the manner stockmen raise calves occasionally. Put a handful of hay into a pail and pour boiling water upon it; the water soon turns of a dark color and is quite a nourishing drink for calves, and takes the place of milk. Thus a shower of rain in a warm day upon hay must wash out much of the soluble matter, and the soluble part is nutritious. The dew does not wash the the hay, but dilutes the sugar so that it is likely to turn to vinegar. Dew, however, does not injure hay until it is wilted. When it wilts it is dead, and unless dried, decomposition commences. If it is necessary to leave in the field partially dried hay free from water, it keeps better in cocks covered with hay caps.—New England Farmer.

—A young man, "illiterate but polite," on being invited to attend a wedding, sent a note in response saying "I regret that circumstances repugnant to the acquiesce will prevent my acceptance of the invite."

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [jel5 5w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1869.

The News.

Several persons have been prostrated with cholera in New York within a few days.

The Athletics won the base ball match with the Atlantics at Philadelphia on Monday. Score, 36 to 21.

Empress Eugenie of France is coming to this country next year.

Admiral Dahlgren is soon to be relieved from duty as head of the naval Ordnance Bureau, and will probably be ordered to the command of one of the navy yards.

The Connecticut House of Representatives on Thursday passed a bill to strike out the word "white" from the suffrage clause in the State Constitution, by a vote of 116 yeas to 88 nays.

The Great Eastern, with the French Atlantic Cable, arrived off St. Pierre's, Newfoundland, on Monday, having successfully laid the cable, which is in excellent working order.

POLLARD ON THE CONFEDERACY.—Pollard's new book, the Secret History of the Confederacy, makes a great many damaging disclosures of the democratic party which was in power in James Buchanan's administration.—In the 6th chapter of his book, he speaks of Secession as having gone on from January to March, "without any counter action on the part of the North, and even without any preparation of the Washington Government, in the shape of any act or appropriation by Congress, to overthrow or check the movement."

In this connexion it is pertinent to remember that President Buchanan maintained the absurd doctrine that the United States could not constitutionally coerce a State, even if it were in rebellion—and that he acted accordingly.

In the same chapter, Pollard shows very plainly that the leading democratic politicians of the South plotted Secession and separation—not the people of the South, who never voted for it!

He closes the 6th chapter in these words:—"Certainly history has had few instances of such daring and strident usurpation as that commenced by fourteen men plotting Revolution in a committee room at Washington, and consummated by an irresponsible Convention proclaiming a war, electing a leader, and organizing a government, without let or hindrance!"

Reader, this is a picture drawn by the pen of a rebel of the Southern Cabal which raised the rebel standard,—which was so admired and aided by the Northern Copperheads,—and which the same party at the North would like to see once more restored to power!

☞ The residence of Mr. James H. Wilmot, of Washington township, Ind., was burned last week, and four young children were consumed in the flames. The parents were attending church services in the neighborhood, leaving their children, the oldest aged eight years, the youngest one year, at home. They had left a coal-oil lamp burning in the house, and locked the door, so as to make the house secure against any one attempting to enter it. The children had gone to bed, and while sleeping, it is supposed, the coal-oil lamp exploded, setting fire to the house. The children, awakened by the fire, or two of them, at least, attempted to escape, but in vain. They then commenced screaming and shrieking in a most heartrending manner for help. Their cries were heard, but too late, for the flames were then curling about the windows, and no human aid could succor them. Two of them fell dead by the door, where their charred remains were found. The other two, the youngest, perished in the bed, being burned to ashes.

☞ One hundred guns were fired in New York on Monday, by order of Mayor Hall, in honor of the quick passage of Bennett's yacht Dauntless from New York to Queenstown!

☞ Two of the wealthiest distillers in Pennsylvania have been sentenced to fines and imprisonment for violations of the revenue laws.

☞ American Girl has beaten Lady Thorne, on the Fashion Course, Long Island. Time, 2.28 1-2, 2.24 3-4, 2.27 3-4, 2.24 1-2.

☞ The State Convention of Maine editors and publishers will be held at Portland during the first week in August.

☞ Secretary of the Navy Robeson and Admiral Porter are to visit the eastern Naval Stations, shortly.

The Engineering and Mining Journal, New York, July 4,—is number 1, of a new series, illustrated and enlarged.

New Hampshire Items.

A young son of Mr. Timothy Taylor of Upton, while playing in his father's barn, on the 6th, met with a serious accident, from the effects of which he is not expected to recover. He was wounded in the bowels by the tines of a pitchfork, which were forced in several inches.

Alderman John Chandler's house at Nashua, was robbed on Sunday night of a gold watch and $40 in bills.

Frank Rogers of Henniker, on Sunday night, being half drunk, attacked his father, who being old and feeble cried out for help.—Baxter Dustin, a young man, tried to help him; but the drunken son attacked him, broke his collar bone, and dislocated one of his shoulders.

Darwin J. Norcross, son of Joshua Norcross, of Rindge, was drowned in Coffin's pond, in Winchendon, Mass., on the afternoon of the 3d instant. He had ridden a horse into the water, when the animal became restive and threw him off. He immediately sunk without once rising to the surface, and when his body was recovered, the print of the horse's hoof was found on his forehead. Norcross was about twenty-three years old, and a member of Charity Lodge of Masons, of East Jaffrey.

The Lake Village Times says that the house and barn of Benjamin Twombly and the house of Mrs. Paul Twombly, in Gilmanton, were destroyed by fire on the 1st inst. The furniture and clothing of Mrs. Twombly were nearly all consumed. The fire was occasioned by children playing with matches. No insurance.

An old farmer, from Atkinson, was arrested the other day, in Lawrence, for putting stones into his load of hay, brought to market, for the purpose of increasing its weight. He seems to have put about 115 pounds of stones into the load, which he was detected in pulling out after the hay had been weighed. And from some evidence, on his examination before a justice, it would seem that he, or some one else, has long been at this trick; for one witness testified that he had been annoyed, for a year or two past, at times, by piles of country stones, moss-covered, being left where Morrill was seen unloading his stones.

Mr. Silas P. Cook was ordained pastor of the Congregational church in Marlborough, June 24. Rev. Alfred Emerson of Fitchburg, Mass., preached the sermon. Rev. G. Lyman, the retiring pastor, preached between 27 and 28 years without being installed.

The 70th birth-day of Rev. N. Bouton occurred on the 20th ult. He preached half the day with his usual vigor. Besides being State Historian and Chaplain of the Asylum for the Insane, he preaches three Sabbaths out of four, at Canterbury.

Rev. R. Kimball of North Conway, is to supply for the present, the churches in Effingham, and Parsonsfield, Me.

THE N. H. UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION Had its annual convention on Wednesday and Thursday (July 7th and 8th), at Laconia. The report from the churches, Wednesday afternoon, showed a very decided increase of interest throughout the State in Liberal Christianity. There was no expression of discouragement from any quarter, and it was evident that a very earnest spirit of pratical religous work existed in every one of the societies represented.

President — Hon. Daniel Clarke, Manchester. Vice Presidents — Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett, Portsmouth; Mrs. J. F. Lovering, Concord. Secretary—Rev. Charles B. Ferry, Peterborough. Treasurer — Charles Burley, Esq. Directors — Rev. J. M. L. Babcock, Lancaster; Woodbury Melcher, Esq., Laconia; P. C. Cheney, Esq., Manchester; Rev. Geo. M. Rice, Dublin; Mrs. A. E. Daniell, Franklin; Mrs. Augusta Fuller, Peterborough; Miss Mary A. Foster, Portsmouth.

On Thursday evening Rev. C. V. De-Normandie, was installed as Pastor of the Unitarian Society at Laconia.

NAVAL. — The steamer Seminole, Commander Owen, sailed from Hampton Roads on Sunday for the West Indies. She is one of the iron-clads ordered to re-enforce our squadron on the Cuban coast, on account of the investigation ordered by the President into the execution of Americans at Santiago. The Centaur has already sailed for the same destination, and the Dictator will follow immediately.

☞ Among the graduates of the Salem Normal School, on Thursday, were Maria A. Burbank, of Danville; Hattie A. Watson, Northwood Narrows; and Lucy B. Wiggin, of Wakefield, this State. "The Strength of the Hills," was the title of a very pretty poem, by Miss Wiggin.

☞ The mechanics and laborers at the Navy Yard are to begin work at eight o'clock instead of seven, and to continue until five instead of four as heretofore.

COUNTERFEIT SCRIP. — The mysterious origin of the mass of counterfeit five and fifty cent scrip now in circulation, was traced last Saturday by officers in the secret service to four men in New York city, who seemed to have been largely engaged in manufacturing and negotiating counterfeit currency. On the persons of the parties arrested was found a large sum of money, good and bad. The trunk of one of them contained a jimmy, a dark lantern and other burglar's tools. Very little has been heard lately of counterfeit money beyond the fractional currency which circulates so freely, almost unquestioned. So much of this is afloat, and it is so difficult to distinguish the bogus from the genuine, that counterfeiters themselves have thought it hardly worth the trouble of manufacturing any more.—Boston Advertiser.

We have very little five cent scrip in this vicinity; the metallic fives are sufficient. We have 10, 25 and 50 cent scrip; —and we have, doubtless, a small share of the counterfeit. — We had a great flow of it at one time, years ago; but the prosecution of a suspected person, on whose premises some of the bogus scrip was found, seemed to check the tide at once,—and though the accused was not convicted, but pronounced not guilty by the jury, — yet there has never been a great influx here, since that time.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—During a fire at South Boston Saturday night, Henry White, 40 years of age, while looking at the flames from a fourth-story window at 876 Federal street, lost his balance, and falling out upon the pavement was almost instantly killed. He belonged in Quincy.

FACTS FOR THE LADIES.—I have used a Wheeler & Wilson Sewing-Machine in my shop for eight years, on an average of eight hours a day, making garments from the heaviest beaver to the finest cambric. I have taught at least twenty different persons to run it, and you know beginners do not improve a machine. It has never been out of repair, and is good for ten years more if used properly.

MRS. A. F. STRICKLAND,
Ware, Mass. Dress and Cloak Maker.

—A highly intelligent lady, a resident of Syracuse, N. Y., says that she was afflicted nearly a year, periodically, with derangement of the circulation, the blood rushing to the lungs with such force as to threaten congestion and death. This was attended with the most intense pain in all parts of the body. Failing to obtain relief from any of the physicians whom she employed from time to time, she was induced to try the PLANTATION BITTERS, and to her surprise and joy they have relieved her, and she is now in good health and flesh. 23

TWENTY DOLLARS A YEAR is a small sum to pay for a sense of security against loss by fire or theft of those valuables so large a proportion of mankind possess, such as bonds, deeds, mortgages, plate, laces, jewelry, diamonds, &c., and yet that sum will rent a safe in the UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State street, Boston, which are as perfect as human ingenuity can devise. Larger safes range from $25 to $100 a year. The managers also receive at low rates, for safe keeping, valuable paintings, rare books, choice works of art, family plate, town records, &c. The Manager, Henry Lee, will furnish circulars with full information.

THE LATEST DISCOVERY
In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obtained. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It combines two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and contained in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible nauseous compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular physicians.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Conclusive Evidence in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

W. H. REESE, a leading druggist in Monticello, Ill., in a letter of June 14, 1868, writes as this effect:—"Having sold Hostetter's Bitters for the past four years, I cannot but speak of the article as being the best tonic and appetizer extant. During the ague season of 1865—6, I could not keep a sufficient stock on hand to supply my customers. In fact your Bitters was as staple as quinine. I learn that physicians prescribe it all over the western country. Indeed, a great many families think they are not safe without your invaluable tonic."

J. K. WITHERSPOON, a magistrate of Kershaw county, S. C., states, under date April 13, 1868, that he has used the Bitters constantly in his own family for the previous two years. He first tried the preparation when suffering from a debilitation produced by a severe attack of fever. Before the first bottle was finished he experienced a remarkable change for the better. He had been suffering at the time, but found that did him more harm than good. In one month from the time he commenced using the Bitters his health, strength and appetite were restored. He had recommended the articles to others in like circumstances, and never known to fail, and he found it a perfect specific for chills and fever.

MR. SAMUEL YOUNG, of Clarion, Pa., under date April 6, 1868, certifies that he was completely cured of "one of the most distressing attacks of bilious that ever afflicted any mortal," by three bottles of the Bitters, after "various other remedies had proved powerless." Restored to perfect health, he thanks "that excellent preparation for the result."

Dr. G. M. SPENCER, of Brush Creek, Perry Co., Ala., writing thus, on Jan. 1, 1868, says:—"I have used your Stomach Bitters for several years in my practice, and find them superior to most of the Bitters now prescribed by the profession generally." 1yr

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a cholic followed by slimy, bilious stools. Therefore we conclude that these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. I. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had not seen a cheerful and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-five boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. jel7

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskillful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where cholera and bowel disease is more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates. jel9

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, mature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts, make gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented equal to mercurial dosing poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care; that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach in throwing off the acids which prevent the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Dilcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a patient has consumption, of coarse the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are in a state of inflammation, or else ulcerating. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to heal the lungs commence healing, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, all physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yjas4

THE THEATRE TO-NIGHT.—So seldom is it that our citizens are favored with a first class dramatic entertainment that we are of the opinion that the audience which will assemble at the Temple this (Wednesday) evening will be large in numbers and select in quality. The notice of the coming of the popular actress, Miss Kate Reignolds, has been short, yet we expect to see a large audience greet her re-appearance in Portsmouth after an absence of several years, during which she has been on a tour in Europe.

Miss Reignolds is well known as one of the most talented ladies who grace the stage at the present time, and will be remembered by theatre-goers as the leading lady at the Boston Museum—a half dozen or more years ago. She is sustained by a full stock company, and the ever popular and intensely interesting drama "Dora", which had such a run in Boston the past season at Selwyns, is selected for the commencement of the evening's entertainment.

Our citizens who have seen Mrs. Chanfrau as "Dora" will wish to see how Miss Reignolds assumes the part, and from the reputation of the latter and her experience on the stage, we are prepared to see "Dora" personified in as truthful and affecting a manner as by the winsome Mrs. Chanfrau.

The play itself is one of the best ever put upon the American stage, being devoid of all indecency or appeals to the lowest feelings. The afterpiece, "Jenny Lind," is also unexceptionable. Without hesitation we can commend the performance as worthy the attention of the best classes of our citizens, and we are confident that those who attend will not regret it and those who do not will wish they had!

☞ Mr. E. T. Huntress' loss by the burning of his barns Thursday night, was serious. All his outbuildings are gone, and about twenty tons of old and five tons of new hay, including a load on a wagon standing in the floor. Also carriages, nearly all his farming and joiner's tools and implements, a pig, hens, &c. Granite State Engine No. 5, from this city, was dragged heavily by the Company clear up through the new Myrtle Road to the scene of destruction, but for lack of hose could do little good; and even after a team was sent to town for several hundred feet it was still too short. The flames spread very rapidly, and burnt with great fierceness. The loss must be $2000 or $2500. Insured $1200. The house caught several times, and had there been much wind must have gone too.

☞ If the Republican County Convention of Rockingham for 1868, could not find one of their own party for chairman of the Building Committee for a County House, we think they would have played their cards better to pass it rather than order it up,—especially seeing that their constituents almost unanimously were opposed to it.

And if the Government, or the Republican leaders, can't find loyal and true men enough to fill all the offices, at least, at the Navy Yards, if the rule is not extened to workmen, as it should be, we say close them up. Put none but loyal men on guard.

Communication.

THE SPRING at Spring hill has afforded the purest and the coldest water in the city, and is invaluable. Many have daily used the water, and for at least a century vessels going to sea have been supplied with its water. New logs ought to be laid, otherwise the Spring may be entirely lost. It is said that vessels now have to purchase water of the aqueduct company. The attention of the city authorities should be called to this matter. AQUA.

TARDY JUSTICE.—Mr. D. Webster Barnabee of this city has been employed as a Writer in the Constructor's Department at the Navy Yard. This is as it should be, only a little late! Web. deserved a good situation there long ago, more especially as he was made the object of persecution by the Johnsonites when they were in power there,—and we know that a more satisfactory appointment has not been made, than this one.

☞ The meetings of the American Institute of Instruction will be held in this city, August 3, 4 and 5. Hon. Joseph White of Massachusetts, Prof. E. S. Morse of Salem, President J. T. Champlin of Waterville, Me., and Prof. J. S. Woodman of Dartmouth College, will be among the principal speakers.

☞ On Friday Mr. George Weeks of Greenland (Bayside) fell from a load of hay, while it was being driven into a barn, and fractured his leg. Dr. J. F. Hall of this city was called and re-set the broken limb.

☞ Sunday was the warmest day of the season, in this city. The thermometer indicated a temperature of 92 degrees.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.—The County Convention at Concord appropriated the following sums for the present year:

For State Pay rolls	$3,550
Jury " "	5,000
Pauper expenses, including those at Reform School and N. H. Insane Asylum,	30,000
Exeter & Ports. Jail expenses	2,200
Payment bonds (New)	12,000
" " (Old)	3,000
Interest on new bonds	3,420
" " old "	720
Do on Notes and Notes outstanding	1000
Miscellaneous, including Books, Stationery, Solicitors and Treas Salaries, Sheriff's fees, Printing, &c.	7000
For Painting County House, estimated	1655
	$69,545.

This is nearly the amount recommended by last year's board of County Commissioners, based upon the expenses of last year. The Commissioners called for $35,000 for pauper expenses, instead of $30,000 as given; and they also recommended appropriations of $2000 for fitting the old dwelling house on the County Farm for a Hospital, and an appropriation (say $5,000) for a new Barn—both which it was decided to postpone until next year, to see how the new institution works, if the County gets into it, and what is needed in these respects. The total of appropriations last year was about $54,000, we believe; the present year, as above, it is $69,545.

The Building Committee appointed by the Convention of last year, to purchase a Farm and construct the County House, and then in conjunction with the County Commissioners, to furnish the same—were served with an injunction by the Commissioners, to restrain the Committee from taking any action beyond finishing the building, as the Commissioners claim undivided jurisdiction in the furnishing, and they have purchased some live stock and tools for the Farm and furniture for the House.

There is also a complicated dispute between the contractors who built the house, and the Building Committee, involving several hundred dollars claimed on each side, and which may result in a lawsuit on the part of the contractors. At the County Convention, each side had its opposers and defenders; the Building Committee, with Mr. Redding as chairman, while pronounced on all hands to be above suspicion for integrity and faithfulness, were yet held chargeable for all the delay and complications, from their want of capacity and experience, and penny-wise, pound-foolish parsimony, in failing to provide detailed plans and specifications for the building.

It was proposed to relieve the Committee of further duty, and to place the whole matter, including the disputed claims, in the hands of the Commissioners for settlement; but after considerable debate, it was resolved to approve the action of the Committee, and authorize them to endeavor to push the affair to a speedy settlement. So the Committee, with its eminent Copperhead chairman, will continue to draw pay from the County still longer,—to the confusion and disgrace of the Convention of 1868, which assumed to build a County House at all after the overwhelming vote of the people against it. The outrage is especially great and glaring as regards Portsmouth, with the present excellent accommodations for the poor, and no desire or toleration for the County plan, even though it may be a few per cent. cheaper.

The Building Committee made no report of their doings to the Convention, but the chairman stated that he thought the $20,000 appropriation of last year would pay for the building, except painting. He did not, however, state the amount of the Committee's bill, for pay and expenses, but it is reported this will be $1500 to $2000,—which wouldn't seem to be quite so bad, if it had been expended on good Republicans, and had procured what the County desired, or rather didn't desire, but the Convention did. But never mind,—let us wait to the end as patiently as we may, and see what we shall see, always hoping for the best; and with malice towards none, but charity for all, let us speak of a man as we find him.

Although Portsmouth pays so large a portion of the County Tax, yet the Treasurer's Account has always been published in the Exeter News Letter only. The Convention this year,

Resolved, That the County Commissioners be instructed to prepare and publish a detailed account of County expenses, at the close of the present financial year, and to furnish at least 25 copies of the same to each of the towns in the county.

[From the St. Louis (Mo.) Democrat, June 14.]

AN OUTLAW.

Sam. Hildebrand, who during the war was a notorious bushwhacker, has long been the terror of St. Francois and Washington Counties. He is known to have killed no less than seventy-eight men, and his robberies are unnumbered. He keeps the tally of his victims by cutting nicks in the butt of his rifle. He had been repeatedly pursued, shot at and wounded by officers of justice, but has always continued to escape capture by boldly assailing his pursuers.

This terrible outlaw wore a steel plate upon his breast and another on his back, and is considered bullet proof. Time and again has he been shot in the breast, but the bullet glanced off, and with a demoniac laugh the assassin has defied his pursuers. He has an uncle, named Williams, residing in St. Francois County, about twelve miles from Irondale, and spends a good deal of his time at his house. He has many friends on Big River, who befriended him in the hour of danger, while those who dislike him, and would rejoice to see him brought to justice, are afraid to say or do anything against him. When he takes a dislike to a man he lies in wait for him on the roadside or near a field, and thinks no more of putting a bullet through a man's heart than shooting a squirrel.

During the rebellion, Hildebrand went to the house of James McClain, a soldier of the Tenth Missodri, outraged his wife, and carried off all his stock, clothing, &c. On his return home, McClain swore vengeance against the outlaw, and has ever since pursued him with a firm determination to rid the earth of such a monster. About a week ago the two met, and McClain shot Hildebrand in the thigh, but he made his escape.

The people of St. Francois county applied last winter to the Chief of Police of this city for assistance in capturing the desperado, and men were sent there on several occasions, but have never been able to get a sight of the man. On Friday week McClain, Sheriff Breckinridge, of Washington county, with fourteen picked men from Potosi, De Soto and Irondale went to the house of Williams, where Hildebrand was stopping, for the purpose of assisting in arresting or killing him.

The cabin of Williams is built of logs with the daylight shining through the chinking. The desperado was alone, the family of Williams having fled. Approaching the door, Sheriff Breckinridge called upon Hildebrand to surrender, as there was no hope of his escape, the house being surrounded by sixteen men. The reply made by Hildebrand was in keeping with his character. He coolly thrust his left hand out at the door and shot Breckinridge in the groin, inflicting a frightful and dangerous wound. McClain fired and struck Hildebrand in the thigh. Andrew Bean fired twice, the bullets striking Hildebrand on the breast, and glancing off on his steel vest. McClain entered an old kitchen near by, and was looking through a crevice between the logs, to see the position of the robber and murderer, when Hildebrand fired at him, the ball striking his heart and killing him on the spot.

After shooting McClain, Hildebrand remained in the house, firing and receiving repeated volleys from without, until about nine o'clock at night, when he left his fort, and jumping over the fence, fled to the woods. A shower of bullets followed him, and he was hit and dropped his gun and his hat, but effected his escape.

In the meantime a dispatch had been sent to Capt. Lee, of this city, urging him to send some men down, and stating that the man was surrounded at the house of Williams.

Officers Bowen (formerly Colonel of the Tenth Missouri), McQueen and Voorhies were sent down. They took the cars to Irondale, and from there walked to the house of Williams. They arrived at the house early on Saturday morning, and there learned the tragic events related above. It was useless for them to undertake to pursue Hildebrand, and so they returned to the city.

It really appears incredible that a single man should keep two entire counties in awe and dread; that no one can be found bold enough to follow and attack this outlaw, and that his murders and depredations should be so tamely submitted to. Such, however, we are assured, is the fact. It may become necessary for the Governor to order out a company or a regiment of soldiers to hunt down this wild beast.

A RUNAWAY HORSE STOPPED BY A DOG.—When the Cheshire Road passenger train was coming up to the Bellows Falls Depot to-day, a horse hitched to a wagon, and standing near the track, started, full speed, toward the Island House. The Island House dog, a big fellow, was lying by the coach near the depot. He started and ran by the horse, and, jumped up before him, stopped him, so that he was taken without any damage being done to either horse or wagon. The old dog went back and laid down by the coach, and when passengers made remarks about him he looked up and seemed as proud as a boy with a new jacket.—Claremont Eagle.

—The newspapers are generally complaining of the want of facilities given correspondents at the White House for obtaining news. As they cannot ascertain the truth, many of them telegraph lies instead.

—"Is your house a warm one, landlord?" asked a gentleman in search of a dwelling. "It ought to be," was the reply, "the painter gave it two coats, recently."

POLISH REFUGEES AND EXILES.—The Poles held a meeting at their headquarters, in New York, for the purpose of electing officers and making arrangements for the tricentennial celebration of the peaceful union of ancient Lithuania, Sodalio and Galicia, with the kingdom of Poland, in 1569. The assembling will take place, August 11th. Several ancient medals, representing the old ceremonials enacted in those olden days, are now being made in Paris. Of the officers elected, Col. Julian Allen is President and Chairman of the Standing Committee. The following resolution was offered and adopted:

"Whereas, the Poles, with a deep love of liberty, entertain a fellow-feeling for every nation and people struggling for the same, we now offer our heartfelt sympathy with the poor but brave struggling Cubans, and we would render those unfortunate people material aid, if in our power. It is, indeed, a shame that the United States Government withhold belligerent rights from the Cubans, who are all-deserving and entitled to them, and especially as they struggle for freedom. During the late revolution in this country, all (with few exceptions) European despots accredited belligerent rights to the Southern people, when that struggle was only slavery on one hand and a liberal Government, with free institutions, on the other. By accrediting belligerent rights, Christianity, if no other reason, demands it, to stop the murderous depredations of Spain.

☞ India Fire Crackers seem to be going out of fashion. They have made, in past days, terrible fires in New York, Boston and Portland, on the 4th of July. On the 5th, in this city, this year, very few were fired; in Salem, Mass., none! The Salem Gazette says:—

Our police authorities are entitled to very great credit, for putting an end at once, and we trust forever, to the firecracker nuisance; and the consequence was a feeling of comfort and of safety, last Monday, to which our citizens have long been strangers on the anniversary of independence. An observance of the same strictness in all our towns and cities would soon bring down insurance to the rates maintained before the Portland conflagration.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania have sustained, in the most unqualified manner, the constitutionality of the Philadelphia Registry law passed at the last session of the Legislature, thus overruling the recent nisi prius decision of Judge Sharswood.

—A printer's apprentice says that at the office they charge him with all the pi they do find, and at the house they charge him with all the pie they don't find. He does not understand that kind of logic.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining chyme and allows it to pass through the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saudoritic with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting prespiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the venous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. A cold fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our "LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." The fact that they this year renew the order and increase the amount is the best argument we can give that these "LISTS" are good advertising mediums.

The Old Man to His Daughter.

Star of my love, that o'er my night did rise,
Come here, fond idol of my doting pride,
That I may feast my fading eyes
On thee, fair image of my long lost bride.

The light that quivers o'er thy tress
And gleams with holy radiance on thy brow,
Bathing in softened hues thy loveliness,
Has brought thy mother's form before me now.

I love to watch the gentle mirror of thy face,
Beaming with love and warmed with tender light,
It is thy mother's picture that I trace,
And all my buried love returns more bright.

And when I hear thy voice so musical and low,
I sometimes think it was all a dream,
And that she has not left me here in woe,
So much art thou like her, 'twould seem.

Sing me that song she loved so well,
'Twas one she sung in other days to me,
And as my soul trembles beneath its spell,
I'll think 'twas she that woke this melody.

O! daughter of my first and holiest love, [me,
Thy mother's memory like fragrance clings to
In dreams I see her in the clouds above,
I wake and see her still in thee.

PHILIP O'NEILL.

SMART MEN.—There are 17,919 names who pay an income tax in New York city. Sixty-seven persons who pay tax on incomes of $100,000 or over. Most of these solid gentlemen are self-made men, who have come up from the lowest round of the ladder. The man who leads the list, A. T. Stewart, everybody knows is an Irish emigrant, who commenced life with a capital of less than twenty-five cents; indeed, with few exceptions, most of the parties in the list were scarce as well off as Mr. Stewart. Take Henry Keep; he boasts that he graduated from the poorhouse of Jefferson county. Jay Gould drove a herd of cattle from Delhi, Delaware county, when a lad, for fifty cents a day, in order to get money enough to reach the Hudson River. David Groesbeck, over thirty years ago, used to mend old shoes for his brother, who was a respectable shoemaker in Albany. We all know the history of James Gordon Bennett and Robert Bonner, poor boys full of talent and industry. Rufus Hatch, when a youngster, had an ambition to hold the reins of a peddler's wagon. E. D. Morgan commenced life with a quarter measure of molasses. It is scarce a dozen years since Henry Clews was an errand-boy in one of the banking houses down town. The brothers, Seligman started out in life with a peddler's pack. David Dows, in his younger days, retailed pork by the half pound and molasses by the gill. H. T. Hembold was first cabin-boy on the sloop Mary Jane, that navigated the Delaware river. We might go on through the list and show that nearly every one of these solid men were the architects of their own fortunes. Young men, who are struggling for place and position, should remember that the individuals in the list above had to battle for life just as hard as they are doing. Let them take heart and never say die.

Honor and shame from no condition rise.
Act well your part—there all the honor lies.

MARRIAGE EN CHEMISE.—In England, from early times until the present, a notion prevailed that if a man married a woman in her shift only, he was not liable for any debts which she might have contracted. This was a vulgar error, founded probably on the legal maxim that a husband is liable to his wife's debts because he upon marriage acquires an absolute interest in her personal estate; the unlearned deduction being that if the wife had no estate the husband would not incur any liability. The registry books of a village in Wilts, under date 1714, contain an entry of the marriage of a woman "in her smock, without any clothes or head gier on." At Ulcomb, in Kent, in 1735, a woman was married in her chemise.

At Whitehaven, in 1766, a woman stripped herself to her shift in the church, and in that condition she stood at the altar and was married. In Lincolnshire, between 1838 and 1844, a woman was married enveloped only in a sheet. And not many years back a similar marriage took place; the clergyman finding nothing in the rubric about the woman's dress, thought he could not refuse to marry her in her chemise only. At Kirton-in-Lindsay there was a popular belief that the woman must be actually nude when she left her residence for that of her intended husband, in order to relieve him from her debts; and a case of this kind occurred. A woman left her house from a bedroom window stark naked, and put on her clothes as she stood upon the top of the ladder by which she accomplished her descent. The notion of a marriage in a chemise was prevalent at Cottenham, in Cambridgeshire, recently.

AN EQUIVOCAL COMPLIMENT.—The Boston correspondent of the Belfast (Me.) Journal—a ladye faire—referring to the assemblage of newspaper men at the Boston Museum on Friday evening of Jubilee week, says:—"A view of them from a commanding seat revealed the fact that beauty and brains don't always go together."

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue to use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [Jel5 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1869.

The News.

A new ministry has been organized in Spain with General Prim at its head.

The Chinese labor convention is in session at Memphis.

The Irish Church bill finally passed the English House of Lords on Tuesday.

Baltimore has had a woman's suffrage convention.

The temperance party in New York is making active preparations for the coming political campaign.

The telegraph announces the deaths of two United States consuls: William Winthrop at Malta, and Mr. Stedman at Santiago de Cuba.

New York proposes to have a monster jubilee over the completion of the Pacific Railroad.

☞ The Cincinnati Chronicle tells the story of Rebecca Whale, aged 68 years, who, having passed all of her days in the bond (service of another, even since the emancipation of her race, has still remained in bondage to her former master, ignorant of her freedom, until released one week ago by a daughter whom she had not seen for a period of over twenty years. The mother and daughter arrived in Chicago last week from a plantation in the neighborhood of Lexington, Ky., where the old woman had been born and raised, and where the daughter, after a long search, had found her still doingdrudgery for the family, and living alone and neglected in a miserable hovel near the family mansion, with only a bundle of straw to sleep on. The daughter was sold from her mother when young and was taken to Louisiana, where she was liberated by the war.

A JOCKEY sold an animal, which he duly warranted to do his mile inside of three minutes. The purchaser took away his property, and proceeded to gratify his fondness for speed. The horse could do no such thing as the seller promised. Taking him back in a rage, the 'sold' party protested in loud voice that he had been swindled.

'How so?' inquired the other, with a provoking lack of interest in the matter.

'Why,' was the answer, 'you guaranteed that this horse would go a mile inside of three minnies!' 'Wal, won't he?' 'No, he won't make a mile in less than four!' The jockey leisurely surveyed the situation, and, with a leer that would have enraged a saint, broke forth upon his victim. 'I want to know,' said, 'if you are in such a hurry that you can't wait a minute!'

☞ Ellen: a poem, by George H. Calvert, gives the simple statement, "I am alone, will you not come to me, mother," in this wearisome, not to say teasing manner,—

"Will you not come to me, mother,
Will you not come to me?
I am alone, I am alone,
Come to me, mother, come to me,
I am alone, alone,
Come to me, come to me,
I am alone."

After "Ellen" has appealed to her mother in such touching strains she addresses her sister in another "verse" precisely like it except that "sister" is substituted for "mother" A critic suggests that her mother ought to have gone to her with a stick and a vial of paregoric.

Our Navy Yard Correspondence.

July 14.

The U. S. Steamers Benecia, Algoma and Wyoming arrived from Boston on Wednesday. Two tugs accompanied the latter.

Orders have been received to refit the U. S. S. Pawnee for sea within 30 days.

The U. S. S. Muscoota has been sold to a company owning a regular line of steamers, and is to sail for Boston today.

☞ Mr. Butterfield, cashier of the Bowdoinham Bank, is dead. He never recovered from the hard usage of the robbers, who are now in State Prison in Maine. Yet these robbers desired to be set at liberty, if they would give up some of the plunder. But Gov. Chamberlain could not see it. They are almost murderers, in consequence of the man's death.

☞ L. Augustus Fletcher, being moved with a proper respect for enterprise has employed Mr. — Penny as an assistant in the tonsorial art, at his establishment on Fleet Street. His customers are never penniless.

—The editor of the Waterbury American telegraphed the other day to Colonel A. H. Fenn at Plymouth—"Send us full particulars of the flood." The facetious Fenn replied, "You'll find them in Genesis."

—The Detroit Post thinks that our naval vessels, if we would have them inspire terror, should receive such names as Cholera and Yellow Fever, Nitro-Glycerine, Susan B. Anthony, Anna Dickinson, &c.

—A Cincinnati treasury agent caused himself to be locked up in a bank vault to escape the wrath of a tobacco dealer whose factory he had closed, and who was hunting him with a big whip.

TERRIBLE DROUTH IN THE WEST INDIES.—In the island of Trinidad the drouth is so intense that the deepest wells in the Port of Spain are almost dry. The country is completely burnt up with heat, and several fires had occurred with the most disastrous results. One of the fires had traversed 75 miles of country, destroying in its course thousands of acres of growing canes, and other fires had taken place on cocoa plantations with similar sad results.

In Guadaloupe public and private cisterns are alike dried up, and not a drop of fresh water is to be obtained. In the towns the inhabitants are seen at the corners of the streets, pumping and drinking the brackish water, while the distress of domestic animals is positively painful to witness.

In Grenada and Antigua the young canes are perishing for lack of moisture, months having elapsed since they have had a heavy fall of rain.

In Barbadoes the weather has been so dry that serious fears are entertained for next year's sugar crop, and in some parts of Jamaica people are actually giving nearly a day's labor for a bucket of water, while the water supply of Kingston, drawn from a river distant about three miles from the city, has so greatly diminished as to awaken serious apprehensions of consequences in case a fire should break out in the city.

☞ The celebration of the battle of the Boyne by the Orangemen in New York on Monday culminated in a fierce riot in the Bowery, caused by the antipathy between the Irish Catholics and the Orangemen. Order was not restored until the Protestants withdrew their procession and retired to their quarters under guard of the police. Many persons were injured, though none seriously. The Herald loses patience at the occurrence and says:—

Saint Patrick's Day processions and Orange processions should be put a stop to. Within a couple of years we have had swords used on our police officers, swords drawn in the streets, muskets fired and a church wrecked in Newark, N. J., with other outrages by Irish Catholics and Orangemen. Full time to end such displays.

☞ The Sisyphian experiment of a penny paper is to be tried again in Boston, by the Daily Times Association, Mr. C. Mgisen, manager. The publication of a daily at a price less than the cost of the white paper, is rather a forlorn hope; and it is to be wished that the new paper may be more worthy of patronage than any attempts under the title, in Boston or elsewhere in this region, of late years. The Times is announced as independent in all things, but neutral in none—the most difficult of all positions to occupy; and one might suspect a free rum paper, were it not that Boston has a plenty of that stamp now.

—The N. Y. Journal of Commerce thinks it the height of absurdity for the Democratic party to make any further resistance to negro suffrage. It says: "Men of sense understand the folly of contending with the past and inevitable. Politicians, who, as a general rule have the limited vision of grasshoppers, and no sense beyond the scent of the nearest flesh-pots, are the creatures who commit the ridiculous blunders of the California Democratic platform."

GEN. ROSECRANS.—The Ohio Democratic papers are hard up for capital in support of General Rosecrans, when they have to begin the campaign by saying that "his only enemy in the war was General Grant, who, at an early stage of the war, saw in him a rival destined to eclipse him."

The Cincinnati Commercial (Conservative) prints an extract from a letter written by General Rosecrans in 1863, in which he speaks of the Democratic party as follows:

"Wherever the havey the power they drive before them into their ranks the Southern people, and they would also drive us. Trust them not. Were they able they would invade and destroy us without mercy. Absolutely assured of these things, I am amazed that any one could think of peace on any terms. He who entertains the sentiment is fit only to be a slave; he who utters it, at this time, is moreover a traitor to his country, who deserves the scorn and contempt of all honorable men."

—A farmer in Ohio had a thrifty orchard, which blossomed freely but bore no fruit. He washed twelve of the trees once a week with strong soapsuds, and was gratified by a fine harvest the subsequent season.

—Salt, when mixed with manure, it is stated by a Belgian journal, will increase the natural productiveness of the soil to the extent of 250 per cent. Sea water is said to be equally efficient. These results were obtained from a series of experiments ranging over twenty-six years.

—The Petersburg, Va., Index records that a grand jury in Owen County, Ky., last week "presented" an aged woman of that place on the charge of being a witch.

THE TRAGEDY IN LEE.—The funeral of Mr. Crawford, who was shot by his son at Lee, last Tuesday, took place on Saturday at the old homestead farm in Nottingham, and was attended by a large concourse of people from the adjoining towns, where the deceased was well known. A very impressive sermon was preached on the occasion by Rev. A. G. Comings of Lee. The appearance of the afflicted family of the deceased excited much sympathy. His widow and children are overwhelmed with grief, especially the son who shot his father. His sorrow is acute, and he has the sympathy of the entire community, who fully justify him in the deed, as committed solely in self-defence. Mr. Crawford (writes a correspondent) was a man of generous impulses and had many good qualities, but was subject of late to uncontrollable fits of passion, and many of his friends have believed that he was partially insane. The affair has occasioned great excitement, as the family was of the first respectability.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on sufference and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success has only been commensurate with their true deserts. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

Petroleum V. Nasby terms "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" the "Fountin uv Youth," and his is not the only instance where it has "made the old man young again." It is warranted in every case to restore the hair to its natural color, and is a beautiful dressing. Wheeling Intelligencer.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

"FRESH AS A MAIDEN'S BLUSH"—Is the pure peachy Complexion which follows the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm. It is the True Secret of Beauty. Fashionable Ladies in society understand this.

The Magnolia Balm changes the rustic Country Girl into a City Belle more rapidly than any other one thing. Redness, Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Blotches and all effects of the Summer Sun disappear when it is used, and a genial, cultivated, fresh expression is obtained which rivals the Bloom of Youth. Beauty is possible to all who will invest 75 cents in any respectable store and insist on getting the Magnolia Balm. je21 1mw removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of him is derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without damage or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. If they are not in such a condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The main thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for if the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the brain, and the nervous system, being duly nurtured, will be likely to do theirs. In view of these facts it is manifest that a powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all correctives and invigorants, and for this reason it does not over-stimulate the system. The proportions of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants, however pure, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their exhilarating effect is temporary, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression they were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case when HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and grains with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit which forms their basis, and which is in itself the most wholesome of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obtained. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious and hepatic aperient, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a pinch of powder, or drench or pill.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a chelic followed by slimy, bilious stools. The relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cock, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-two boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. je17

Holloways Pills and Ointment.—Coughs and Colds, arising from checked perspiration or any other cause, may be immediately abated and rapidly cured by the use of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. If HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT be carefully rubbed into the chest and throat, it will assist in removing irritation from the lungs and windpipe, and materially aid the process of cure. PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, A SURE REMEDY. je19

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the obstructions in the lungs, liver, lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is thick a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon healthy; the stomach and bowels are free. Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless under the care of a physician) will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs are wrong; one may be diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are in a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wrong but the whole system. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, and it will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years, personally stops Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic is each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

☞ The Annual Exhibition of the Boys' High School will take place Friday, July 16, at half past 2 o'clock P. M.

☞ Dr. Gilbert is selling Tomatoes at 10 cts. per lb., not 16. You can always depend on his prices being as low as the market, at any rate; and it is safe to count any statement to the contrary as a mistake of figures.

☞ The new Houses advertised for sale by Mr. Webster, are very neat and desirable tenements—no doubt worth all he asks for them, whatever that may be, for he is a competent and economical builder. That on Union Street especially is quite ornamental.

☞ By his Card elsewhere, it willbe seen that Mr. Wm. H. Allen, who for the past seven years has had charge of the Hack of Messrs. Stoddard & Beacham, has purchased it and will continue to fill all orders for the transportation of passengers about the city and vicinity. Mr. Allen is well known to our citizens, is faithful and trusty and a careful driver, and we can assure those who need his services that he will always be found prompt and obliging.

☞ The Morris Brothers are traveling on their past reputation, and their concert here, Tuesday evening, was hardly up to the average. A Portsmouth audience is proverbially critical, and stale jokes are not appreciated here. The practice of introducing local "gags," in which the names of citizens are used without regard to their wishes in the matter, may amuse the gamins, but is hardly creditable to the performers. Common civility on the part of negro minstrels, even, is sometimes policy.

☞ Dick Carroll of the Morris Brothers minstrel troupe was arrested by two policemen, and conveyed to the Police Station, on Tuesday. The members of the troupe have been in the habit of displaying thenselves to the public and obstructing travel, while here, by placing chairs in front of the hotel at which they stopped; and occupied said chairs with their corpuses and the sidewalks with their brogans, greatly to the discomfort of passers-by. The City Marshall was obliged to warn them to clear the sidewalk in the afternoon, and at a latter hour Carroll was arrested for refusing to obey the officers of the law. He was released after apologising to the officers.

☞ The Annual Meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Railroad in New Hampshire, was held in this city on Tuesday. The board of last year, B. T. Reed, Robert W. Hooper, George M. Browne, W. H. Y. Hackett and William M. Shackford, were re-elected unanimously. B. T. Reed was subsequently re-elected president, and William H. Hackett clerk.

The stockholders of the Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway Railroad, on the same day, at their meeting, elected George M. Browne, W. H. Y. Hackett, Ichabod Goodwin, B. T. Reed and George W. Burleigh, directors, and the Board subsequently elected George M. Browne president, and William H. Hackett, clerk.

The two Boards and other guests were afterwards handsomely entertained by Hon. B. T. Reed, of Boston, at Boar's Head Hotel, at Hampton Beach.

☞ The New Hampshire Printers and Editors' Association are to hold their second Annual Convention at Plymouth, N. H., (the elegant Pemigewasset House) to-day and to morrow. The Address will be by Rev. T. H. Miller of the Portsmouth Chronicle, and the Poem by Lt. Geo. A. Marden of the Lowell News.

The fraternity generally in Maine, Vermont and Massachusetts are invited as guests; and a good time is expected. The party will arrive at Plymouth Thursday afternoon, and proceed to Centre Harbor and Lake Winnepisaukie Friday, where they will spend the day.

It is proposed that the Maine and New Hampshire Associations hold their Conventions together next year; and Portsmouth, Rye Beach and the Shoals are proposed as the location.

HAPPY AS A CLAM.—On motion of Mr. Durgin of Hampton, a bill was passed by the Legislature, forbidding the digging of Clams in that town during the months of June, July and August. Quite a lively discussion grew out of it, during which a number of jokes were perpetrated, which the reporter for the Monitor termed execrable, but which he probably only meant to say were clammy.

Mr. Reding called up the bill from the table, but was himself opposed to its passage—he usually being on the negative side—and he actually stated that he was informed that the more a clam bed was dug, the more clams would be there, and that if all were removed to-day, in three weeks there would be another crop. What a wise acre!

Mr. Durgin urged the bill, and said it was designed to prevent the utter extermination of that valuable crop, the clam tribe. He would leave to sensible men to judge of the correctness of Mr. Reding's argument.

Mr. Page of Warren said it would conflict with the interests of the people, and that the call was made for the benefit of the hotel keepers. He moved its indefinite postponement.

Mr. Durgin said over 160 of the legal voters of Hampton petitioned for it. If people were allowed to come at all seasons to dig them, it would result in their utter extermination. The bill was for the interest of poor people, and was just as much demanded as bills to protect birds and fish. The hotel-keepers would certainly not ask to be prevented from digging clams during the only months they were open (the hotels, not the clams.)

Mr. Harrington of Rochester thought the bill would produce great clam-or. (Laughter.) It was impossible to extinguish the tribe. He thought parties from the country to the Beach, ought to be allowed to dig them.

Mr. Ramsdell of Nashua thought the House was getting clam-o-rous. He went for postponement.

Mr. Miller, of Portsmouth, as a representative from "Clam-Shell Corner," would vote for the bill.

Mr. Ray of Lancaster thought there was a disposition to indulge in de-clamation, and proceeded to speak in favor of protecting clams.

The Speaker remarked, sotto voce, that he thought all had better shut up their clamshells.

Mr. Hackett thought we were bound not to refuse a reasonable request.—Clams were not a fit article for food during the months named in the bill.

Mr. Page was told by the member from Seabrook that the poor people there earned a considerable part of their living by clam-digging, and a large majority were opposed to the bill.

Mr. Kent of Lancaster believed the sea-board should be protected as well as the interior rivers and ponds.

Mr. Reding said large parties went to the sea-shore to dig clams. It was utterly impossible to exterminate them. The bill was got up for the interest of large fish dealers and clam dealers to monopolize the market.

Mr. Durgin insisted that clam-digging in the hot months, previous to September, had produced a very marked decrease.

Mr. Robinson, of Portsmouth, did not believe Mr. Durgin would push a measure without good reasons.

Mr. Ballou, of Weare, believed the same thing.

Mr. Hussey, of Rochester, was satisfied that this bill would prevent summer fishing, and enable hotel keepers to monopolize clam bakes.

Mr. Durgin said nearly all the fishermen were for the bill. They used mackerel and hard heads for bait.

The House refused to indefinitely postpone, and passed the bill. It prevents clam-digging in June, July and August; penalty, $10 for each offence.

During the debate, Mr. Badger of Concord scribbled the following lines, which we solicited for publication. It will be seen by those readers who have smelt salt water, that he like other country members, is not exactly accurate, when he talks of clams swimming.

Mr. Reding has lived in Portsmouth a good while, to be sure; but he was raised up among the Haverhill mountains—and if he had ever got the hayseed out of his hair, he would know better than to believe his absurd three-weeks story. But read Badger's poem:

How happy I am,
A neat little clam,
Swimming in the water;
No work by day,
With nothing but play,
I am happy—as I oughter.

Content I've been
In the water to swim,
With no aspiring nature;
But now I come
At the suggestion of some,
To the N. H. Legislature.

Protection I ask,
In the sun to bask,
To keep off every stranger;
So grant us laws
To remove their paws,

Morning Chronicle.

YOUNG MAN "LOST" IN THE WOODS.—They had one Sunday up in Claremont, lately, a spirited representation of the old play entitled, "Much ado about nothing." It began very much like a tragedy, but ended as a farce.

It seems that a young man of the town named Colby, who is employed in the post office in Springfield, Mass., being at home for his health, started off Saturday morning early, for a day's fishing in Redwater brook. He did not return at night and Sunday morning came without the absentee. Mr. Colby's mother, becoming alarmed, communicated with the neighbors, when very shortly half the male population of the village joined in the search for him.

Red Water Brook was examined from mouth to source; and even, we presume, dragged, in all the dark holes, by some of the most enthusiastic, with lines and limerick. Doubtless guns would have been fired along the shore, had not such noises been prohibited by statute this at time of year. It was imagined that he had been seen on every road within four miles of the new Lobby; but in each case it turned out to be somebody else.

At last it appeared that Colby crossed Claremont bridge at 9 o'clock on Saturday. Parties accordingly went into Vermont examining the river banks with the greatest care.— Meanwhile the fears of his immediate friends and of the citizens generally, amounted almost to frenzy—nothing else was talked of, scarcely, in church or out, but the "lost boy." His death was considered certain.

At length a man appeared on the scene, reporting that he saw Colby at Hartland on Saturday, and that he was going North on his way to White River Junction after angle worms. Messengers immediately started to drag the brooks of that desolate region.

It seems that some young ladies, well known to Colby, live about three miles from the Junction. Word was sent by telegraph to have a man sent up to inquire of these ladies—had they seen the absent swain? This was accordingly done, and at ten o'clock on Sunday evening, the afflicted mother and anxious citizens were relieved by hearing that Mr. Colby was found sweetly slumbering at the house of the ladies aforesaid, where he had been since the night before. "All's well that ends well," doubtless, but we should advise him and all other young men before they go sparking, to leave word thereof at home, and let their mothers know they're out. He arrived home on Wednesday.

☞ The retail Coal Dealers in Boston advanced the price to $ 11 per ton, on Tuesday, July 13.

A POSTMASTER WHO WANTS TO BE TURNED OUT.—The Chautauqua county (N. Y.) Press relates that the postmaster at Mina, Mr. Callen Barnes, tendered his resignation to the authorities at Washington early last spring, and for some unexplained reason, the officials in power paid no attention to it, consequently Mr. Postmaster got his back up, and sent the following letter, which will serve as a copy to any of Uncle Sam's officials who are tired of wearing the robes of office:

"MINA, N. Y., May 18.

"First Assistant Postmaster General —Dear Sir: I asked you for my resignation some time ago, and recommended Alexander D. Holdrige to be postmaster of this office; it is the people's wish, and he being a Republican, and my being a Democrat, I thought it would be immediately attended to. My business is such that I must go to Iowa, to be gone two or three months; my wife died last July; my daughter and deputy must be absent also. I am an old man, born in 1800. My grandfather was a cousin to Ethan Allen; and now, 'By the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress,' I demand my resignation. C. D., P. M."

NEW ENGLAND SERMONS.—In Mrs. Stowe's new novel, one of the characters gives the following synopsis of an old-time New England sermon:

"Wal," said Sam, leaning over the fire, with his long bony hands alternately raised to catch the warmth, and then dropped with an utter laxness, when the warmth became too pronounced, "Parson Simpson is a smart man; but I tell ye, it's kind of discouraging. Why, he said our state and condition by nature was just like this: We was clear down in a well fifty feet deep, and the sides all round nothing but glare ice, but we was under immediate obligations to get out, 'cause we was free, voluntary agents. But nobody ever had got out and nobody would, unless the Lord reached down and took 'em. And whether he would or not, nobody could tell; it was all sovereignty. He said there was not one in a hundred—not one in ten thousand—that would be saved. Lordy, massy, says I to myself, if that's so, they're any of 'em welcomed to my chance. And so I kind o' ris' up and come out, 'cause I'd got a pretty long walk home, and I wanted to go round to South Pound and inquire about Aunt Sally Morse's toothache."

—A duel is reported in Paris between an actress and an editor who criticised her performances. She shot off a lock of his hair, declared her insulted honor avenged, and all hands adjourned to a bountiful repast.

—Many farmers are coming to the conclusion that close manure cellars under barns are not well for the animals, carriages or the hay or grain above. A manure shed is a better arrangement, they think, and so do we.

SCIENTIFIC BUTCHERY.—The Secretary of the Paris League of Peace makes this graphic allusion to the effect on war of the modern scientific "improvements:"

War used to be a duel; a frightful one, but yet grand and attractive. The combatants knew and appreciated those with whom they fought. Courage, perseverance, physical strength, and the union of intelligence with foresight, still availed much, whatever might be the risks as to success or defeat. Man was still something even amid the most fearful onslaughts of brute force. He felt that it was so, and he was proud of it.

But, in our own day, science has advanced, and has brought to perfection not only the arts of production but those of slaughter. She has reduced war suddenly to a mere mechanical operation. "It is scientific butchery!" as a contemporary writer has energetically exclaimed. We now make use of killing machines. We deliver to them men, the flower of our youth, and they give them back to us—corpses. Under these conditions the interest of conflict, and almost all conflict itself, disappears. We have but huge executions, characterized by horror alone. The soldier, the officer, the general are now no more, literally, than flesh for cannon. Thought and feeling revolt with disgust in face of these vast and stupid butcheries.

☞ The Belfast Journal relates the following capital anecdote of Judge Rice, of Augusta, who is of a decidedly elevated height;

"One of the large steamers of the Bristol line, crowded with passengers, by some mysterious means sprang aleak, and got so full of water as to have a terrible 'list' or heel, from which she could not be recovered. Great alarm ensued among the passengers, and there was much parading in short drapery. The Judge, who was a passenger, and who is a very tall man, something over six feet, put in an appearance at an early hour, provided with the life preserver from his room. A rough specimen of the western frontiersman, unhamayed by the danger, was anxious to know what the life preserver was for. The Judge, always polite, explained its use. 'Why, confound it!' was the rejoinder, as he ran his eye over the distance from his informer's head to foot—'Confound it, you don't need that. You can wade ashore!' Not even the apprehension of grim death suppressed a contagious laugh."

—Squire B. B——, of Pleasantville, was appointed an agent of the United States Government some three years ago, and ordered to southwestern Minnesota, with instructions to build a saw-mill and grist-mill for Mr. Lo, the Poor Indian. (You will see the mills marked on Mitchells, New Atlas, in Redwood county, Minnesota.) After a year or so had elapsed the Department sent out another agent to look after things and report progress. The latter visited B. B——'s district, and found that the dam only had been completed. He reported that he had examined things in B. B——'s agency, and found a dam by a mill site, but didn't see any mill by a dam site.

—After much trouble the State of New York has obtained a quarantine ground on the West Bank for cholera and yellow-fever patients.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough, Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS, COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and CURE in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease, will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, the agent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for rheumatism in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saline with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient, by absorbing the acid, the nervous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nervous, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. Of all liver drinks it is the most cooling and valuable.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." The fact that they this year renew the order and increase the amount is the best argument we can give that these "LISTS" are good advertising mediums.

Lilies of the Valley.

The lilies were fair, by the garden wall;
They blossomed for beauty;—and was that all?
Etta checked her steps in the path; said she,
"I will carry a few for my friend to see."
And she only stayed at my door to say,
"Here are lilies that blossomed for you to-day."

I took the gift with a glad delight—
So sweet, so perfect, so pure and white.
How modestly drooping their eyelids fell,
Like a bride's, when she waits for the marriage-bell!
How fair they were, in the chalice tall!
They blossomed for beauty;—and was that all?

Our Annie came in with a tale of woe.
From a wretched home in the lanes below.
Little Mary, the pride of a poor man's breast,
Had folded her hands in eternal rest.
Her robes were coarse, and the room was bare,
And nothing of beauty or light was there.

Then I took from the vase my lilies dear,
And gave them the dew of a silent tear;
And parting the fingers, pale and thin,
Annie laid the lilies their clasp within.
And the father and mother will think of her so,
Whenever the flowers in the spring-time grow.

The lilies were fair by the garden wall;
They blossomed for beauty. That was not all;
For the Father his rain and his sunshine gave,
And they opened for Mary to wear in her grave.
And Etta did more of His will than she knew,
When she said "Here are lilies that blossomed for you."

CHINESE LABOR.—The attendance at the Memphis Chinese Labor Convention is large. Reports were submitted from the Emigration Committee favoring the Joint Stock Emigration Society, with officers at the principal southern cities, promising welcome and protection to all emigrants from China and elsewhere; and from the Transportation Committee, stating that emigrants can be brought to Memphis in lots of fifty and over, from the Pacific States, by rail, for $50 each; and from Hong Kong to San Francisco for $80 to $100 in gold.

Tyekman Orr, a Chinaman who has been two years in this country and is now residing in Louisiana, addressed the convention. He stated that 70,000 Chinese were now in the West Indies. Agriculturists can easily be procured through proper agents in the interior of China. In Cuba they are paid $8 per month. Farm hands are paid from $18 to $20 per year in China, where living is so cheap that 150 pounds of rice costs $2. The women work in the fields of China, only city women having small feet. About one in ten are lovers of strong drink, but comparatively few are opium eaters. It is a luxury that only the rich and city people can afford. Of fifty now living in Donald only one is a whiskey lover. They are easily managed, being patient, industrious, docile, tractable and obedient. The products of China are in many ways similar to those of the southern States, and the Chinese would soon become successful workers of southern lands.

Mr. Koopmanshoop arrived at noon and addressed the convention. He said that his house has brought 30,000 Chinese to California, where 60,000 are now engaged as mechanics and in railroad works. They are paid from 90 cents to $1 a day in gold, as laborers. They can be induced to come from San Francisco at $20 a month, but can be obtained much cheaper in China, and under five years' contract could be had for $10 to $20 a month.

THE CHITTENDEN LIBEL SUIT.—In the Common Pleas Court, N. Y., Judge Green presiding, last week, the case of H. T. Chittenden against Wm. Trelett & Co.—an action to recover damages for an alleged libel printed in The Crisis— was finally disposed of and dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff. The case grew out of an article in The Crisis last October, in which it was intimated that a "United States Commissioner was corruptly running a black-mail mill on State street," to the detriment and annoyance of citizens. Upon this allegation suit was brought to recover damages in the sum of twenty thousand dollars. The defendants filed an answer, pleading justification, and asserting still more damaging charges, and to support this answer summoned a large number of witnesses. After several postponements, the case came up last week upon a motion of the plaintiff to dismiss the case at his (plaintiff's) cost. Thus another attempt to intimidate the press by menace of damages has ignominiously fizzled out, as ninety-nine out of every hundred of such cases do.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [jel5 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1869.

The News.

The President has ordered the suspension of William Hobson, Esq., collector of customs for the district of Maine.

A Madrid dispatch says that a republic has been declared at Madeira, and that troops have been sent to suppress it.

The Governor and Council of Maine have pardoned Henrietta York who was convicted last May of concealing the birth of her child. Her case was similar to that of Hester Vaughan.

The Canada low lands are flooded.

The Belfast (Ireland) Orangemen and Catholics still amuse themselves by rioting.

Hon. Asa Packer is the Democratic nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Hon. James F. Wilson of Iowa has been appointed a government director of the Union Pacific Railroad, in place of Hon. James Brooks.

The President has appointed two more Quakers as Indian agents—making 21 in all.

The President has issued a proclamation ordering an election in Mississippi on the 30th of next November.

A telegram states that the crew of the ship Southern Cross of Boston have been poisoned while at Manila, in May.

The end of the French Atlantic Cable was lost off Newfoundland on Tuesday, but has been recovered and spliced to the shore end. A dispatch to the Emperor Napoleon has reached France over the new line.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—A frightful disaster occurred on the Erie Railroad about midnight of Wednesday, at Mast Hope, 117 miles from New York city. The night express train from New York which left there at six o'clock, made the usual time going West, until midnight, when the disaster occurred.

At Mast Hope it overhauled a freight train, also going West, which, according to telegraphic instructions, should have run off on a side track, to permit the express train to pass without trouble.

The freight train switched off, but from some carelessness did not move far enough up the side track to clear the express, and the tail of the train remained on the track when the express train came thundering along.

The train struck the freight train and the engine, tender, baggage car, express car, smoking car, one passenger car and a sleeping coach were thrown off the track, and smashed out of all shape. The scene that followed beggars description.

The splintered cars and fragments of timbers came in contact with the scattered fire from the locomotive, and a conflagration ensued in which timbers, baggage and the wounded passengers all went to feed the flames.

Seven cars were destroyed and six passengers burned to death. Two of the passengers are from New York. One is Rev. Benj. B. Hallock, of New York.

☞ A dispatch from Omaha gives reports from Gen. E. A. Carr of his operations against the Indians. On the 11th inst. he surprised a village of Dog Soldiers and Cheyennes, under command of Tall Bull, and killed fifty-two of them, and captured seventeen women and children, among them the wife and daughter of Tall Bull. The Indians had two white women who had been taken on the Saline River, and they had murdered one. Gen. Carr captured 350 animals, many lodges and a large number of rifles and other arms.

☞ The railroad bridge on the Boston and Maine Railroad, a mile from Newburyport, caught fire, from a spark of an engine, on Monday morning last. The stringers and sleepers were badly charred. Between the hours of 11 o'clock A. M. and 4 P. M. on Tuesday, the bridge was rebuilt and ready for the train to pass over.

☞ The Lord Chancellor of England, in his speech at the last banquet to the Ministry, referred to the time when he was taken by his father to see the first gas light in the streets of London. It was then considered a failure, and Sir Humphrey Davy deliberately pronounced the task of lighting the city of London with gas impossible.

☞ Further accounts of the floods in Texas are received. The Colorado Valley is entirely under water, the corps are destroyed, several villages and towns are submerged, and one or two have been washed away, and many people have been drowned. The water rose forty-seven feet and over.

Chronicle & Gazette Correspondence.

LEWISTON, ME., July 13.

Messrs. Editors: — Sunday was the hottest day we have had this season, the thermometer indicating about 90 degrees. The streets were nearly deserted, and the many thousand churchgoers were obliged to attend the "home mission." There was a sudden change in the atmosphere, however, in the evening, and the overcoat for the "duster" was a desirable substitute.

The many oyster and eating saloons have been notified that the sale of lager beer will no longer be tolerated, and the officers are trying to see this law strictly executed. The city has heretofore allowed licenses to be given for the sale of lager, but as the privilege has been abused, ale having been smuggled for lager, it is thought best to stop the sale of both, and to-day nothing can be procured but cider, which will doubtless ere long be included in the list of forbidden beverages.

The shoemakers of Auburn are on a strike, their employers not yielding to their request to raise their pay from $2 to $3 per case. The manufacturers are out in a long letter, in which they say that, rather than increase wages which to them appears sufficient, they will transfer the manufacturing to other places where labor is cheaper. If this is done it will be a great blow to the city, as shoemaking is the main stay of the place. The shoemakers are all members of the St. Crispin's, which governs all prices.

A small fire took place Tuesday morning about 3 o'clock, in a barn on Lincoln street, damaging it to the extent of about $200. The work of an incendiary. H.

☞ Henry A. Smalley, W. J. Carr, Jacob T. Van Winkle and James R. Doolittle, jr., ex-weighmasters in the New York custom house, have been found to be defaulters in their accounts. All these officials were appointed by Ex-Collector Smythe, at the close of Andrew Johnson's impeachment trial. Doolittle is the son of the ex-senator from Wisconsin, and Van Winkle is the son of the senator from West Virginia. They were all removed by Mr. Grinnell on his accession to office, but Van Winkle subsequently received the appointment of inspector, which he held until his recent arrest. Doolittle and Van Winkle were arrested, but Smalley is absent in Europe, and Carr cannot be found. By making fraudulent time and pay rolls the government has been swindled out of $150 to $200 a week. As this business has been going on for years, and as, doubtless, other weighmasters have been guilty of similar practices, the government has been a heavy loser.

☞ The Maryland Democrats are waking up to the effect of the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment. Seymour's vote last fall was sixty-two thousand, and General Grant's thirty thousand. According to Democratic estimates, the negro vote of the State would be over forty thousand on universal suffrage being adopted. The Democrats assume, and very properly too, in view of their past course, that these forty thousand votes would be cast almost to a unit with the Republicans, thereby giving them the State. The "danger," says one paper, "is immense, and cannot be exaggerated." Others have suddenly changed their tone, and begun the wooing policy toward the colored voters.

☞ A. S. Stewart has offered $412,500 for the Hampstead Plains, about 7500 acres of land in Hampstead Long Island, and says that he is willing, if the town accepts his offer, to expend several millions of dollars in "laying out the lands in parcels for sale to actual settlers, and erecting at various points attractive buildings and residences, so that a barren waste may speedily be covered by a population desirable in every respect as neighbors, tax-payers and as citizens."

☞ A terrific wind and hail storm blew over Lake Lincoln and West Fork townships, Iowa, last Friday morning. Hundreds of trees were blown over, and many panes of glass were broken. The new Methodist parsonage in Lincoln township was blown from its foundation. Rev. Mr. Hamilton was sleeping in his house alone at the time, and was by some means made senseless for several hours.

☞ The Cuban recruits on Gardner's Island has disbanded, and the friends of Cuba in New York city have determined to postpone for the present further efforts to forward troops.

☞ A Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces is in session at Portland.

☞ Particulars have been received concerning the death of Albert Wyeth, the young American who was summarily shot by Spanish troops at Santiago de Cuba on the 21st of June. After the seizure of the Grapeshot he was removed to the military prison at Santiago de Cuba, where he was kept in confinement for several days. A drum-head court-martial sat at his trial, which resulted in his conviction. Subsequently the American consul made endeavors to save his life, but without success. His sentence was received in his cell at midnight on the 21st of June, and he was then told by his captors to get ready for execution. At daybreak he was led out to be shot in company with three others, two of whom were Americans, the third being a Mexican. The spectacle occurred in an open plaza, in sight of the populace of the town, who manifested the most vindictive feelings against the unfortunate prisoners. All four men were pinioned with their faces toward a wall, and were shot through the head from behind, the firing party consisting of twenty soldiers who stood a few paces off from the condemned. A small party of Americans witnessed the sad occurrence.

☞ The New York Herald says Governor-elect Walker of Virginia is in a magnanimous frame of mind just now, and has relieved himself of much self-importance in an interview with one of Herald's reporters while in New York recently. He says the great mistake made by the republican party up here North is in not at once claiming the result in Virginia as a republican victory. He said he started on a "liberal republican" platform, and that was the proper name of the party which elected him.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; mine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The stamek will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

Towns possessing no safe place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, Boston. Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of him is derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without danger or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. If they are not in such condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The main thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for if the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the brain, and the nervous system, being duly nurtured, will be likely to do theirs. In view of these facts it is manifest that a powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all correctives and invigorants, and for this reason: It does not over-stimulate the system. The proportions of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants, however pure, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their effects are transitory, and, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression they were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case when HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and gums with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit which forms their basis, and which is in itself the most wholesome of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and administered in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous extract is the main ingredient. Moreover than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to the present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a choke followed by slimy, bilious stools. The relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after he had suffered with it over 10 years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-two boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. All her bad symptoms have left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. je17

PAIN KILLER.

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates,

A SURE REMEDY. je19

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient coughs the loose matter up and is well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, cause the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented to rival mercurial (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out digestive juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

Consumption has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the tissues of the lungs are diseased, and they are rotting. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have ceased to give to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to heal the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills free in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed, or he is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 25 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1ya4

THE THEATRE.—An appreciative audience gathered at the Temple, Wednesday evening, to witness the production of the beautiful drama of "Dora," by Miss Kate Reignolds and a select company of artistes from the Boston theatres. The performance was highly satisfactory, especially the rendition of the part of Farmer Allan by Mr. Leman. "Dora" is hardly calculated to show the power of Miss Reignolds, but her performance of the character shew a just appreciation, and was very satisfactory to the audience. The rest of characters were well filled.

The afterpiece, "Jenny Lind," with Miss Georgie Reignolds in the title role, was capital. Miss Georgie was full of dash and fun, and her singing was excellent. The whole performance was much above the average of theatrical exhibitions in this city, and those who where fortunate enough to attend retired well pleased with their evening's entertainment. Mr. Albert H. Fernald who is well known in this city, presided at the piano, and furnished excellent music for the entertainment. We are glad to learn that the company will soon return here as they were as well pleased with their reception as the audience was with their nice performance. Their success on Wednesday evening will ensure them a full house whenever they appear again.

CONFLICT OF RACES.—On Thursday, at the early hour of 7 A. M., Daniel Street, near Penhallow, was the scene of a war 'twixt the black and copper-colored elements of the human family. The cause of the fierce fray was unknown, but arose from a difficulty on board the U. S. Steamer Pawnee, the combatants being attached in some capacity to that vessel. The darkey had the best of the engagement and the Indian was getting fearfully demoralized, when the bystanders interfered and stopped the battle.

ANOTHER WAR.—On Thursday afternoon a sailor from the Pawnee, who had got tired from opening his mouth too much, fell out of a wagon near the post office, and "sot" his blue plantaloons into the mud. The fall affected his temper somewhat and meeting a half dozen colored brother seamen he proposed to whip them on a fair field. He finally struck one of them and the darkey retaliated by a heavy blow on the aperture through which he had imbibed the villainous drink which was the cause of his woes.

The blow caused him to sit suddenly down in the doorway of C. N. Shaw & Co.'s millinery store. Arising, however, with the dignity of his race and with evident realization of the importance of the case, our hero struck his opponent on the head, which seemed to create no uneasiness in that quarter, and the white sailor laid down on the sidewalk from the reaction. The admiring crowd of lookers-on who were gathering from all quarters, saw not the end of the fracas, for a policeman nabbed the aggressor and all was quietness and peace again.

NAVY YARD MATTERS.—Rear Admiral Goldsborough, Commodore Boggs and Chief Engineers Robie and Moore visited the Navy Yard on Thursday, on a tour of inspection of the machinery of the Wampanoag class of vessels.

Paymaster A. E. Watson has reported for duty at the Navy Yard as Inspector in charge of Provisions and Clothing.

Lieutenant-Commander Thomas H. Eastman is ordered to duty under Rear-Admiral Thatcher at this Station.

☞ Mr. John M. Berry of this city has been appointed keeper of White Island Light, in place of C. Bickford, removed.

☞ The executive committee and officers of the New Hampshire Temperance Alliance held a meeting in Concord on Wednesday for consultation, the result of which was the appointment of a committee consisting of Rev. Elisha Adams of Concord, F. S. Crawford of Concord, J. H. Rowell of Franklin, Rev. D. C. Babcock and W. G. Gartman of Manchester, to take charge of the campaign between this time and the special election in November. The opinion strongly prevailed that the people would ratify the constabulary law.

ACCIDENTS.—On the afternoon of the 5th, Clara, a little daughter of Mr. Job Kenerson of Tamworth Iron Works, ten years of age, fell from a swing and broke her arm. On the next day, Mr. Kenerson himself broke through a staging while shingling on his stable, and broke his arm in three places, besides bruising himself severely otherwise. The bones were put in place by Dr. Russell, who was fortunately close by in both cases.

☞ At Tompkinsville, N. Y., on the morning of the 13th, a man named Roach, a drunken shoemaker, cut the throat of a girl twelve years old, the daughter of his employer, Mr. Harrington; then, with the same shoemaker's knife cut his own throat. Both are dead. Roach is supposed to have been crazy with liquor at the time.

☞ Maggie Mitchell is to commence a starring tour in November. Thousands will hail with delight her re-appearance on the stage. It is said that Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau is engaged at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, the coming season.

☞ A lad fell down stairs at Durham, Me., recently, and drove his front teeth so far into the gums that the points only were visible. The teeth were pulled into place again and will soon be as useful as ever.

RELIGIOUS DIVING.—An officer of the U. S. Marine Corps sends to the Army and Navy Journal the following contribution to the humorous recollections of the rebellion:

One afternoon about the close of the war, in April, 1865, a part of the United States squadron stationed at Albemarle Sound, was lying off the village of Edenton, North Carolina. A message was sent from the shore to Captain Macomb, commander of the fleet, announcing that the ceremony of public baptism would be performed at two o'clock.

The Captain, ever courteous and considerate, supposed that some of his officers might wish to witness this little episode in the tedious monotony of blockading, and directed that the fact should be communicated by signal to the other vessels. The naval signal book was forthwith brought out and searched, but the word baptism was not to be found. Here was a quandary, and time was rapidly passing; but the captain was not to be fooled. The quarter-master of the watch was set to work, and in a few minutes the bright colored signal flags of the Shamrock were at the mast-head, and the astonished officers of the other ships read: "There will be religious diving on shore at 2 P. M."

CAT-EGORICAL.—A short time ago an elderly cat, belonging to one of our citizens, gave birth to a litter of kittens, which soon, in accordance with a time-honored custom, were consigned to a watery grave. A few days after a grown up daughter, imitating her mother's example, became the proud possessor of three little ones, which were safely ensconced in a barrel in an outhouse. The grandmother immediately volunteered to assist in the care of her grandchildren, and took up her abode with them, the mother making no objection.

Matters progressed harmoniously for about a week, until one day a strange dog visiting the place was accidentally shut into the room with the cats, greatly to their fear and discomfort. Some time during the evening the old cat, doubtless thinking their present location unsafe, and without obtaining leave of their rightful owner, conveyed the kittens to a safe retreat in a cellar near by. The next morning the mother, not relishing this interference in her family affairs, "toted" her babies back to their old home.

The grandmother, thoroughly imbued with the idea that her daughter's inexperience totally unfitted her for the rearing and education of children, carried them a second time to the cellar, from which the mother again brought them. This seemed to settle the matter, for, apparently disgusted with her junior's firmness, the old lady has made no further attempt to interfere, although she keep herself informed, by frequent visits, of the safety and prosperity of the juveniles.—Nashua Telegraph.

THE PEDDLER'S CART.

A cold winter's night, several years since, found a stage load of passengers gathered together, round the warm fire of a tavern bar-room in a New England village. Shortly after we arrived, a peddler drove up and ordered that his horse be stabled for the night.

After we had eaten supper, we repaired to the bar-room, where the conversation flowed freely. Several anecdotes had been related, and finally the peddler was asked to give us a story, as men of his profession were generally full of adventures and anecdotes. He was a short, thick-set man, somewhere about forty years of age, and gave evidence of great physical strength. He gave his name as Lemuel Vinney, and his home was in Dover, New Hampshire.

"Well, gentlemen," he commenced, knocking the ashes out of his pipe, and putting it into his pocket, "suppose I tell you about the last thing of any consequence that happened to me. You see I am now right from the West, and on my way home for winter quarters. It was during the early part of last spring, one pleasant evening, that I pulled up at the door of a small village tavern in Hancock county, Indiana. I said it was pleasant—I meant warm. I went in and called for supper, and had my horse taken care of. After I had eaten, I sat down in the bar-room. It began to rain about eight o'clock, and it was very dark out doors. Now I wanted to be in Jackson the next morning, for I expected a load of goods there for me, which I intended to dispose of on my way home.

The moon would rise about midnight, and I knew it if it did not rain, I could get along through the mud very well after that. So I asked the landlord if he would see that my horse was fed about midnight, as I wished to be off at about two. He expressed some surprise at this, and asked me why I did not stop for breakfast. I told him that I had sold my load about out, and that a new lot of goods was waiting for me at Jackson, and I wanted to be there before the express agent left in the morning.

There were a number of persons sitting round the table while I told this, but I took little notice of them; only one arrested my attention. I had seen that week notices for the detection of a notorious robber. The bill gave a description of his person, and the man before me answered very well to it. He was a tall, well-formed man, rather slight in frame, and had the appearance of a gentleman, save that his face bore those hard, cruel marks which an observing man cannot mistake for anything but the index of a villainous disposition.

When I went to the chamber, I asked the landlord who that man was, describing the individual. He said he did not know him. He had come that afternoon, and intended leaving the next day. The host asked me why I wished to know, and I simply told him that the man's countenance was familiar, and I merely wished to know if I was ever acquainted with him.

I was determined not to let the landlord into the secret, but to give information to the sheriff, and perhaps he might reach the inn before the villain left, for I had no doubt with regard to his indentity.

I had an alarm watch, and having set it to give the alarm at one o'clock, I went to sleep. I was aroused at the proper time, and immediately arose and dressed myself. When I reached the yard, I found the clouds all passed away, and the moon was shining brightly. The hostler was easily aroused, and by two o'clock I was on the road. The mud was deep, and my horse could not travel very fast. However, on we went, and in the course of half an hour I was clear of the village. A short distance ahead lay a large tract of forest, mostly of great pines. The road lay directly through this wood, and, as near as I can remember, the distance was twelve miles. Yet the moon was in the east, and the road ran nearly west, so I thought I should have light enough.

I had entered this wood, and gone about half a mile, when my wagon-wheels settled with a jump and jerk into a deep hole. I uttered an exclamation of astonishment, but that was not all. I heard another from the same source. What could it be? I looked quietly around, but could see nothing; I knew the sound that I heard was very close to me. As the hind wheels came up, I felt something besides the jerk from the hole. I heard something tumble from one side to the other of my wagon, and I could also feel the jar occasioned by the movement. It was simply a man in my cart! I knew this on the instant. Of course I felt puzzled. At first I imagined that somebody had taken this method to obtain a ride. My next idea was that somebody had got in to sleep there; but this passed away as soon as it came, for no man would have broken into my cart for that purpose. And that thought, gentlemen, opened my eyes. Whoever was there had broken in. My next thought was of the suspicious individual I had seen at the tavern. He heard me say that my load was all out, and of course he supposed I had money with me. In this he was right, for I had over two thousand dollars. I thought he meant to leave the cart when he supposed I had reached a safe place, and then creep over and shoot me or knock me down. All this passed through my mind by the time I had got a rod from the hole.

In a few moments my horse was knee deep in the mud, and I knew I could slip off without noise. So I drew my pistol, and having twined the reins about the whipstick, carefully slipped down in the mud, and as the cart passed on I went behind and examined the hasp. The door of the cart let down, and is fastened down by a hasp, which slips over that staple, and is then secured by a padlock. The padlock was gone, and the hasp was secured in its own place by a bit of pine, so that a slight force from within could break it. My wheel-wrench stood in a leathern bucket on the side of the cart, and I quickly took it out and slipped it into the staple, the iron handle just sliding down.

Now I had him. My cart was almost new, made of a stout frame of white oak, and made on purpose for hard usage. I did not believe any ordinary mortal could break it. I got on to my cart as noiselessly as I got off, and then urged my horse on, still keeping my pistol handy. I knew I should come to a hard road, and so I allowed my horse to pick his own way through the mud.

Concluded To-morrow.

LIFE.—A modern philosopher has appropriated man's full extreme as follows:

7 years in childhood's sport and play	7
7 years in school from day to day	14
7 years at 3 trade or college life	21
7 years to find a place and wife	28
7 years to pleasure's follies given	35
7 years to business hardly driven	42
7 years for some a wild-goose chase	49
7 years for wealth, a bootless race	56
7 years for hoarding for your heir	63
7 years in weakness spent, and care	70

Then die and go—you should know where.

—A citizen of Belfast, Me, who had not seen his son for eight years, and supposed him dead, recognized him as one of the acrobats in a circus which exhibited in that city last week.

—A Boston editor recently visited fortune-tellers, and got as many different and, in some cases, opposing "futures" prophesied for him.

—A schoolmaster in the country advertises that he will keep a Sunday-school twice a week.

AMERICAN

BUTTON-HOLE, OVERSEAMING, —AND— SEWING MACHINE!

H. N. DUNYON, 27 Market Street, Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity.

The Reasons Why

This is the best Family Machine to Purchase.

1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do—the finest of sewing, hemming, felling, cording, tucking, braiding, binding, gathering, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.

2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand. (Not done on any other Sewing Machine.)

3. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet-hole. (No other machine can.)

4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment. (Not done on any other Machine.)

5. Because it can do "overhand seaming," by which shirts, pillow-cases and the like are sewed "over and over." (No other Machine can do it.)

Caution.

We would hereby warn the Public against ambogus advertisements of Button-Hole Attachments, as the AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE is the first and only Button-Hole and Sewing Machine combined in the world.

This Machine is for sale only at our establishment, 27 Market Street, where we cordially invite the Public to Call and Examine for themselves, and be convinced that this is the Best and Cheapest Machine for any family.

N. B.—All Machines are Warranted for one year. Instructions Gratis to purchasers. Warranted free. Persons buying this Machine never wish to exchange for any other.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple, but clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY
is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?
BECAUSE
it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining pabulum and says because it relaxes the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY
is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?
BECAUSE
it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saudorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting prospiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY
is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?
BECAUSE
rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient combined with the volatile acids tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY
is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?
BECAUSE
It opens the pores, equalizes temperature of the body, calms the nerves and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. Half a fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

The Chronicle.

It Was Always So!

St. Antony at church was left in the lurch,
So he went to the ditches and preached to the fishes,
They wiggled their tails, in the sun glanced their scales.
The carps, with their spawn, were all thither drawn.
They opened their laws, eager for each clause.
No sermon beside had the carp so edified.

Sharp-snouted pikes, who keep fighting like tikes,
Now swam up harmonious to hear St. Antonius.
No sermon beside had the pikes so edified.

Good eels and sturgeon, which aldermen gorge on,
Went out of their way to hear preaching that day.
No sermon beside had the eels so edified.

Crabs and turtles also, who always move slow,
Made haste from the bottom as if something had got 'em,
No sermon beside had the crabs so edified.

Fish great and fish small, lords, lackeys and all,
Each looked at the preacher like a reasoning creature;
At the sound of the word, they Antony heard.

The sermon now ended, each turned and descended;
The pikes went on stealing, the eels went on eeling;
Much delighted were they, but preferred the old way

The crabs stay back-sliders, the flounders slab-siders;
The carps stay thick set; all the sermon forget;
Much delighted were they, but stick to the bad way.

AN EGYPTIAN DANCE ON THE NILE.—"When the girls arose, the grace of their forms was visible; they had on their professional dress worn in the village, which consisted of a short embroidered jacket, fitting close, but open in front, exposing their bosoms, on which hung strings of glittering ornaments; long loose trousers of transparent silk, a thin sash of cashmere twisted around the loins, rather than the waist, and slippers of red morocco with upturned points, completed the costume.

Their hair hung in long braids down their back, and hundreds of small gold coins were twisted in it, and sparkled as well in glittering circlets over brows, as around neck and arms. Their eyelids were delicately painted with kohl, so as to make them almond-shaped and —languished; and they advanced to the centre of the boat with a certain symmetry that was in harmony with the music. As they took their places, they threw off their slippers and commenced the movement, keeping time to the notes of the reed-pipe, and accompanying it with the clapping of castinets which were fastened to the thumb and fore-finger of each hand.

There were three of them young and beautiful; the others were hideous, with rat's eyes, flaccid cheeks, and tattooed chins, so I contented myself with watching the most agreeable. They danced in groups of two or four, then agitating their copper cymbals around and above their heads, they advanced right and left, kneeling, curving, and retreating, until a sort of prelude was finished, when joining the orchestra, who set up a dismal melancholy song, they began a movement of the body almost impossible to describe. Their limbs seemed to be seized with a trembling, but they moved not from their position, while the upper parts of the body swayed and turned in a sort of dancing trepidation, becoming more and more agitated in time to the music and wild singing; and their breasts feined with immodesty the most sensual physical emotions, until they seemed almost to exhaust themselves in an audacious ecstasy."—Appleton's Journal.

HOW TO SPOIL THE INFLUENCE OF YOUR PREACHER.—1. Tell your neighbors that he is a man of very ordinary ability.

2. Keep it before the people, that he can do no good.

3. Magnify every fault you see in him.

4. Don't co-operate with him in any effort he may make, to advance the interests of the church.

5. Stay away from meeting, when you can possibly find an excuse.

6. Show to the world that you have no interest in his welfare.

The above rules, faithfully followed, will ruin the influence of any preacher, especially if a large number of his parishioners follow them.

—"Harry, you ought not to throw away nice bread like that; you may want it some day." "Well, mother, would I stand any better chance of getting it then if I should eat it now?"

—Josh Billings says: "Give the devil his due," reads well enough in a proverb; but mi friend, what will become uv me and you if this arrangement is carried out?

—A turtle weighing over 400 lbs. was brought to a Florida port from Cumberland Island. In butchering it over 600 eggs were found.

—The Cincinnati Commercial speaks of Solomon as "an individual with whom wisdom was a speciality."

—A New York paper intends to open a reading-room, with 10,000 volumes, for the use of its subscribers.

—A Tennessee newspaper calls its favorite political candidate the "bald eagle of the mountains."

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers.

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERS PERFECTLY:—I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [Jel5 3w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1869.

The News.

New York city has six cases of cholera.

The Memphis Chinese Immigration Convention adjourned on Thursday, after forming a company with a capital stock of $1,000,000.

A dispatch from Helena, Montana, says that Wells, Fargo and Company's coach was robbed at Morris's station of the treasure box containing $72,000 in gold. Parties are now on the track of the robbers, who fled to the mountains.

The steamship Russia has arrived at Queenstown from New York, in 7 days, 22 hours and 10 minutes, the quickest passage ever made.

The President has gone to Long Branch and will be away from Washington about two weeks.

Serious riots have recently occurred at Brunn, in Austria, requiring the interference of troops for their suppression.

The election in Texas has been fixed by the President for the 30th of November.

☞ The horrible accident on the Erie Railroad resulted in the killing and wounding of about 20 persons. Rev. Mr. Halleck was not hurt by the collision, but was jammed in among the timbers, which caught fire, and was literally roasted to death before the eyes of his friends. John Hunt had a leg broken below the knee; he was jammed in between the seats and held fast until the flames had almost reached him before he was rescued. Only those persons in the smoking car were burned.

Dam.—There is talk of improving the water power of the Illinois and Fox rivers by putting dams across them about one mile above Ottawa, Illinois. If this be done, it is said that it will afford one of the largest water powers in the United States.

Summer Amusement. — Visitors to Atlantic City make virtuous fiddling crabs tipsy, and then amuse themselves by watching their antics. A piece of bread soaked in whiskey and water attracts them in myriads from their burrows.

Let us have Peace!—The Lafayette Courier says there is a horse in Northern Illinois, six years old, nameless, and unknown, except by its owner and trainer, which can pace a mile in two minutes and twelve seconds.

☞ Gov. Chamberlain of Maine has pardoned W. J. McDonald of Portland, and John Manning of Lewiston. These parties were convicted for selling liquor and sentenced to imprisonment.

Solemn Warning to Umbrella Borrowers.—A man in Providence was recently fined three dollars and costs for taking another man's umbrella.

Important Disk-covery. — A brilliant meteorologist of England explains the recent cold weather by the numerous spots on the disk of the sun.

☞ The Printers in Convention had a good time, and decided to meet next year at Portsmouth, Rye Beach and the Shoals.

☞ The London Times advises Spain to dispose of Cuba as soon as she can do so with honor.

☞ Boston's population and commerce with foreign ports steadily increase.

—A Wisconsin paper having exulted over the fact of its coming out in a new dress, a rival sheet remarks: "In this, as in everything else, they are an age behind our office, which was supplied with new material years ago."

—A dealer in second-hand books in Frankfort advertises a complete collection of newspapers published in the United States. $500 in gold is the price he asks for it.

—A patent has been obtained for the manufacture of water-proof paper. It will be no uncommon thing, by and by, to carry a quart of milk home in a paper bag.

—A London clergyman advertises that he will "lend his weekly sermons for half-a-crown apiece, or four for ten shillings,—warranted original, earnest and evangelical."

—Women are now editing newspapers, founding societies, delivering addresses, lectures and orations, and holding conventions. Their "rights" are certainly being asserted.

—This is an express way-bill received at Cleveland: "One child, alive, to Mrs. Sarah A. Leonard, Cleveland, O., from Mrs. W. Bush, Williamsport, Pa. Charges $5.70.

—It is observed that the men of the most cheek make the best performers in brass bands. Like that modest plant the sunflower, they blow well.

☞ We publish below an Obituary Address on the death of Francis Mason Wyman and James P. Miller, written by Mr. Clarke of the Boys' High School and spoken at the annual exhibition on Friday by James G. Lightford. The friends of the deceased youths will readily appreciate the kindness which prompted this memorial of those who are so sadly missed by their brother scholars.

To honor the memories of departed friends is the natural dictate of the human heart. The rude and nameless stone, the plain marble slab, with its simple inscription, the flowers strewn on the new-made grave, the robes of mourning,—all testify how deeply this principle is rooted in our nature. Death comes to all, bringing sorrow to us who mourn, but we trust to the dear departed a glad fruition of glories to us unseen. When the aged man, with ripened years, goes to his long home, after the cares, the toils and triumphs of a well-spent life, we mourn the loss of a wise counsellor and a worthy example; we think of his noble deeds and feel that his work has been finished, the golden harvest of his life all gathered in. But when one dies in the morning of life, before his work seems fairly begun, we gather in sadness around his youthful grave, think how mysterious his early death, and wonder what his life, if spared, might have been.

To us with our short-sighted vision with all our earthly hopes and cherished plans, the fire that burns on the hearth-stone of home seems dearer than the gleam of that celestial light which shines in the far off heavens. But earth is not our real abiding place,—that lies above and beyond. The short journey of our terrestial life is important only as it tends to the celestial city and those mansions not made with hands. The direction of our lives may be more important than manifest achievement, and the shortest life may answer well life's great end.

As we to-day look back upon the last year, we recall with chastened feelings the presence and familiar faces of two whom God has taken to himself. Wyman and Miller have left us,—not faltered by the way, but passed on before. As eighteen hundred and sixty-nine dawned upon us, with gladsome hearts we assembled here to exchange our greetings and make to our teachers the grateful offering of the "Happy New Year." One of our number, a boy so quiet and gentle that he came and went almost unobserved, then met with us for the last time. The days passed on, and that seat remained vacant. It was a vacancy to be felt. The gentleness of his demeanor, the quiet earnestness of his daily life, had endeared him to us all. On the 17th of February the sad tidings came that Wyman must die, and as the day was drawing to its close he closed his short earthly life, quietly passing to a purer, a brighter and a holier life above.

Four months passed away, and on the 17th of June the messenger of Death again claimed one of our number. With bright prospects and a strong faith in himself and his future, Miller had been striving to make the most of his last year among us. No one of our number seemed more likely to be successful in life; no one was more deserving. He was manly beyond his years. This maturity of character led him to prefer study to recreation; reading was his pastime. But with all his rich promise he is no more.

Fellow schoolmates; Wyman and Miller, though dead, still speak to us through their short lives. It seems hard to be thus cut off, when the spirits are most elastic and hopes brightest; but herein are we reminded of what we all are and what we are approaching. God grant that we may not forget our own destiny, but so live that we may rob death of its sting and the grave of its victory.

HOME INTERESTS.

A Needed Improvement.—The city of Dover is ahead of us in respect to improvements of its streets, in a manner that at once attracts the attention of travellers. We refer to the material with which the building up and repairing of the streets is done. The dirt and gravel which experience here has very well demonstrated is of but temporary use and soon needs continual scraping and renewal, becoming very dusty in dry weather and very muddy during a rain, is superceded by the use of crushed stone. This when first built, is, to be sure, rougher than the gravelled road and rather forbidding but continued, use grinds the rough stones together and forms a hard, solid, smooth road, which rains do not render obnoxious to foot passers, nor dry weather make dusty. There is plenty of stone hereabouts with which to construct all the streets in the city, and we think it would be an economical measure on the part of our city government to procure a crushing machine and put it into operation. There are streets we wot of in Portsmouth on which many hundreds of dollars have been spent within the past fifteen years, and which now need repairing nearly as badly as prior to that time, simply because the material used (the best at command, under the present arrangement) was not of the right kind; and we may go on with heavy appropriations for repairs year after year, and never finish the work. It is better to do the first work so thoroughly as never to need but slight repairs, than to use poor material because it saves some expense in the outset, while that saving is much more than offset by future repairs. With the very imperfect system by which our streets are watered, our citizens during the dry days of this summer would have greatly rejoiced, had all the public ways been McAdamized.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

With Dyspeptics everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. Plantation Bitters will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of him is derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without danger or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. If they are not in such a condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The main thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the brain, and the nervous system being duly nurtured, will be likely to do their share. In view of these facts it is manifest that a powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all correctives and invigorants, and for this reason: It does not over-stimulate the system. The proportion of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants, however pure, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their characteristic effect is temporary, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression they were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and gums with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit which forms their basis, and which is in itself the most wholesome of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous exciant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. Erasmus Winslow's Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a cathartic powder, or draught or pill.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a choice followed by slimy, bilious stools. The relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgatives, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but a box of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-two boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm, the length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. jel7

Holloways Pills and Ointment.—Coughs and Colds, arising from checked perspiration or any other cause, may be immediately abated and rapidly cured by the use of HOLLOWAY'S Pills. They act both upon the bowels and the skin, and soon relieve every inflammatory symptom. If HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT be carefully rubbed into the chest and throat, it will assist in removing irritation from the lungs and windpipe, and materially aid the process of cure. It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where this medicine is for sale. 22

PAIN KILLER.

We beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivaled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates.

A SURE REMEDY. je10

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease quite well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts and the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been found to equal calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, bottle fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the tube, and a material aid from the food of decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. Nature throws the matter from the lungs over to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up the liver and stomach; the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take Schenck's Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 25 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y je4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION of the Boys' High School, under charge of Mr. Lewis W. Smith, Principal, and Mr. Stephen W. Clark, Assistant, took place on Friday afternoon. The schoolroom was beautifully decorated with flowers and engravings, and with fine crayon drawings on the blackboards—the pictures we believe being permanent ornaments of the place. The High School Committee, consisting of Hon. Albert R. Hatch, Rev. Geo. M. Adams and the honored and veteran teacher, Mr. S. M. DeMeritt, with nearly all the resident clergymen and a large number of visitors, quite filled all the available space. We give below the programme of exercises, which was gone through in a manner most creditable to both pupils and teachers.

1. Singing—"With Songs of Joy."
2. Salutatory, G. W. W. Walker.
3. Hannibal's Oath, Geo. J. Foster.
4. Practical Knowledge, Edward F. Swasey.
5. Speech of Job Whittle,* E. C. Richardson.
6. Singing—"Who is a brave man?"
7. Progress, F. W. Mathes.
8. The Baron's last Banquet, J. M. Shackford.
9. General Recitation.
10. Singing—"Departure."
11. Temperance Address, Frank L. Carkin.
12. The Union, Edward C. Simson.
13. Dialogue, "Examining a Teacher." Mr. S. (Hennessey); Dr. O. (Salter); Esq. (Foster); Dr. P. (Mathes); Dea. (Carkin).
14. Report of the Library, by the Librarian, John W. Laws.
15. Singing—"Rock of Liberty."
16. Utility of Culture, J. E. Hennessey.
17. Religion of the Sea, J. H. Seely.
18. Darius Green, W. R. Foster.
19. Home, J. L. Salter.
20. Singing—"Pull away Cheerily."
21. Voices of the dead, G. W. Prescott.
22. Obituary Address, J. G. Lightford.
23. Valedictory Oration, J. W. Laws.
24. Award of Medals and Diplomas. Remarks, Prayer. Singing—"America."

The exhibition was very interesting. Some of the declamation was very good indeed. "Jacob Whittle's Speech" (humorous) was well rendered, as was an essay on "Progress," the only fault in the latter being a little too much speed in delivery. "Practical Knowledge" was enunciated in a beautifully clear and distinct manner; and all the participants in the speaking exercises deserve praise for the manner in which they acquitted themselves. The Obituary and Valedictory Addresses were appropriate, and finely given by James G. Lightford and John W. Laws. In the General Recitation we were best pleased with "The effect of heat on the expansion of bodies" by a pupil named Heir, and a Composition on "Benedict Arnold," by Wm. R. Foster, which exhibited a power of reasoning from effects back to causes not always found in persons of mature age.

The Haven Medals were bestowed by Rev. Mr. Adams, as follows: for general good conduct and improvement, to Wm. R. Foster and William R. Gardner, 2d class, Maurice Peyser, 3d class, John L. Salter and Frank W. Mathes, 4th class; English composition, James M. Shackford, 3d class; mathematics, Geo. W. W. Walker, 4th class; Latin, John W. Laws, 4th class; bookkeeping, David E. Junkins, 3d class.

Albert R. Hatch, Esq., addressed and conferred the Diplomas upon the graduating class of eight, viz.; F. L. Carkin, John W. Laws, John L. Salter, G. W. W. Walker, G. J. Foster, C. W. Prescott, John Seely and J. E. Hennessey.

Remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Alden; prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. DeNormandie; "America" was sung by scholars and visitors, and the exercises were closed with a benediction by Rev. Mr. Adams.

COFFEE, pure and unadulterated, furnishes one of the most delightful of beverages, and Hayward & Co., of Boston, have at their Factory, 26 Haverhill Street, some of the purest and most fragrant berries it has been our fortune to test. Their gentlemanly Agent, Mr. Samuel F. Wiggin of Dover, has left a package of their best sample where he knew it would be most appreciated, and we can recommend it for trial to the veterans who like it in its native purity.

"YELLOW FEVER AT THE NAVY YARD," says the Biddeford Journal. Not any, if you please, Mr. Butler; there's no fever there as you'd think should you see the rush for employment. The fever is on the U. S. S. Narragansett (and not severe there); the Narragansett is at quarantine, and quarantine is two miles from the Navy Yard.

THE GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, Mr. A. M. Payson pincipal, and Miss A. C. Morgan, assistant, has its Exhibition on Saturday afternoon. We understand that the young ladies are handsomely decorating their room with flowers and evergreen for the occasion.

FIRE.—A small house near Foss' Beach in Rye, owned by Messrs. Edward Downs and Robt. Shapleigh, was burned on Friday afternoon. The loss, though not large, falls heavily on men illy able to bear it. The fire was accidental.

☞ At Dover, on Thursday, John Maynard Crawford of Lee, who killed Wm. H. H. Crawford, his father, in self-defence, recently, was acquitted and released from arrest.

MORAL SUASION.—We observed officer Entwistle persuading a whisky-fied individual, with unkempt hair and an unwashed face, towards the Police Station on Friday afternoon. The weather had become warmer at that time of day, and the prisoner concluded to heat his brain to a corresponding temperature, in keeping with the occasion, by practically making himself tester of the quality of the "pure sperits" not to be had on every corner.

He had a long coat on to assist in producing perspiration; over it is shoulder he carried a cane, and on the cane hung a valise. The good-natured Entwistle had him, and the cane, and the valise, and was making an introductory speech to the bewildered man as we came along. The bewildered understood it not and undertook to garrote the officer, who, in a patient way, mildly insisted on taking him to the Station house.

We have seen officers abuse men under arrest (not of late, however), but we never saw a more patient and forbearing man than officer Entwistle as he headed the procession which struggled by Congress Block on this occasion, with the valise, cane and whiskey barrel in tow.

The victim didn't succeed in rousing the temper of the officer, who perspired profusely and still progressed towards the haven where so many weary pilgrims have rested. Suddenly the prisoner changed his tactics and "so" in the dust of Market Square, a perfect wreck. Waves of dust rolled over him and the smell of whiskey reached the Police Station, just in sight. Marshal Johnson scented the battle from afar off and was seen hurrying in hot haste to the scene.

In the meantime officer Entwistle had raised his man to his feet, had cast away cane and valise, and was in the rear of the procession, urging his prisoner forward on the double quick, even as the hydraulic at the Navy Yard pushes a vessel from the launching ways to the water. The surprised coercee went down again and he soon disappeared within the virtuous doors of the lock-up, in a horizontal way of progression, with a policeman at each end.

From the Journal.

THE EUROPEAN CIRCUS.—Next Wednesday as will be seen by the advertisement, this company visits Portsmouth, promising an unusually brilliant display. The live lion in the streets and the gay cat will be remembered from their last visit. The dromidaries will add to the attractions. This establishment for the present season comprises 120 people, 144 horses, 12 camels, a den of performing lions, three massive golden chariots and 32 carriages. The fairy chariot is to be drawn by a team of fourteen Shetland ponies. The inside performances amount to twenty distinct acts,—equestrians, acrobats, leapers, vaulters, &c.,—claimed to be the best artists in the profession. We are requested to announce that among the prominent members are Mdle. Carlotta DeBerg, the English Equestrienne, the Misses Watson from the Alhambra Palace, London, James E. Cook and Marquiese, Bareback riders, Herr Holton The Conrad Family; Slappy and Whitney two great comiques; Sam Long and Frank Whitiker, two famous Clowns. The pagean leaves the Pavilion at 9½ A. M.

SEWING MACHINES.—We took note a few weeks since of the really excellent American Button-Hole Overseaming and Sewing Machine of which Mr. Howard N. Dunyon on Market st. is agent. For sometime we have considered it one of the best machines in the market, for the multiplicity of work it will accomplish, the nicety with which it is done, and the elegance of the overseaming and button hole stitch which is its peculiar province, and the ease with which it is run. At the time he had on hand an elegant cabinet machine, which would handsomely adorn the boudoir or parlor, beautifully complete in its arrangements for the convenience of the operator.

Morning Chronicle.

THE PEDDLER'S CART.

Concluded.

About ten minutes after this, I heard a motion in the cart, followed by a grinding noise, as though some heavy force was being applied to the door. I said nothing, but the idea struck me that the villain might judge where—sat, and shoot up through the top of the cart at me; so I sat down on the footboard.

Of course I knew that my unexpected passenger was a villain, for he must have been awake ever since I started, and nothing in the world but absolute villainy would have caused him to remain quiet so long, and then start up in this particular place. The thumping and crushing grew louder, and pretty soon I heard a human voice.

'Let me out of this!' he yelled, pretty loud.

I lifted my head so as to make him think I was in my usual place, and then asked him what he was doing there.

'Let me out, and I will tell you,' he replied.

'Tell me what you are in there for,'

'I got in here to sleep on the rags,' he answered.

'How did you get in?' I asked.

'Let me out, or I'll shoot you through the head!'

Just at that moment my horses's feet struck the hard road, and I knew that the rest of the route to Jackson would be good going, the distance twelve miles. I slipped back on the footboard and took the whip. In fifteen minutes we cleared the wood, and away we went at a keen jump. The chap inside kept yelling to be let out.

Finally he stopped, and in a few moments came the report of a pistol—one—two—three—four, one right after the other. I heard the balls whizz over my head. If I had been on my seat, one of these balls, if not two, would have gone through me. I popped up my head again and gave a yell, and then I said:

'Oh, God, save me!—I'm a dead man!'

Then I made a shuffling noise, as though I was falling off, and finally settled down on the footboard again. I now urged up the old mare, by giving her an occasional poke with my whip-stock, and she peeled faster than ever.

The man called out to me twice more pretty soon after this, and as he got no reply, he made some tremendous efforts to break the door open, and as this failed him, he made several attempts on the top. But I had no fear of his doing anything there, for the top of the cart is framed with dove-tails, and each sleeper bolted to the posts with iron bolts. I had it made so I could carry loads there.

By and by, after all else failed, the scamp commenced to holler 'Whoa!' to the horse, and kept it up until he became hoarse. All this time I kept perfectly quiet, holding the reins firmly, and kept poking the beast with the stock. We were not an hour going that ten miles—not a bit of it. I hadn't much fear; perhaps, I might tell the truth, and say I had none, for I had a good pistol, and more than that, my passenger was safe, yet I was glad when I came to the old four-barrel factory that stands at the edge of Jackson village, and in ten minutes more hauled up in front of the tavern, and found a couple of men in the barn cleaning down some stage horses.

'Well, old fellow,' said I, as I got down and went to the back of the wagon, 'you have had a good ride, hav'n't you?'

'Who are you?' he cried, and he swore as he asked the question.

'I am the man you tried to shoot,' was the reply.

'Where am I? Let me out.'

'Look here, we've come to a safe stopping-place and, mind you, my pistol is ready for you the moment you show yourself. Now, lie quiet.'

By this time the hostlers had come to see what was the matter and I explained the case. After this I got one of them to run and vent the sheriff, and tell him what I believed I'd got for him. The first streaks of daylight were just coming up, and in half an hour it would be broad daylight. In less than that time the sheriff came, and two men with him. I told him the whole affair in a few words, and then made for the cart. He told the chap inside who he was, and if he made the least resistance he'd be a dead man. I then slipped the wrench out, and as I let the door down the fellow made a spring. I caught him by the ankle, and he came down on his face, and the moment I saw the chap, I recognized him. He was marched to the lock up, and I told the sheriff I should remain in town all day.

After breakfast the sheriff came down to the tavern, and told me that I had caught the very bird, and that if I would remain until the next morning I should have the reward of two hundred dollars which had been offered.

I found my goods all safe, paid the express agent for bringing them from Indianapolis, and then went to work to stow them away in my cart. The ballet-holes were found in the top of the vehicle just as I had expected. They were in a line, about five inches apart, and had I been where I usually sit, two of them must have hit me somewhere about the small of the back, and passed upward, for they were sent with heavy charges of powder, and his pistols were large ones.

On the next morning, the sheriff called upon me, and paid me two hundred dollars in gold, for he had made himself sure that he had got the right villain.

I afterwards found a letter in the post office at Portsmouth for me, from the sheriff of Hancock county, informing me that the fellow who had tried to kill and rob me was in prison for life

NIGHT AIR NOT INJURIOUS.—There is a popular prejudice concerning the evil effects of night air, about which a word must be said. In her admirable writings on hygiene and the management of the sick, Miss Nightingale has done much to correct this mistake. It was formerly the universal belief that the air of night was very injurious. But the fact is that, except under certain circumstances, it is as healthful, or even more so, than that of the day-time.

The night air of large cities such as London, when the bustle and commotion which cause it to be loaded with dust particles is comparatively quelled, and the numerous fires which contaminate it with their smoke are mostly extinguished, is purer than that of the day. Nothing conduces more to healthy sleep than good ventilation, and no mode of ventilation surpasses that obtained by opening a window at the top, by which the influence of draught is avoided, while the upper stratum of air, to which impurities ascend, is constantly renewed.

But there is still another reason for at times adopting night, even in preference to day, ventilation. In sultry weather it is a common mistake to open the windows, instead of keeping them altogether closed, as is the case in very hot climates. But a little reflection will show that since the height of the thermometer in the sun always greatly exceeds that shown at the same time by another thermometer placed in the shade, by opening our windows we admit air much heated into our rooms. The proper time under such circumstances for ventilation is during the night, after the atmosphere has cooled down. By adopting this plan in hot weather, the temperature of a room may always be kept several degrees lower than if the opposite course is pursued.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF
REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY
is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE
it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE
it combines the properties of a mild diuretic so-dorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting prespiration relieves the blood of a portion of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY
is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE
rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and joints; and as the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the velmous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY
is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE
it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the febrile system. In all fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient, nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medical men.

The Chronicle.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

BOSTON, July 14, 1869.

The Jubilee being over, comparative peace now reigns in Boston. I came near writing "rains," as Fluvius, or some other clerk of the weather has opened his floodgates to weep over the sins of the city and wash the dust from the parched streets. The exodus to the watering places is temporarily checked thereby. Some people incline to the belief that the prohibitory law is a shrewd dodge to keep Boston people at home, by making the "hub" a strict watering place.

A druggist on Boylston street has a stuffed duck in his window. Isn't that too suggestive of quack medicines.

An umbrella carried athwart the person in crowded streets is indicative of weakness. I have studied this while looking for "that umbrella," and notice that it is only old men, or feeble women of either sex who are guilty of such an infringement on the rights of fellow pedestrians.

Building, and the improvement of streets, are the most active branches of business here at present. The testing of different kinds of wooden pavement for streets, such as Nicholson, Stafford, &c.,—keeps numbers of men tearing up portions of our thoroughfares, and other numbers busy building block houses, which they roof with coal tar and gravel for a road-bed.

APPLEDORE HOUSE, July 15.

The Eastern Railroad and the staunch little steamer Appledore are responsible for my change of base; and capital modes of transit I find them to be.

The fog shuts us in heavily here tonight, but the pulse of the Atlantic beats its never-ceasing monotone 'gainst the granite rocks as steadily as ever. Admiral Goldsborough and Commo. Boggs were among the visitors to-day.

With the fog and the night came the fire yacht Vesta, of Boston, last from Gloucester, bringing a large party of gentlemen, from Albany and Syracuse, bound on a cruise to the eastward.

The fishing at present is mostly in shore, the dogfish having possession of the grounds to seaward. A large school of mackerel were released from a seine a few days since by the piratical dogfish who came up from below in schools, and fairly ate the bottom from the net. H.

—An insane man in White Pigeon, Mich., recently burned $1,100 in greenbacks and buried the ashes. He had just received the money for four years' service on a farm, which he had suddenly taken a notion to leave. He explained that he used the money in this way "to help him through purgatory." He had given no indication of insanity before.

—An old gentleman who rides almost daily to Boston from Lowell on the cars, has a card with a slip cut from it, just to the width of a line in the newspaper, which he uses to read through. Whether it assists the eyes or not, we cannot say.

—The Harvard Advocate reports the following as taken from a gravestone in Maine: "Our little Jacob has been taken away from this earthly garden to bloom in a superior flower-pot above."

—A Texas paper says that, though courting can still go on, getting married is played out, there being no one in office there who is authorized to perform the ceremony.

—Josh Billings says: "When a young man ain't good for nothing else, I like tew see him have a gold headed cane. If he can't buy a cane, let him part his hair in the middle."

—An itinerant, preaching on the "Depravity of the Age," said the little children who could neither speak nor walk, were to be seen running about the streets cursing and swearing.

—One of the Paris papers, in the lack of important news of the kind which it is permitted to publish, gives a list of prominent Frenchmen who are bald-headed.

—A Nebraska editor says "hell is treeless," and warmly exhorts his readers to "plant trees" in Nebraska, for otherwise it might be that "comparisons are odorous."

—A member of Congress advertises in a New York paper a cadetship appointment to the United States Naval Academy for sale.

—Of a person who died lately at Bethany, Conn., the obituary says: "He was as honest a man as ever lived, and had worn no hat for forty years."

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on my account. [Je15 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

MONDAY, JULY 19, 1869.

THE PRINTERS' CONVENTION.

The second annual Convention of the New Hampshire Publishers, Editors and Printers' Association, was held at the great Pemigewasset House, Plymouth, on Thursday last. It was a very successful and enjoyable occasion, socially; and the business of the Convention was in no wise neglected. The Chronicle was doubly represented there, but other duties and pleasures so required the time, that we are glad to avail ourselves of so good reports as these by the Boston Journal and Herald:

The annual excursions which the New Hampshire editors have instituted, are among the most interesting events of the season in the Granite State. It was the good fortune of the writer to participate this year, and the pleasures of the occasion will long be remembered.

The Editors' Convention exists for business purposes chiefly, and its results are very good for our brethren of that State; but the incidental "good time" is not the least important function it performs, in bringing together men of all parties, and smoothing the asperities of political warfare—which, by the way, need as much smoothing in New Hampshire as anywhere else.

Besides the forty or fifty members of the Association, invitations were sent out this year to about one hundred and fifty gentlemen of the press out of the State, in Maine, Massachusetts and Vermont, for a rendezvous, with their ladies, at the Pemigewasset House, Plymouth, on Thursday evening.—About one hundred responded, including ladies, and there met the Association, every newspaper in the State but three or four being represented.

Upon the arrival of the evening train the first thing in order was supper, which, as everybody knows, means something at the Pemigewasset House. The house, by the way, is in excellent order for the summer campaign. Its enterprising managers, Messrs. Morse and French, appear determined to maintain the high reputation the establishment has won in previous seasons. Guests have begun to arrive in good numbers, although the rush has not yet commenced.

THE BUSINESS MEETING of the Association was held shortly after supper, the President, J. M. Hill of the Daily Patriot of Concord, in the Chair. Various matters of interest to the Association, but of no public importance, were acted upon, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year;

President, John M. Hill, Concord Patriot.

Vice Presidents, E. H. Cheney, Lebanon Free Press; E. D. Boylston, Amherst Cabinet; John R. Varney, Dover Enquirer.

Recording Secretary—C. F. Livingston of Manchester.

Corresponding Secretary—Geo. E. Jenks, of Concord Statesman.

Treasurer—O. C. Moore, of Nashua Telegraph

Executive Committee—Col. Henry O. Kent, of Coos Republican, Lancaster; Frank W. Miller, Portsmouth Chronicle; George H. Sturtevant, Concord Monitor.

It was voted to hold the Convention next year at the Ocean House, Rye Beach.

THE PUBLIC EXERCISES were held in the elegant and pleasant parlor of the hotel. Mr. Hill, the President, called the gathering to order about nine o'clock, and after a few introductory remarks, introduced as the orator of the occasion, Rev. T. H. Miller of the Portsmouth Chronicle and New Hampshire Gazette.

Mr. Miller is one of the oldest editors and printers of the Granite State, (being 68 years of age, and having seen fifty-five years of service at the business in all departments,) and he gave some very interesting facts connected with the early days of the printing art in New Hampshire. He confined his remarks more particularly to the early history of the New Hampshire Gazette, which claims to be the oldest paper in the country. His reminiscences concerning Mr. John Melcher, who was the second publisher of the Gazette, (Daniel Fowle having been the first,) were full of interest.

Lieut. George A. Marden of the Lowell Courier, a New Hampshire boy, read a poem which depicted the trials and joys of "ye editor" and "ye printer" in a lively and decidedly entertaining vein. The production was replete with brilliant sallies of wit, which were received with loud laughter.

On motion of Col. Kent of Lancaster, copies of both the Address and Poem were requested for publication in the minutes of the Association.

A HOP AND A SERENADE.—After the address and poem had been listened to, an hour or two was pleasantly passed in dancing, — the Quadrille Band attached to the House furnishing the music.

About eleven o'clock there was a serenade by Thompson's Band of Ashland, (late Holderness,) whose visit was a pleasant surprise. The Band is a very excellent one, and their music was greatly enjoyed, both on this occasion and on the steamer Lady of the Lake, and at Centre Harbor, next day — for all which they kindly volunteered their valuable services. [It is plain enough that Thompson is a good name for a Band leader, at either end of the State, and whether spelt with an h or not.—Ed. Chron.]

EXCURSION ON LAKE WINNEPISSAUKEE. After enjoying a refreshing night's sleep and one of Messrs. Morse and French's capital breakfasts, the members of the Association and their guests took the cars for the Weirs, where they went on board the charming little steamer "Lady of the Lake," Capt. Sanborn, for an excursion on the pleasant waters of the Lake. The weather at first was not of the pleasantest, but it cleared up, and the trip was nevertheless greatly enjoyed. After a delightful sail about the Lake, the party landed at Centre Harbor, where a capital dinner was provided at the Senter House—Col. Huntress doing the compliments of the occassion for the guests of the Association and the Band.

The Association held an adjourned meeting while on the boat, and some business of no public importance was transacted. It was voted to leave the selection of Orator and Poet for next year, and also the time for holding the Convention, to the Executive Committee.

Mr. J. E. Butler, of the Biddeford Journal, Secretary of the Maine Printers' Association, was present as delegate to the N. H. Association; and in their name invited the latter to attend the sixth Maine Convention at Portland Aug. 4th and 5th prox. It was also suggested that the Conventions of the two States, meet together at Portsmouth and Rye Beach next year, and a committee consisting of Frank W. Miller of the Chronicle, J. R. Varney of the Dover Enquirer, and B. P. Coggswell of the Concord Monitor, was appointed to attend the Maine Convention and confer with them on the subject; and a general desire was expressed, that if the double Convention should be arranged, Hon. James G. Blaine of Maine may be invited to deliver the oration, and B. P. Shillaber, Esq. of Boston the Poem. Both gentlemen are practical printers and very successful editors.

The following named gentlemen were made Honorary Members of the Association: John Prentiss, Keene; Simeon Ide, Claremont; T. H. Miller, Portsmouth; Ass McFarland, True Osgood, Rev. Nathaniel Bouton, D. D., and Geoge S. Towle, Concord; George Wadleigh, John T. Gibbs, Dover; Samuel Hall, Exeter; Horatio Kimball, Keene; Hon. Jacob H. Ela, Rochester; Joseph Kidder, Manchester; Dr. I. P. Chase, Henniker; President Ass. D. Smith of Dartmouth College; Isaac Adams, Sandwich; O. D. Murray, Nashua; Geo. A. Marden, Lowell; Jacob R. Dodge, Washington, D. C.; J. M. W. Yerrington, B. P. Shillaber, Boston.

The fog in the morning had prevented the whole of the grand sail intended; but soon after dinner the Lady of the Lake appeared again and took us back to the Weirs. This part of the trip was delightful. The clouds had disappeared and a fresh breeze played upon the waters, giving us a touch of this famous lake in one of its best moods. From the Weirs we returned to Concord by rail, and thence our several ways.

On the passage back from Centre Harbor the, guests of the Association met in the cabin and passed a series of resolutions, which but faintly expressed the thanks of the party for the pleasant occasion they had enjoyed. The Lake and mountain region is in its glory now, the hotels never were in a better condition, and the country is lovely, the recent rainy season having preserved the verdant appearance. The rush of travel has hardly commenced, but it promises to be as large as usual.

The arrangements for the festivities were carried out in most admirable style, and the affair was very much enjoyed by all the participants. Mr. Dodge, Superintendent of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad, Messrs. Morse and French of the Pemigewassett House, Capt Sanborn of the "Lady of the Lake," and Col. Huntress of the Senter House, all contributed greatly to the pleasures of the occasion.

To this we will add for ourselves, that part of the company dined with much comfort, at the Phenix Hotel in Concord, on the way up; and that the various accommodations and attentions, on the Concord and the Montreal Roads, and on the steamer Lady, were ample and all that could be desired.

☞ The famous European Circus, whose really very fine, novel and interesting parade through the streets of our city some two years ago will be well remembered by thousands who witnessed it, will visit Portsmouth again, as is announced by their advertisement, on Wednesday next. Judging from the faithful manner in which the European Circus carried out their programme on their previous visit, and the entire satisfaction they then gave the public, it may safely be presumed that their public parade will, with its new attractions, be one of the most splendid pageants ever seen here; and with the vast amount of high artistic talent in the company, it may also be reasonably inferred that their performances within their pavilion will be of the first order of merit.

☞ Hon. Daniel Marcy's new ship was successfully launched on Saturday, from his yard at the South End.

The News.

An accident on the Union Pacific road, by which two persons were killed and several wounded, occurred on Thursday.

The official majority of Gov. Walker of Virginia is 17,500.

A terrible tornado swept over Lexington on Friday. Trees and fences were blown down in every direction, streets blocked with wrecks, and many houses were unroofed and otherwise damaged. Some roofs were carried nearly a hundred rods. The Caucasian newspaper office is a perfect wreck. The growing crops were prostrated and fruit trees destroyed.

At Lurgan, Ireland, on the 12th instant, an Orange mob was pelted with stones. They retaliated by utterly destroying seventeen houses occupied by Catholics. The woodwork and furniture of the buildings were then carried into the street and burned. At Newry, the Orange hall was attacked by Catholics. The occupants fired on the assailants, who were driven away, leaving three men badly wounded.

☞ Moses Yeaton, Esq., of this city, is now engaged in building a Store on the lot of Mr. Oxford, near the Stone Church. He is not (as stated in a borrowed paragraph from the Journal,) repairing a meeting house in Stratham, and has not been so engaged. He has been at work on the Congregational Meeting House in North Hampton, which has been lifted up, and a chapel constructed on the ground floor.

☞ Messrs. Laighton & Trafton announce that the Excursion to the Shoals in the Steamer Appledore will take place on Monday evening next, instead of Tuesday as was intended. The tickets are now ready for delivery, and can be obtained of Messrs L. and T. only.

The town of Stratham, with its 25 Wiggin voters, is beaten. An exchange says there are in the town of Strafford 67 men by the name of Foss upon the check list, and 57 by the name of Berry. There are 46 families in town by the name of Foss.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; science does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on suffrence and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success has only been commensurate with their true deserts. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

Petroleum V. Nasby terms "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" the "Fountin uv Youth," and his is not the only instance where it has "made the old man young again." It is warranted in every case to restore the hair to its natural color, and is a beautiful dressing. Wheeling Intelligencer.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price. jel7

"FRESH AS A MAIDEN'S BLUSH"—Is the pure peachy Complexion which follows the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm. It is the True Secret of Beauty. Fashionable Ladies in society understand this.

The Magnolia Balm changes the rustic Country Girl into a City Belle more rapidly than any other one thing. Redness, Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Blotches and all effects of the Summer Sun disappear when it is used, and a genial, cultivated, fresh expression is obtained which rivals the Bloom of Youth. Beauty is possible to all who will invest 75 cents in any respectable store and insist on getting the Magnolia Balm. je21 1mw

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure musical refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SPECIAL NOTICES.

Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of him is derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without danger or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. Our days are not in such a condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The wise thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for if the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the brain, and the nervous system, being duly nourished, will be likely to do theirs. In view of these facts it is manifest that a powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all correctives and invigorants, and for this reason: it does not over-stimulate the system. The proportions of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants, however pure, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their exhilarating effect is temporary, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression they were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case when HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and grains with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit which forms their basis, and which is in itself the most wholesome of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

Is Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertized preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

Wholesale agent, John F. HENRY, No. 8 College Place, New York City.

A Great Political Revolution

was accomplished by the election of Grant, and a revolution of immense social importance has been effected by the general substitution of that pure and harmless preparation,

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye,

for the deadly compound of lead and brimstone of which, according to the "Journal of Chemistry" and the "Medical Gazette," more than thirty varieties have been foisted upon the public! Cristadoro's Dye is the only one that

HAS BEEN ANALYZED;

and Professor Chilton, over his own signature, declared that it is perfectly wholesome.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with cramps in the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a cholic followed by slimy, bilious stools. Thereby relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cobb, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-two boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. jel7

Holloways Pills and Ointment.—Coughs and Colds, resulting from checked perspiration or any other cause, may be immediately abated and rapidly cured by the use of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. These Pills act upon the bowels and the skin, and soon relieve every inflammatory symptom. If HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT be briskly rubbed into the chest and throat, it will assist in removing irritation, the lungs and windpipe, and materially aid the process of a free cure. PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates,

A SURE REMEDY. je19

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be thoroughly used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except Calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, neutralizes the stomach to threw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood, without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry up the pills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, removing irritation, healing the lungs and windpipe, and materially aid the process of a free cure. Sold by all Druggists.

To Remove Moth Patches, Freckles, and Tan from the face, use PERRY'S MOTH AND FRECKLE LOTION. Sold by all Druggists. Prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY.

FOR BLACK WORMS, AND PIMPLES ON THE FACE, use PERRY'S COMEDONE AND PIMPLE REMEDY, prepared only by Dr. B. C. PERRY, 49 Bond Street, New York. Sold everywhere.—The trade supplied by wholesale Druggists. mh8dawóm

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF THE GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, Saturday afternoon, was a very interesting affair, the school room being well crowded by the friends and relatives of the scholars. The excellent teachers, Aurin M. Payson, Esq., and Miss Arabella C. Morgan, may well feel proud of the results of their teaching, and the growing interest in these annual exercises shows the appreciation in which they are held.

The School room was tastefully decorated and the blackboards were covered with very fine drawings—the bouquets of flowers and evergreen pendants which adorned the room being no small additions to the beauty of the scene.

The graduating class, ten in number, were dressed in white, and looked as only young ladies can look after the satisfactory completion of a four years' course of study previous to their entry upon the larger school of life, where they can but remember with satisfaction their brief term of study just closed.

The exercises were very entertaining and we append the programme of the exhibition, in which all did their parts faithfully and well.

EXERCISES.

1. Music—"Cheerily Sound the Strain."
2. Latin Salutatory, Miss C. E. Green.
3. Rehearsals, "Nothing to wear."
   Misses Pickering & Adams.
4. Music—"The Breaking Waves Dashed High."
5. Dialogue, "Sewing Circle." 4th Class.
6. Recitation in Astronomy, 2d Class.
7. Music—"Bonnie Dundee."
8. Rehearsals, "Glove and the Lions." "Fisher Folk." Misses Lyman and Brown.
9. Reading Compositions, "Passing Away," "Voices from Sleeping Nations."
   Misses Green and Sherburne.
10. Recitation in Physical Geography, 1st Class.
11. Music "Ship of State."
12. Rehearsals, "Golden Wedding Ring," "Jesus and the Dove."
    Misses Shores and Knox.
13. Recitation in Trigonometry. 3d Class.
14. Dialogue, "Excitement in Kettleville."
15. Rehearsals, "The Toast," "The Funeral of Arvalan." Misses Spalding and Hackett.
16. Music—"The Sunbeams are Glancing."
17. Rehearsals, "The Well of St. Keyne." "Knocking." Misses Sherburne and Green.
18. Valedictory, Miss G. O. Adams.

Names of Graduating Class.—Charlotte Crosby Adams, Emily Frances Brown, Catherine Emily Green, Mary Gertrude Hackett, Evelyn Louisa Knox, Theodora Lyman, Sarah Elizabeth Pickering, Mary Alice Sherburne, Mabel Shores, Elizabeth Toscan Spalding.

We admired the perseverance of the pleasing young lady who delivered the Salutatory address in Latin, but could not see the necessity which prompted the assignment of a Salutatory in a dead language, which not one in twenty of the audience understood a word of or cared a word for. The young lady acquitted herself admirably in the "Sewing circle" dialogue.

The exercises passed off very smoothly, except the Rehearsals were too lengthy and tedious, an evil which we hope will be remedied by the selection of shorter pieces at future exhibitions. We were unable to remain during the latter portion of the exercises, and therefore cannot particularize many interesting portions.

The Haven Medals were distributed to Annie Lucilla Louisa Noble and Mary Frances Garrett, of the 2d Class; Stella Cornelia Webster, Ida Frances Neal and Ellen Walker Bufford, of the 3d Class; and Charlotte C. Adams, Catherine E. Green, Emily F. Brown and Mary A. Sherburne, of the graduating Class, There being an insufficient number of Medals for distribution (as usual), the following young ladies who deserved Medals and didn't get them were designated for especial mention; —2nd Class, Annabel Scott Tucker, Clara Eva Rand, Ellen Metcalf Adams, Alice Jane Neal, Amanda Pickering, Lizzie Langley, Ella Frances Marden, Ellen Amelia Newton, Alice Ada Lowd, Alice Jane Hanscom, Clara Anna Hanscom, Emma Frances Fraser, Clara Barri, Sarah Goodwin Bright and Lucy Jane Cate; 3d Class, Jennie Dodge Goodrich, Agnes Emery Plumer, Mary Elizabeth Bell, Maria Frances Stover, Mary Anna Rand, Annie Jane Sides, Annie Florence Baker, Mary Ellen Varrell, Emily Elizabeth Tomlinson, Georgette Ball Mason, Adelaide Frances McIntire, Kate Augusta Willey, Charlotte Ella Brown, Katherine Mahoney and Margaret Jane Woods. Diplomas were awarded to the graduates by Mr. S. M. DeMeritt of the High School Committee.

After the close of the exercises brief remarks were made by Rev. Geo. M. Adams, Rev. Jas. DeNormandie, Lyman D. Spalding, Esq., Albert R. Hatch, Esq., and the Principal of the School. Visitors and scholars then joined in singing "America," and Rev. Mr. Smith closed with a benediction.

☞ We learn that Mr. Downs' half of the dwelling house near Foss' beach, which was burned on Friday, was insured for $250, and the furniture was insured for $160, in Harvey's Agency.

Chronicle & Gazette Correspondence.

YORK, July 17.

Messrs. Editors:—A little lad named Henry Furbish, aged 4 years, was drowned in York River on Thursday. He was the son of Mr. Henry Furbish, who was drowned about four years ago in Piscataqua River. The kind mother is sorely afflicted, having lost a dear daughter, aged 6 years, about one year ago.

Messrs. Norton & Co. have their brick yard in full operation; are now burning a kiln of 200,000—another is being set. They have finished and are now occupying their new boarding house, 38X76 feet, 4 stories.

Haying is the word now, and considerable has been put under the shingles since the 5th.

James S. Donnell, who was fatally injured at Quincy, by cars, on the 9th, was brought here and buried on Monday, 12th.

In this connection, I am reminded that considerable censure is thrown upon the telegraph operator, for not (as rumor says) "delivering the message on the night it was received." The facts in the case, as he says, are, that the message in regard to the injury of the young man was sent by the Superintendent of the line, to him, merely as an item of news, and not as a regularly transmitted telegram; and that he (the operator) was under no obligation as manager of the office, to deliver the message, or even mention the fact to any one. Yet he did do so, and that in presence of those who seem pleased to give currency to the stories afloat.

Why did not they tell the par onts as well as to claim that he should perform that unpleasant duty?—But, to his credit be it said, he delivered the news (not the message) as soon as practicable after he knew it,—which, by the way, was not until 8 o'clock on Saturday morning, the news having been received by his clerk on the previous evening. But suppose he had known and delivered the news to the parents on Friday evening, they could not have got to Boston to see the son alive, as he died on Saturday morning at 6.50, and the only result would have been to give them a night of trouble and anxiety.

Your correspondent thinks that the office has been managed with credit to Mr. Plaisted, and that all telegrams have been delivered with promptness, and believes those having business with the office will agree with him on that point. And he feels that such rumors as slanderers have started are not pleasant, and might, if not contradicted, be of injury, at least to the Company, if not to him. Yours truly, C. M.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.—On Saturday, Mr. T. H. Drake of Syracuse, N. Y., who arrived at the Shoals the day before, cut his throat while laboring under a temporary fit of insanity. He is about 30 years of age and has been engaged in spending a large fortune lately left him. His attempt at suicide would have proved fatal, had he not made an upward cut instead of a direct one across the throat. As it was he severed the muscles of the tongue and made an ugly wound. The Messrs. Laighton with commendable promptitude despatched the steamer Appledore to Portsmouth, and Dr. Laighton soon had the patient under his care. On Sunday Mr. Drake was doing well.

☞ There is to be a Match Trot on Saturday P. M., July 25th, for $500, between the horses Martin Luther of New Durham and Rosa of Dover. Also a Match between Nellie Locke of Portsmouth and Empress of Boston, for $500, either on the same day or the Wednesday following. Also, four grand trots for Prizes of $1000, Aug. 4 and 5. All at Rockingham Trotting Park, Portsmouth.

☞ Marshal Johnson and his Assistants have arrested John Williams (colored), ship's cook of the U. S. S. Pawnee, and a confederate, for alleged robbery from the stateroom of the surgeon of the ship. A diamond ring, diamond pin and gold chain, valued at $300, were recovered. A diamond pin worth $250 and $500 in gold are missing.

☞ We learn that Rev. Joseph Freeman of Hanover, Mass., has accepted a call from the Second Parish in York, and will enter on his labors, the first Sabbath in August.

DONN PIATT'S EXPERIENCE AS AN EDITOR.

Whether I am competent to edit or publish a paper or not, there are few who have had more experience, and therefore more right to express an opinion on the subject. I began at an age when I ought to have been at school. In 1840, Judge Warden, then familiarly known as Bob Warden, turned up on the Mac-a-Cheek, with the identical press the late Ben. Franklin learned his trade on. How Bob became possessed of this complicated wonder of wood or iron I don't know, but I do know that it is now on exhibition as the identical press of Franklin's apprenticeship, for I saw it so exhibited, and assured the amazed individual who had it in charge that I too had served an apprenticeship on the same infernal machine. Robert had, with his dress, just enough type to set up one side of an eight by ten newspaper. As the political excitement waxed warm we were drawn in, and soon astonished the valley of the Mac-a-Cheek with a sheet that, I flattered myself, for vigor of editorials, and industry and enterprise of publication, has had few equals. If I recollect, T. G. Gallagher, R. B. Warden and the undersigned made up the firm. We wrote, set up and worked off the other side, and then mounting our horses, were our own carriers.

Looking over the yellow pages of the file before me, I must say that our ideas of writing were crude. There is a personality that is positively painful. Some of the above would throw in the shade the famous quarrel of the rural press chronicled by Pickwick. The specimens of what was intended as wit are rather forlorn. One style was to print the name of an obnoxious opponent without the customary capital letter. A certain Doctor Jones, for example, evidently an active and pestiferous whig, is spoken of as "one jones," and, as his name in full was Hamilton O. Jones, no end of fun was supposed to exist in printing it "Hamilton Oh! jones." I am sorry to confess it, but the wit of the Democratic Club was of rather a mean and low order. I am sad to know that it did not die with this little journal. To get hold of a name and distort it—to shake and worry it as a pup will an old boot, is to-day the same indication of a mean, poverty-stricken intellect as it was then.

The venerable adipose, who to this day edits the Urbana Citizen, seems to have been an object of great wrath to the editors, proprietors, and publishers of the democratic club. His name fearfully distorted, appears on every page, and in nearly every column. The entire range of zoology is exhausted for epithets to define this inoffensive gentleman, who was probably only a common instance of a man,

"Whose head, being larger than common,
O'er-balanced the rest of his fat."

But on this rival the club culminates in a doggerel that is a parody on Burns and must have made the enemy wish he was dead. They read as follows:—

"In a former time it came to pass,
The de'il got mad to make an ass,
A thing there is no tax on;
When suddenly he changed his plan,
And turned his ass into a man,
And called it Joshua Saxton.

And, in fact, the truth to tell,
The deil did his work so well,
As well the devil can;
Catch Joshua in a mood profound,
When the awkward brute goes dulung round,
You'd think it was a man.

But when filled with vain conceit,
He opes his ponderous jaws to speak—
He did the other day;
You start back, filled with horrid fears,
And stick both fingers in your ears—
You know it by the bray."

Years after, when the editors and proprietors of the club found themselves in the republican party, Charley Flood, then editing the Urbana Union, suggested that an apology was due Joshua, or the devil, and he did not know which. It did not seem to strike any one that the apology was really due that much abused and useful animal, the ass.

This style of editing, in such a heated time, was, of course, productive of wrath and some violence. The talented editors were especially objects of vituperation and assault, and had rather a hard time of it. The office was broken into and the limited assortment of type knocked into pi. "The infuriated mob, instigated by that fiend, Saxton," as the paper asserted, seemed, however, to respect that sacred relic of the great Franklin, for that was not damaged. It may be that it frightened them. The editors had their eyes in a chronic state of mourning. But they were game and kept up the war, until one day a long-bodied, broad-shouldered, double-fisted democrat, named Jim Moore, stalked into the editorial sanctum, and made the novel proposition of being published as the responsible editors.

"You ain't up to these whig fellows, you ain't. Just turn 'em over to me—say I'm the 'sponsible editor, will you?"

This was novel, but pleasing, and Jeems was duly installed in the post he solicited. Not long after an inspiring blacksmith, or eloquent tinker, addressed the hard-cidertes. Our notice of this event reads to the effect that "our quiet town was fearfully startled and alarmed by a strange noise that broke out with great violence on Saturday last near the church. On repairing to the spot we discovered that the unearthly bellowing came from a stray long-ears that had wandered into our town. The owner of this disagreeable beast would do well to capture and stable him."

The papers were scarcely distributed before the eloquent blacksmith pounced into the office, followed by a crowd of friends.

"Where's the editor of this nigger baby's dip!" roared the stumper.

"Don't allow no profane language on these premises," responded the ad interim responsible editor, turning over the exchanges, and scarcely looking at the indignant intruder.

"You be d—d! I want the editor I say."

"Well, well, well," cried Jim, with dignity, as if his precious time was being intruded upon by a fellow beneath his notice, "I'm the 'sponsible editor."

"No, you ain't," chorused the crowd, "you're only Jim Moore."

"Don't try to fool me, foamed the orator. "I want the fellow that writ that," pointing at the somewhat personal paragraph.

"Ef you say I'm not the 'sponsible editor," exclaimed Jim, getting up, and it seemed as if he never would get done doing that, "you are a d—d liar! You are a d—d liar any how!"—and in the twinkling of a telegraph the injured orator found himself stranded on the curbstones, with his lately sympathizing friends, regarding him curiously from behind corners. It is not necessary to say that we were not again disturbed.

☞ The latest news concerning the accident on the Erie Railroad at Mast Hope, shows that the first accounts were not exaggerated. James Griffin, the engineer of the freight train left-standing on the switch, was asleep just before the accident occurred. The express train from New York came sweeping round the curve at the speed of forty miles an hour, hastening to make up lost time. The noise of its approach startled the sleeping engineer. He thought the switchman had called to him to go ahead, and seizing the lever he turned on steam and moved the cars a length, till the fore wheels caught in the frog of the unopened switch, just far enough to thrust the side of the engine across the path of the express, and in a moment the lightning train was upon him, striking the outer rim of his left cylinder head. He was for 18 years fireman on the road, and a temperate man. He wept bitterly for his carelessness, but afterwards fled.

The Coroner's jury has rendered a verdict that the accident was caused by the recklessness of James Griffin, the engineer of the freight train. Griffin has been arrested. There seems to have been no occasion to distrust the faithfulness of engineer Griffin heretofore. The man has been in the employment of the company about five years, and the testimony in favor of his general sobriety of deportment was universal, nor had he ever been found delinquent previous to this accident.

—Two women have a lawsuit in Paris, each claiming to be editor of the "Journal des Debats."

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough, Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS, COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs farther relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease, will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous adds: simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

It tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent of alimentary food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic sudorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the velnous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

It opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

Mr. Wm. Blood, of Franconia, recently set a trap in his sheep pasture, and caught a bear which weighed three hundred pounds and was lean at that. In a tree near by was a bear cub, which was soon brought down.

Rev. Leonard Swain, D. D., died in Providence, R. I., on the 14th inst., aged 48 years. He was a native of Concord, graduated at Dartmouth in 1842 and at Andover Theological Seminary in 1847. He was at one time a teacher in Pinkerton Academy, Derry, was five years pastor of the Pearl-street (Congregational) church in Nashua, and was afterwards settled over a church in Providence, where he remained till his death.

At Hanover, on the 13th inst., while Rev. Dr. Lord, ex-President of Dartmouth College was riding alone in a carriage, the horse stumbled, and Dr. Lord was violently thrown against the dasher, cutting a severe gash in his forehead and badly bruising himself. The shock to his system was so great that he is now confined to his bed by sickness.

The Tilden Female Seminary, at West Lebanon, to which large additions have been made, was re-dedicated on the afternoon of the 15th. Addresses were made by President Smyth of Dartmouth College, President Angell of the Vermont University, Wm. Tilden Blodgett of New York, and J. D. Hoseley of West Lebanon.

The Manchester Locomotive Works have been very much enlarged, and six locomotives are turned out monthly. The works employ 400 men.

The legislature passed a law allowing respondents in criminal cases to become witnesses on their own request.

Captain Rice Dudley, a lineal descendant of Governor Dudley, died at Pembroke on Sunday last, aged 75 years.

The largest and most spirited meeting ever held by the business men of Concord, convened in Eagle Hall, Saturday evening—the mayor of the city, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, in the chair, with Anson S. Marshall, Esq., as Secretary. The meeting was held in answer to a call published only three days before the time assigned; but the number present, and their resolute spirit, afforded the fullest assurance that the people of the Capital are awake to the object set forth in the call—namely, the construction of the Concord and Rochester Railroad.

The citizens of Concord, have instructed their City Council to invest $350,000 in the stock of the Rochester and Concord Railroad, and within four weeks the grading of the road will be placed under contract. It will be part and parcel of the through route to the West, besides being a link to connect with the road long contemplated by the Eastern road, from Wakefield to Conway, which will open a new avenue for mountain travel. The distance from Concord to Conway, via Great Falls and Wakefield, will be only eighty-seven miles. The pleasure travel over the railroads of New Hampshire amounts to $800,000 a year, and is increasing every year. Increased facilities will greatly increase the travel. It will open up the whole eastern section of the State to Concord, and also to the great State of Maine, and this with the summer travel will make the road pay.

Centre Harbor, on Lake Winnipiseogee, has been selected as the site, and August 18th and 20th, inclusive, as the time for the grand military encampment of the Templar Masons of New Hampshire.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers.

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [jel5 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR!
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.
The Great Desideratum of the Age.
A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.
Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.
Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.
Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.
Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a
HAIR DRESSING,
nothing else can be found so desirable
Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The annual Worcester regatta between Harvard and Yale comes off on Friday.

The Mexican republic has a total population of 9,000,000.

Advices from Rio Janeiro to the 20th ultimo fully confirm the reported victory of the allies over President Lopez. The Paraguayans lost 500 killed and wounded, 300 prisoners and 12 guns. A treaty establishing a provisional government for Paraguay had been proclaimed.

The governments of France and Prussia have recognized the Spanish Regency. The session of the Constituent Cortes has been suspended until October.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

DEERFIELD, July 17.

Independence day was observed at Deerfield by a Festival, given by the ladies of the Congregational Society, at the Town Hall. The attendance was large, and the profits are to aid in repairing their house of worship, now closed. The people and pastor worship with the Free Will and Baptist Societies, whose houses are within a few rods of their own.

The people from the cities are beginning to appear, as usual at this season, seeking the rest and recreation they need, among the hills, where we have fresh breezes and pure water. I. C.

☞ The new ten cent currency has appeared. In artistic execution it is a decided improvement on the stamps now in vogue. On the left is a bust of America, with scarf studded with stars, the word "ten" is in each corner, in small capital letters,—with a corresponding numeral, in large figures on the right hand corner, at the top. The back, as usual, is green,—with the same inscription as on the others. The execution of the latter is not so fine as it might be. The other denominations are not yet finished.

☞ It is rumored that Attorney General Hoar will soon retire from the Cabinet, that Secretary Robeson of the Navy Department will be transferred to the vacancy, and that Hon. John P. Hale will be Secretary of the Navy.

☞ The Arkansas Emigration Company has sent an agent to San Francisco to procure Chinese laborers, and has instructed him to proceed to China if he should be unsuccessful in California.

☞ Mr. Laurent Clerc, for more than fifty years instructor in the American Asylum for deaf mutes at Hartford, died in that city on Sunday aged 83 years.

A REMARKABLE STORY.—The Concord Patriot narrates a romance of real life, the main facts of which are worthy of being transcribed.

Rev. T. B. Eastman was born in Concord in 1813. His father, Samuel, was apprentice to a blacksmith, and his indentures did not expire till two years after his marriage, by which time he had two children and was largely in debt. When Rev. Mr. E. was six years of age, his father left for Massachusetts, ostensibly to obtain work, but really to escape his creditors. He went on a fishing voyage, and his family soon after, left Concord. Writing several times after his return from sea, and learning nothing, both parties gave up the other as lost.

The children grew up and had families of their own. One son was lost in Mexico, the eldest became a clergyman, and the daughter married. So things went on till a few weeks ago, when Rev. Mr. Eastman called on a lady of his acquaintance, who incidentally mentioned having met with his second family some nine years since. Finding her much better posted in his own family affairs than he was himself, he wrote to the Postmaster of a certain town, and ascertained beyond a doubt that his father was living there.

The clergyman proceeded to the place in question, and introduced himself to his parent, who was overwhelmed at intelligence from those who for half a century, had been to him as dead. The old man, overjoyed, took his eldest born home, and presented him to the "second family," for he had married again and had four children, who are now grown up and have children of their own. The second wife was dead, and the old man, now seventy six years old, finds his first wife, whom he left a blooming young woman, an old lady of seventy-nine. The family is again united, and the father will soon be in Concord.

—In Philadelphia the use of sponges, saturated with water, as fixtures upon the heads of draught horses, is nearly universal. The passenger railroad companies generally adopt the idea.

—Gail Hamilton and Miss Adelaide Phillips are visiting Hon. James G. Blaine at Augusta, Me.

☞ An organization for the encouragement and protection of authors has been formed in New York on the joint stock principle, under the name of the "Authors' Protective Association." Its object, as set forth in the prospectus, is the printing and publishing in book form of literary productions judged moral and meritorious, assuring to the authors thereof seventy-five per cent of the net profits, and promising careful and kindly attention to the works of those as yet unknown to fame, as well as conscientious return of all manuscript confided to its care. Horace Greeley holds the position of honorary counsellor, and Mr. P. Gerard is president. Membership may be secured by the purchase of one share, at the rate of ten dollars, each member being entitled to vote in general assemblies; and, to prevent partiality, those first upon the list have the prior right to the examination of their manuscripts.

☞ A singular accident occurred at Buenos Ayres on the 24th of May at the fete given in commemoration of the anniversary of the declaration of freedom:—An aeronaut named M. Baraille made an ascent in a balloon from the centre of the Plaza. It remained stationary over the city for some time, there being no wind, and on decending fell into the harbor. A number of boats and a small steamer named the Cavour put off to the rescue of the aeronaut, who was drowned in his car. By some misfortune, the balloon, in rolling about, came in contract with the funnel of the steamer, and, the gas getting ignited, exploded with terrible force, blowing the crew overboard, as also those in the boats. The steamer was set on fire and sustained much damage. The Buenos Ayres papers state that eight persons were fatally injured, and twenty-five were much burned and injured.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A dispatch from New York states that as a Mrs. Russell, with a married daughter, a little son and a baby, was returning home in Little Neck Bay, on the 14th inst., the baby accidentally fell overboard, when the married daughter jumped in to save it, and when both were sinking, Mrs. Russell jumped overboard to save them. She became exhausted, and but for the boy who remained in the boat, who is only six years old, managing to work the boat with an oar to his mother, and holding on to her hair, she would have been drowned. The baby and married daughter were both drowned. Mrs. Russell and the boy were taken to Flushing by some fishermen. Mrs. Russell will probably die.

CAPTURE OF NOTORIOUS COUNTERFEITERS.—Mr. Meritt, of Elmira, N. Y., while travelling between Cheyenne and Omaha, last week, fell in with a counterfeiter, who endeavored to pass a $50 counterfeit bill on him. Merritt subsequently obtained the confidence of the counterfeiter, and the result was the capture, near Madison, Wis., of two notoriously dangerous counterfeiters, the seizure of a large quantity of bank notes, plates, dies, presses, &c. The counterfeiters arrested were taken to Washington, and the detectives are on the track of the rest of the gang. The arrests and seizures are said to be the most important made for several years.

☞ The Maine Historical Society has made a formal protest against the change of names of Government vessels by the late Secretary of the Navy. The change meets with great opposition from all quarters, and not the least disagreeable part of it is the thought that there could be found a man in this country who had the disposition to do such a senseless act, and at the same time was thought worthy of occupying the honorable position of Secretary of the American Navy!

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—Your correspondent "H." from Manchester, 6th, says, "nor did I observe a single man intoxicated." Please ask him if he observed any married men intoxicated? A.

[We reply for H., that these last are expected to be intoxicated with happiness or exhilerated with satisfaction.]

☞ A disease has appeared among the silk-worms in the Sacramento (Cal.) valley, and is reducing their number rapidly. Two of the largest dealers have already lost their first broods of French worms, numbering nearly a million.

☞ A convict in the Ohio penitentiary chopped off his right hand just at the wrist, a few days ago, in order to be relieved from work. A short time ago he cut off one of his fingers for the same reason.

At Hanover, on the 13th inst., while Rev. Dr. Lord, ex-President of Dartmouth College, was riding alone in a carriage, the horse stumbled, and Dr. Lord was thrown violently against the dasher, cutting a severe gash in his forehead and badly bruising himself. The shock to his system was so great that he is now confined to his bed by sickness, and is unable to see company.

Jacob Thomas Cram, a wealthy New York merchant, who died last week at the age of 87, was a native of Exeter, where he was a schoolmate of Daniel Webster at the Academy. By his father's side he was descended from one of the first settlers of Exeter, who under John Wheelwright's leadership, founded the town in 1638; his mother was a Brown, of a family noted for long life. Of eight brothers and sisters of this lady, four lived to be ninety or upwards, and the average age of all was 81. Mr. Cram removed to New York in 1816. One of his daughters is the wife of Gen. Webb, late minister to Brazil, who was present at the funeral on Tuesday.

Large additions are being made to the machine works of the Grand Trunk Railroad Company at Gorham.

New Publications.

Our Young Folks for August, under cover of the story of a Bad Boy, has a capital tale of Sailor Ben, one of Aldrich's best.

The Galaxy for August, has among other good things, a curious article on Feathered Life, by John Burroughs.

Peterson's Ladies' National for August, has a fine frontispiece, The Hard Lesson.—The pursuit of a Parson, is a well told story by a bachelor.

The Merrimack River, its Source and its Tributaries, by J. W. Meader;—is a neat octavo volume of over 300 pages, just published by B. B. Russell, Boston. The book embraces a History of Manufactures, and of the Towns along its course, their geography, topography, and products, with a description of the magnificent natural scenery about its upper waters. The author was well qualified by his position, his pursuits and his tastes, for the various parts of his task; and he has performed it admirably, making a book readable and interesting for an hour of leisure, and at the same time valuable and correct as a book of reference. We have a copy, by the courtesy of the author.

Cipher:—a Romance, which has been running through the pages of the Galaxy Magazine, is published in muslin covers by Sheldon & Company, and is for sale by James H. Head, opposite the Post Office. It is one of Mrs. Jane G. Austin's most popular works.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The dark shadow will pass upon others and your eye and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your freakiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on sufference and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success amply proves their consummate with their true deserts. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SPECIAL NOTICES.

Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of the system derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without danger or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. If they are not in such a condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The main thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for if the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the skin, and the nervous system, being duly nurtured, will be likely to do theirs. In view of these facts it is manifest that the powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all tonics, safe and invigorating, and for this reason: It does not over-stimulate the system. The proportions of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants, instead of tone, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their exhilarating effect is temporary, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression that were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case when HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and gums with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit which forms their basis, and which is in itself the most which some of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

LIVER AND STOMACH LOZENGE

More than

were made by the inventor before these remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the numerous maladies to which feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of regular practitioners.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

A Great Political Revolution

was accomplished by the election of Grant, and a revolution of immense social importance has been effected by the general substitution of that pure and harmless preparation,

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye,

for the deadly compound of lead and brimstone of which, according to the "Journal of Chemistry" and the "Medical Gazette," more than thirty varieties have been dished up upon the public! Cristadoro's Dye is the only one that and Professor Chilton, over his own signature, declared that it is perfectly wholesome.

HAS BEEN ANALYZED;

Emporiant Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a chole followed by slimy, bilious stools. The relief produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, Vt., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors considered his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to kill the pest. It had to live, and careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took twenty-five boxes. They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. jel7

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskillful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where the dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is used by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates. Je19

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is true, not only say to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is thus relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a mercury poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Liver complaint is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the basis of the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food, and with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills, or fever. These move the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Ossiness, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs lr reduced are the seat of disease, with tubercle deposits, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying, or in a state of ulceration, or healing, but not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to digest food, and the blood is poor, but the chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 32 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic is each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

TROTTING AT GREAT FALLS. — We give on our 4th page, a report of the dedication of the new track at Great Falls. It will be seen that Portsmouth horses did not win much glory or money, every one of the four sent being distanced; but circumstances were particularly and uniformly unfavorable for them all; Nellie Locke was crowded out by foul driving, Mountain Maid and Belle of Portsmouth did not do their best, but little Lady Emma, though beaten, trotted faster then ever before, and shew game as ever. Several eastern horses were protested as having trotted faster than the class they were entered in.

On Saturday there was another trot—a match for $200 between Belle of Portsmouth and Martin Luther of New Durham, the girasticus, 17 1-2 hands high — which Luther won in three straight heats averaging about 2:50, the Belle acting badly.

Out of this trotting meeting have grown two $500 matches, between the well-known beautiful mares Nellie Locke and Empress, and Martin Luther and Rosa of Dover—the last of which, and perhaps both, will take place at the Rockingham Park, Portsmouth, on Saturday P. M., July 24th. The owners back their own horses, except that Empress is supported by Mr. Frank Jones. Also, a grand August Meeting at this Park,—four races for purses $1000.

MISCEGENATION.—The lock-up contained a curious mixture on Monday. Mrs. Wilson the keeper of a notorious "den" on Short street, near the Eastern depot, was in one cell having a little child with her. In other and separate cells were two girls from the same house and three negroes from the U. S. S. Pawnee. charged with complicity with—Turner, who it is alleged robbed the Surgeon as stated in our issue of Monday, and has left town. These negroes have been making their head quarters at Mrs. Wilson's, one of their victims being a white girl about 16 years of age, who complains bitterly of one of them, Thos. Williams, and the notorious Mrs. Wilson. The case s of the most revolting character, not fit for publication. We wonder what eminent attorney will appear in defence of the acts of the wretches, who for money barter their own souls and those of young girls who need proper care from those who should be their guardians?

THE GREAT EUROPEAN CIRCUS will will arrive from Dover to-morrow, and will give two performances in this city at 2 1-2 and 7 1-2 P. M. The grand street display, for which this company is famous and which was so much admired upon the occasion of their last visit two years ago, will take place at 9 1-2 o'clock in the morning, and will pass through the principal streets. Among its prominent features are the 3 golden chariots, one drawn by a drove of Egyptian dromedaries with an infant camel, the goddess of liberty on the Globe chariot, and the live lion on the platform car, by the side of his keeper and surrounded by a group of ladies in elegant costumes.

The performances under the canvass number 20 acts and fully equal the outside parade. The European Circus is the largest establishment in the world and numbers 120 people and 145 horses. Their daily average expenses are $950.

PROBABLY DROWNED.—Mr. Samuel Lucas, a fisherman, of York, started from that place on Friday in his boat for the fishing grounds near the Isles of Shoals. Mrs. Annie Lucas, his wife, was with him, and neither have been seen or heard of since. There is little if any doubt that they are drowned.

APPLEDORE ON SUNDAY. — A better resting place than Appledore at this season can not be found. One spot fortune led us to select the evening of the 17th for a trip there in the staunch little steamer which under the careful command of Capt. Edwin M. Baker runs regularly to and from the Shoals. The trip is made in an hour, and with a musically harmonious party and old ocean in one of her most placid moods, this occasion was most enjoyable.

The Messrs. Laighton are doing a better business than at the corresponding time last year, and are accommodating about 150 guests, thus early. The picturesque little isle with its big hotel and its magnificent views of old ocean,—with its rock-ribbed coast and its conveniences for manifold methods of enjoyment, is growing more and more popular as a public resort, and as this region increases its facilities for boarders, the tide of travel turns as regularly to Appledore as the sun to the west.

John Smith wasn't a bit to blame for discovering these Isles of Shoals! It served him right, and he richly deserves some lasting remembrance of this most important discovery. Invalids especially owe him a debt of gratitude, for a finer and lovelier place to recuperate at is not to be found on the contident. A week's experience tells the tale and under the charge of Oscar and Cedric, whose fame extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, visitors are enabled to return to their homes, healthy, happy and heartily hungry.

The widow of the late Hon. Thos. B. Laighton is still a main stay of the establishment, a valuable aid to her sons, who are not only content with being sea-kings, but still keep out of the matrimonial noose.

The house on Saturday evening was quiet at an early hour and at 11 o'clock nearly every one on the island had retired. As a resting place for body and mind we can especially commend the Appledore.

The waiters are not only civil but are very attentive to the wants of the boarders and nothing is left undone to make all comfortable and satisfied. The increasing patronage taxes the proprietors to their utmost, and had they 100 more rooms they could fill them. Next year it is their intention to erect an addition, which will increase their accommodations about 25 per cent.

A large excursion party went out on Monday evening and had a merry dance returning by moonlight—rather early Tuesday morning. And we hear of another private pic-nic party which will visit Appledore to-day.

Before the first of August the Appledore House will be filled to overflowing with regular guests.

CUSTOM HOUSE APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. John S. Stackpole of Dover has been appointed Deputy Collector and Inspector, William H. Smart of Newcastle, Inspector, vice Mr. Holbrook; and Mr. William Sladen, Watchman, vice Mr. Foxwell C. Staples.

☞ Sagamore Co. No. 2 last evening tested the new leather hose purchased by the City from Boyd & Co., of Boston. Engineer McIntire reports he had 160 lbs. water pressure and 100 lbs. steam, using a 7-8 pipe.

☞ The fifth-and-a-half-th band concert occurred on Market Square, Monday evening, at 7 o'clock.

GREAT FALLS RIDING PARK.—The citizens of Great Falls have invested liberally in fitting up a first class Trotting Park, which they have just completed, at a cost now of $6000 or so. It is shaped like the Manchester Track, being more nearly circular than our Portsmouth course, and so with broader and easier turns for drivers and horses, but of course the back and home straight stretches are consequently the shorter and less interesting for spectators. The Park is well made, but the soil of the whole vicinity is sandy, and when hot and dry, must always be very dusty; and neither this nor any other Park that we have ever seen, is equal in natural beauty of location and surroundings, to the Rockingham (now Piscataqua) Park.

On Thursday and Friday the Park was opened with four grand Trots, for which the entries of horses were very numerous, and the sport on both days very rare, for a country park; but the fun all through was, as is often the case, sadly interfered with by a single sharp-practising driver, (a white jockey, named Mooney, this time,) who hardly drove foul enough to be ruled off, yet made out to collide with somebody in every race, and smashed up half a dozen sulkies. He it was who by collission with Jessie Wales, greatly endangered her and her driver, (Norcross of Boston,) and caused her and Nellie Locke to be distanced — although another horse, Arcola of Portland, by badly cutting in on Nellie just before the smash-up, obliged Wm. Woodruff, who was driving Nellie, to pull her up suddenly, to save being smashed himself, thereby throwing her on her haunches and taking all the speed out of her, losing the pole and all chance for the heat.

Immediately after this, Mooney ran Sallie slap against Wales' sulkey, upsetting it and throwing Norcross out, who fell and lay on one wheel, now horizontal, while the mare was leaping and struggling to free herself from the hold of her prostrate carriage and driver, her heels apparently striking the man's head as she madly circled about him, until finally her twisting broke off several spokes in the wheel against his body, letting the man free. Woodruff checked Nelly, and attempted to catch Wales by the head, and by the delay came in far behind Sallie—and strange to say, the judges declared both Wales and Nellie distanced, but allowed Sallie to start again! This decision was made too before Norcross could get to the stand to make complaint of foul driving against Mooney—and when he did come, and apparently show cause why Mooney and not he should be disfranced, the bench decided that the rules required their decisions, once announced, to be final!

We do not propose to give any detailed account of the racing, which was spirited and interesting througout—barring the intense heat and superabundant dust, the outrageous noisy wrangling of drivers near and even in the judges' stand, and, we are sorry to say, the numerous drunken men on the premises.

We were in Plymouth Friday morning, and it was only by pretty lively travelling that we were enabled to reach Great Falls at all. Leaving the Printers and the steamer Lady of the Lake at Centre Harbor, we took the steamer Chocorua, still commanded by Capt. Wiggin, (and, en passant, it is literally true, that age cannot wither nor custom stale the perennial youth and infinite good nature of either of the veteran Lake commanders,) and after a fairy sail o'er an Elysian sea,—going thirty miles to get where fifteen of the Lake Shore Road, when built, will carry you—we changed to the Dover & Winnepisaukee Railroad at Alton.

Thence we personally switched off at Rochester, and proceeded per freight train of the Great Falls & Conway Road to Great Falls. Arrived there, it was getting late, and not a hack or other public conveyance to be found—not a team in the livery stables; so we were lucky to be able to induce an old farmer who chanced to pass, to drive us to the Park. Here we found enough to entertain us, if not to amuse and instruct; and after enjoying the balance of the fine racing—as well as we could in the absence of our time-watch, which, alas! was filched from our pocket at the Mystic Park Jubilee races—the next thing was, how to get home? And here fortune again favored the brave, who quit the last train home, to see the races,—for just as we were bargaining for a livery team to Dover Point, and fancying a river ferry passage over, and thence home somehow, — whom should we see but Came the new Portsmouth carriage maker, who came up alone, and kindly allowed us his excellent company home in one of his nice new wagons, which he tells us are found to run so easy that this one only remained unsold.

Take this day all in all, from the mountain attractions at Plymouth, to the beauties of the Lake scenery, the excitements of the racing course, and the greatest comforts of all at the seacoast,—it was full enough of interest and enjoyment. We are indebted to Wm. Hale, Esq., of Dover, Br. Fernald of the Great Falls Journal, and Mr. John Lord of the livery stable there, for courtesies.

HER SHADOW.

BY AUBREY DE VERE.

Bending between me and the taper,
While o'er the harp her white hands strayed,
The shadows of her waving tresses
Above my head were gently swayed.

With every graceful movement waving,
I marked their undulating swell;
I watched them while they met and parted,
Curled close or widened, rose or fell.

I laughed in triumph and in pleasure—
So strange the sport, so undesigned!
Her mother turned and asked me, gravely,
What thought was passing through my mind.

'Tis Love that blinds the eyes of mothers;
'Tis Love that makes the young maids fair,
She touched my hand; my rings she counted,
Yet never felt the shadows there.

Keep, gamesome Love, beloved infant,
Keep ever thus all mothers blind,
And make thy dedicated virgins,
In substance, as in shadow, kind!

From the Journal.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.—The recent annual address before the N. H. Historical Society was given by Hon. Charles H. Bell, the President of the Society.

Mr. Bell gave an interesting sketch of the rise and progress of the Society, from its early location in this city, to the present time, with a statement of its present condition and wants. He alluded to the many distinguished members, whose names in the past were borne upon its rolls, and referred to the late Senior Editor of this paper, "who had found time amid his other occupations to compile the Rambles about Portsmouth, that had given so much interest to the early history of this locality."

In closing, Mr. Bell read a well written sketch of the life of the late Chief Justice Samuel Dana Bell, of this State. The orator seemed fully to appreciate the many charming traits of that distinguished jurist and scholar, and his remarks were listened to with the closest attention by one of the most refined audiences ever assembled at Concord. We noticed present many members of the Society from Portsmouth and other places, but were surprised that Concord showed so little interest in the occasion, particularly so, when none of the Judges or Ex-Judges of the Supreme Court so long associated with the distinguished departed Judge, deemed it worth while to spare an hour to listen to such an interesting sketch of so remarkable man as the late Chief Justice.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF
REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY
is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE
it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relaxes the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE
it combines the properties of a mild diuretic sudorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by inspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY
is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE
rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and synovial glands of the joints, and the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the veinous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY is it given by the faculty in all diseases of a febrile character?

BECAUSE
it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. All fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient, we have but forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our "LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." The fact that they this year renew the order and increase the amount is the best argument we can give that those "LISTS" are good advertising mediums.

KENTUCKY OVERCOME.—I was once with a summer fishing party at Nahant, that included Mr. Garrison, Nathaniel Peabody Rogers, Francis Jackson, the late Mrs. Buffum of Lynn, and other leading abolitionists, and some of the Hutchinson family, famous as well for anti-slavery as for song, as indeed they have ever been. Our success at fishing had been excellent, and our cook had furnished a most sumptuous dinner on the rocks, which, while we were enjoying, a Governor of Kentucky, strolling the seashore, came along with his wife, and engaged in conversation. Of course Garrison and Rogers led off on our part, and invited them to share our dinner. They did so, and enjoyed it greatly.

Our fish was excellent, fresh from the sea; our fried potatoes could not have been better; our iced lemonade was perfect, and many other good things were in abundance and equally enjoyed. Our guests told us who they were, but we introduced ourselves as an anti-slavery party, and the conversation was soon wholly on that all-absorbing theme. As the Governor and his lady were leaving, they most earnestly thanked us for our entertainment, and said they had not relished a dinner so well nor enjoyed a company so much, even if we were abolitionists and they slave-holders, since they had been at the North,—and, added the Governor, "were all the abolitionists like you, I think I should like them better than any northern people we have met; but as for that Garrison and his fellow-fanatic Rogers, I should never want anything to do with the like of them."

Just then some one in the company—I think Mr. Jackson—stepped forward and said: "Permit me the pleasure of introducing to you Mr. William Lloyd Garrison and Nathaniel Peabody Rogers, Esq., our two most prominent abolitionists." "Good God!" exclaimed the Governor, "is that so?" On being assured that it was, the conversation was renewed, and so fascinated was he with Rogers, on a little farther acquaintance, that he absolutely subscribed for the Herald of Freedom, Mr. Rogers' paper, on the spot.—Parker Pillsbury.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE, OVERSEAMING, —AND—
SEWING MACHINE!
H. N. DUNYON, 27 Market Street,
Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity.

The Reasons Why
This is the best Family Machine to Purchase.
1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do—the finest of sewing, hemming, felling, cording, tucking, binding, braiding, gathering, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.
2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand. (Not done on any other Sewing Machine.)
3. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet-hole. (No other machine can.)
4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment. (Not done on any other Machine.)
5. Because it can do "overhand seaming," by which shirts, pillow-cases and the like are sewed "over and over." (No other Machine can do it.)

Caution.
We would hereby warn the Public against slanderous advertisements of Button-Hole Attachments, as the AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE is the first and only Button-Hole and Sewing Machine combined in the world.
This Machine is for sale only at our establishment, 27 Market Street, where we cordially invite the Public to Call and Examine for themselves, being convinced that this is the Best and Cheapest Machine for any family.

AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT!
THE RIGHT THING AT LAST!
BENJAMIN NORTON,
Having been appointed Selling Agent for this City and surrounding towns, of the AVERILL CHEMICAL PAINT COMPANY, is now prepared to sell any quantity, from one pound upward, of THE BEST PAINT!
ever offered in this city.
It is Durable, Beautiful, Water Proof, Elastic and Economical.
This Paint is all Ready for Immediate Application, and requires no oil, thinning or drying.
It is prepared in pure White and one hundred Different Shades, and is unsurpassed in all respects.
It dries with a hard, rich, glossy surface; does not run from seams or nail holes; will not chalk, crack or peel off; covers more surface with the same body, and is cheaper, more lasting, and better in every respect than any other Paint.
Many testimonials from those who have used it in other places of its superiority over other Paints might be given; but I will only invite those of this city and surrounding towns who intend using Paints, to call at the GROCERY AND PROVISION STORE,
Nos. 16 & 18 Cabot Street, which is the ONLY PLACE in the City where it has been used, and examine the Paint where it has been applied in ten or twelve different shades, and where they can choose any color they desire for use, outside or in, and buy from one pound upwards.
In using the Chemical Paint, there is no difficulty in matching any color at any time, as all the shades are numbered, and the same number will always match.
These Paints are manufactured in New York, and Newburgh, Ohio. BENJ. NORTON, Agent for Chemical Paint Company.
Also for sale, at the same place, the Best Quality of MEATS AND GROCERIES!
AS LOW AS CAN BE BOUGHT IN THE CITY.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if it continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [je15 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR!
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.
The Great Desideratum of the Age.
A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.
Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.
Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.
Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.
Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a
HAIR DRESSING,
nothing else can be found so desirable
Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 21, 1869.

THE PRINTERS' CONVENTION AND EXCURSION.—At the close of the Convention, before reaching the Wiers, the Association passed the following resolution of thanks and adjourned, to meet at the call of the President, for a winter session, at Concord.

Resolved, That the thanks of this association are hereby tendered to the Boston, Concord & Montreal, Concord, Northern, Boston & Maine, and Boston, Lowell & Wilton Railroads; to Capt. Sanborn, of steamer Lady of the Lake, and Captain Wiggin, of steamer Chocorua; to Messrs. Morse and French, of the Pemigewasset House, Plymouth, and Col. J. L. Huntress, of the Senter House, Centre Harbor,—for courtesies extended to us and our guests on this occasion.

Also, to Thompson's Band, of Ashland, for the welcome serenade, Thursday night, at the Pemigewasset House, and for the sweet music which they have discoursed to us so liberally to-day.

Thus ended one of the pleasantest gatherings of Publishers, Editors and Printers, ever held in our State, and one which seemed to be enjoyed by everybody present.

The absence of "Father Prentiss," of Keene, aged 90 years, was very much regretted, but he thoughtfully sent an excellent and lively letter, which was read, and ordered to be printed with the proceedings of the Association.

The invited guests from out of the State, assembled in the cabin of the steamer Lady of the Lake, before reaching the Weirs, and were called to order by J. M. W. Yerrinton, of Boston, and organized with the choice of George S. Merrill, of the Lawrence American, for Chairman, and Charles H. Doe, of the Worcester Gazette, Secretary.

Messrs. Yerrinton of Boston, Palfrey of the Salem Register, and Haskell of the Boston Herald, were appointed a committee on resolutions, and subsequently reported the following, which were unanimously adopted, after remarks in their support by Yerrinton of Boston, J. N. Tarbox of the Boston Congregationalist, C. L. Knapp of the Lowell Citizen, and Hiram Atkins of the Montpelier Age:

Resolved, That the Editors, Printers and Publishers of New Hampshire are men after our own hearts—and they've got them.

Resolved, That the hearty greeting, unremitting attention and generous hospitality of our brethren of the press of this State, leave nothing to be desired, save an opportunity to reciprocate.

Resolved, That the Secretary of this meeting be requested to convey to the New Hampshire Association our warmest thanks for their kindness, and the expression of our hope that they may be abundantly blessed in basket and store; and that the "smile of the Great Spirit" may rest upon them evermore.

The News.

South American advices say that the revolution in Uruguay is increasing.

The president of the republic of Venezuela has recognized the Cuban insurgents as belligerents.

☞ General Carr's victory over the Indians is more complete than was at first reported. Over 400 horses and mules were captured, together with a large quantity of powder and nearly five tons of dried buffalo meat. Among the killed is the noted chief Standing Bull. About $900 were found in the camp, which were given to Mrs. Weizel, a white woman, who was recaptured. This was the same body of Indians who last year fought General Forsyth and recently committee depredations in Kansas. Lieut. Beecher, of the Pawnee scouts, reported meeting a large number of Sioux Indians on the Republican River. Three of them were killed and three wounded. A Helena, Montana, despatch says that Major-General Eastman and another man were attacked and wounded on the 16th instant, a few miles from Fort Benton. When the wounded men arrived at Fort Benton the citizens became excited and killed three Indians who were in the town.

☞ The Secretary of the Treasury has received the following letter:—

"Dear Sir—Enclosed please find four hundred and seventy dollars. This is not conscience money; but doing a local business in a Pennsylvania town, and by care and management having made it pay, I thought it would be injurious to my business to have my full income published in our village paper. I have paid a part of my income tax to the collector, and the balance I send direct to you. HONESTY."

—An immense harvest of chignons was gathered from the scene of the violent Paris riots, the next morning. They were advertised to be returned on application at police headquarters, but few were claimed.

—The Guardian, a London High Church paper, has declined to advertise lithographed or manuscript sermons for sale.

New Hampshire Items.

Hon. James Tufts, recently nominated for the office of delegate to Congress from the Territory of Montana, is a native of Charlestown, has for several years resided, in Montana, and has been for some time past acting governor of the Territory.

General Sylvanus Thayer of the class of 1807, founder of the Thayer School at Dartmouth College, has just given the academical department of the college the sum of $1000 for the foundation of two prizes, to be conferred annually on members of the Sophomore class. The first prize is $40 and the second $20, both to be given for excellence in analytical geometry and calculus.

On Wednesday, at East Northwood, the dwelling-house, barn, and adjoining buildings of Joshua Holtt were entirely consumed. The barn contained six tons of hay, the largest portion of it having been put into the barn a few days before, dry and inflammable, was set on fire about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Suspicion mostly rests upon a little boy, four and a half years of age, who is supposed to have gone into the barn lighted his match, set the fire, and then went out again; this is doubted by some.

Miss M. E. Spear has been engaged to act as city missionary of Manchester until Oct. 1st, when Mr. Frank G. Clark will enter upon the work.

DEATH OF AN IDIOT.—Many years ago, a son was born to the late Obededom Hall, of Candia, who was naturally well formed in all respects, and in very early infancy appeared as promising as children in general. It was soon noticed, however, that he did not manifest the least sign of intelligence. As he grew older he was not capable even of feeding himself. He was always perfectly healthy, but no animal or reptile ever exhibited less capacity or instinct of any kind, up to the hour of his death.

He grew to an average size, could never walk, but crawled about on his hands and knees. His head was well formed, his eyes, which he never fixed upon any object, were of a soft blue color, and his general appearance about the face was not at all like that of most idiots. Of course his existence, which was not of the least account to himself, was a sad misfortune to his parents. He was generally kept confined to a room, and everything was done to promote his comfort throughout his life. His father, who died a few years ago, left about $8,000 for his support. He was named for his father, who had several other children, who were very intelligent persons.

He was quite well until Sunday afternoon, when he seemed to be troubled in his head. He grew weaker, and died in the evening. He was 57 years of age. He was the only idiot ever born in Candia.—Mirror.

—Rev. Moses Clampit, an eccentric preacher, was holding forth at Santa Clara valley; a young man rose to go out, when the preacher said: "Young man, if you'd rather go to hell than hear me preach, you may." The sinner stopped and reflected a moment, and then saying, respectfully, "Well, I believe I would," went on.

—A Leavenworth paper thinks it "an evidence of the Westward march of civilization," that the Kansas Legislature appropriated $1,400 for tobacco for the penitentiary prisoners, and only $300 for preaching the gospel to them.

—Out West an editor has been sued for libel in having published that a certain Mr. Harrison was a well-known house breaker. The defence of the editor is, that he wrote horse breaker, which the plaintiff is by occupation.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

FACTS FOR THE LADIES.—This is to certify that I bought a Wheeler & Wilson Sewing-Machine, March 7, 1859, and it has been used with entire satisfaction by my daughter, who was afflicted with spine disease: It proved the best doctor I ever employed, for she not only recovered her health, but has earned a living with it for herself and me ever since.

MRS. M. B. BALL.

New York, Nov. 29, 1868.

Dr. Speer, of New Jersey, makes an excellent wine, that is becoming celebrated among medical gentlemen in our large cities, and used in hospitals as a superior article. Physicians recommend it as an invaluable article for weakness and general debility. It is a rich nutritive wine, possessing the virtues that make it valuable for weakly persons and for general family use at this Season of the year.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Summer Perils—How to escape them.

It will not do to trifle with the health in hot weather. Vigor oozes through the skin at every pore, and it is by physical vigor only that unhealthy influences can be baffled and repelled. The vital elements are evaporated in perspiration. Intense heat converts a man into a self-acting pump, and the moisture that is pumped out of him is derived from the well-springs of life within him. There is great need, therefore that these sources of physical strength should be in a condition to bear, without danger or inconvenience, the extraordinary drain. If they are not in such a condition, the individual becomes languid and low-spirited.

The main thing is to keep the digestive apparatus in good working trim; for if the stomach, the purveyor of the system, does its duty thoroughly, the liver, the bowels, the brain, and the nervous system, being duly nurtured, will be likely to do theirs. In view of these facts it is manifest that a powerful and wholesome vegetable tonic like HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is especially required at this enfeebling season. It is the most admirable of all correctives and invigorants, and for this reason: It does not over-stimulate the system. The proportions of aperient, tonic and stimulating components are so judiciously graduated, that the processes of invigoration and purification go on simultaneously, and no undue excitement is created in the circulation of the brain. All unmedicated stimulants hower pour, excite the pulse and the nervous system. Their exhilarating effect is temporary, and when it passes off the physical and mental depression they were employed to remove returns in aggravated form. But this is not the case when HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is taken as a stomachic and nervine. The medicinal herbs, roots and gums with which they are impregnated, neutralize the exciting principle of the rye spirit with which their base is charged, and which is itself the most wholesome of all the varieties of alcohol. jy14

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two powerful extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than Five thousand Physicians and Apothecaries were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

A Great Political Revolution

was accomplished by the election of Grant, and a revolution of immense social importance has been effected by the general substitution of that pure and harmless preparation,

Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye,

for the deadly compound of lead and brimstone of which, according to the "Journal of Chemistry" and the "Medical Gazette," more than thirty suicides have been folded upon the public! Cristadoro's Dye is the only one that

HAS BEEN ANALYZED;

and Professor Chilton, over his own signature, declared that it is perfectly wholesome.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it.

Important Fact.

We see that persons of strong constitutions, and young, suffer for days with pains of the limbs, loss of appetite and fever, who suddenly get well after a cholic followed by slimy, bilious stools. Therefor produced by these evacuations were the original guide to the idea and practice of purgation, and which, when enforced by Brandreth's Pills, always benefits, usually cures, and often prevents disease, especially Scarlet Fever and diseases of similar character.

I. L. Cook, publisher of the "State Banner," Bennington, VT., says Brandreth's Pills cured him of Dyspepsia, after being afflicted with it over five years. His friends and doctors despaired of his recovery impossible; but six boxes of Brandreth's Pills restored his health perfectly.

A young lady of Mount Pleasant was sorely troubled with Tape-worm. All advice and medicine failed to help her. She had no rest. Thin, careworn and unhappy, she looked the picture of misery. At last she concluded to try Brandreth's Pills. In one year she took seventy-two boxes.—They brought away, according to her computation, over two hundred yards of tape-worm. At length all her bad symptoms left her; she slept and ate naturally, and her health became fully restored. je17

Holloways Pills and Ointment.—Coughs and Colds, arising from checked perspiration or any other cause, may be immediately abated and rapidly cured by the use of HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. They act upon the skin, the liver and the skin, and soon relieve every inflammatory symptom. If HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT be briskly rubbed into the chest and throat, it will assist in removing irritation from the lungs and windpipe, and materially aid the process of cure. Sold by all Druggists.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops tight sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

"A Word to Horsemen."

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT has been tested by the first Horsemen in the country, and proved to be superior to any other. The late Hiram Woodruff, of "trotting fame," was never without a bottle in his stable. It is also used by Col. Bush, of the Jerome Park Course, at Fordham, N. Y., who has over twenty valuable horses under his care, among which rank some of the finest stock in America. Those who own or employ Horses are assured that this Liniment will do all, if not more, in curing the above named complaints. No horse need die of Colic, if, when first taken, the Liniment is used according to directions. Always have a bottle in your stable.

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, je19

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood: the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, and then throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless skillful care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, enters the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much: they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption. Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs to some extent are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only this that ails the patient, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only way is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood, the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient feels happy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 2 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A BRIGHT ENTERTAINMENT.—It was by an oversight that no advertisement of "Trowbridge & Hart's Star Combination of 40 first-class Artistes from the Howard Atheneum, Boston," appeared in the Chronicle.

This was the olla podrida entertainment we referred to several months since, as having attended at the Atheneum—and now as then, we found it one of the liveliest and most varied and amusing exhibitions we ever saw anywhere. It consists of music and dancing, opera and drama, and a little of everything except dullness; and we commend it to our readers everywhere.

What adds to our regret at omitting the advertisement, (which lessened our receipts $5, and no doubt the Company's $25,) is that the lively and efficient manager is Mr. Rufus Somerby, an old and special friend of ours, personally and in a business connection.

☞ Our old friend John S. Harvey, Esq., never forgets or omits his annual tribute to long acquaintance and pleasant fellowship, in the shape of a basket of black and white Cherries, from his home garden. For more than a dozen years the same fruit basket has appeared on our desk, well filled with the rich and tempting fruit; and although as the years fly faster and faster, this annual token of remembrance always awakens a train of varied reflections, yet as our reminiscences are in the main pleasant and satisfactory—perhaps we may say cheer-ying—we shall not object to the continuance of the favor.

TROTTING.—There are to be two fine Match Races at the Rockingham Park, Portsmouth, on Wednesday afternoon, July 28th, between Nellie Locke and the well known Boston mare Empress, for $500; and between Martin Luther of New Durham and Rosa of Dover, for $400. The money is up, sure, and all will go in to win; and, barring accidents, we have no hesitation in promising our readers plenty of sport.

There will also be four fine Races, for purses of $1000 in all, at this Park, on the Afternoons of August 4th and 5th—which are now open to entries.

THE GREAT EUROPEAN CIRCUS with the drove of Camels and the live Lion loose in the streets, will arrive to-day. There will be performances at 2 1-2 and 7 1-2 o'clock. The Nashua Telegraph says of this Circus; "probably no circus has ever exhibited here that gave greater satisfaction to the large audience present, than this. The actors are all first-class performers, and some of the feats were really startling and wonderful, especially that of Mr. Pierce in the den of lions. The clown-acting was comical, without being low and vulgar. Taking everything into consideration it is all it advertises to be."

☞ The party which went to the Shoals, Monday evening, by invitation of Messrs. E. M. Laighton and W. I. Trafton, was an entirely different affair from the first one of the season, and all had a fine time, as the boat was not crowded. The rowdies were allowed to stay at home, this time, and we hope will choose other occasions for the display of their peculiar qualities. And in this connection we think the efforts of the two gentlemen having the matter in charge should be better seconded by those who promise to attend such excursions if the party is a select one, but fail to purchase tickets when the time comes.

☞ Mr. T. S. Nowell, who has long been doing as much for this city as any other man, has again placed the public, and especially every lover of the beautiful and good order, under obligations, by removing the dilapidated old rookery of a building which has long disfigured the corner of State Street next below the Stone Church, in order to erect a comely brick structure thereon for his Shoe Manufactory. He expects to have it completed for occupancy this Fall.

JUST A LITTLE MISTAKE.— On the trial of the colored individual who was accused of various misdemeanors, on Tuesday, one of the witnesses caused considerable of a sensation by wrongfully giving the name of a man visiting her at the notorious den of Mrs. Wilson. A change of three letters made it apply to a considerably astonished individual, who afterwards heard of the public manner in which his name had been used.

☞ A dead body was picked up at the Shoals on Tuesday, and brought to this city. It has been recognised as that of Mrs. Lucas, who, with her husband, has been missing for several days.

☞ Prof. J. H. Darrah, teacher of penmanship at Phillips Exeter Academy, died on Monday, of apoplexy, after an illness of less than a week.

THE PAWNEE ROBBING AFFAIR.—Turner, the colored seaman suspected of robbing the Surgeon of the Pawnee, returned to this city on Tuesday, and was arrested by the police. He states that a white man was triced up with him by the wrists aboard the Pawnee, after being handcuffed for six days. Their sufferings were terrible, and Turner says that in order to be relieved for a time he said he gave the money to Pat. O'Brien, who was then triced up in a similar way. Turner was exhausted and fainted away, but on recovering denied that O'Brien knew anything of the robbery or money. O'Brien, however, was not released, and was kept there until the irons cut in to the bones of his wrist. Since then he has been at the hospital, and it is feared he will lose both hands. We give the story just as it is told us, and if the half is true we hope the cruelty practised on these seamen will be reported to the Navy Department. By the regulations of the Navy no officer has a right to torture a sailor in such a manner. The three negro sailors first arrested on suspicion of complicity in the robbery have been released, after signing over a sufficient amount of their money to cover the loss sustained by the Surgeon.

NAVAL.—Chaplain Thos. G. Salter has been ordered to duty at this Naval Station.

Civil-Engineer B. F. Chandler, at this Yard, and Civil-Engineer Charles Hastings, at the Charlestown Yard, have been directed to report upon the private marine railways in their respective] district, to the Bureau of Yards and Docks.

A railroad will soon be built around this Yard for the purpose of transporting heavy guns and other unwieldy ordance. Other improvements are in contemplation. Chief Engineer Macomb has returned after several weeks' absence in Boston, necessitated by sickness.

☞ A large party, of which J. C. Butler, Esq., was Commander-in-Chief, went to the Shoals in Steamer Appledore on Tuesday, and returned in the evening. It was the most successful affair of the season.

☞ Beware of sunstrokes on the coming hot days—and have a double guard against rum-strokes at the same time. But our subscribers don't drink, and therefore need no such caution. This is intended only for those who borrow the reading of the Chronicle.

For the Chronicle.

☞ In 185- His Majesty the Emperor Franklin the First made an excursion of pleasure in one of our largest war steamers, the Wabash, from Portsmouth (to which place she had been sent for that purpose,) to Washington. The imperial standard was displayed during the whole voyage, to indicate that His Majesty the Emperor was on board the steamer. Wasn't that imperialism?

☞ Judge Odell put Mrs. Wilson, the Short Street hag, under $200 bonds, on Tuesday. The negro and young girl mentioned in Tuesday's paper, were discharged.

—The dulness of business in New York city at present is unprecedented. It effects every class and every interest, and while there is nothing like a panic or a financial crisis, yet a general dread of the future prevails. Everything is stagnant. Even the gin-mills are comparatively deserted. There can be no stronger indication of hard times than that.—Atlas.

—A worlding was once visited, in his illness, by a well-meaning but dolorous clergyman, who disfigured his countenance and wore a face of perpetual mourning. As his sad visage appeared in the doorway, the sick man started up and exclaimed;—"Why, what's the matter with you? You look as if your religion didn't agree with you!"

DEATHS.

In this city, July 19th, FRANK P. SCRIGGINS, aged 15 years 6 months, only son of Mr. Stephen D. Scriggins. The little fellow had been rather delicate for several months; but the immediate cause of his death was the striking his foot, though with shoe and stocking on, against a stake, a week or two ago—since which apparently trifling mishap, he has suffered greatly from a nervous connection or sympathy apparently between the great toe and brain, ending only in death.

☞ Funeral this (Wednesday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, from No. 4 Marlborough St.

From the Concord Statesman.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

In connection with the Centennial Celebration which takes place at Dartmouth this week, it would be interesting to recur to the general condition of our State when the College was founded. Our crowded columns, however, forbid us to enter at this time upon so large and fruitful a matter.

Neal, in his history of New England, in 1720, informs us that the "New Hampshire Government has no charter; their Governor and Council being appointed by the Crown of England, but that their Governor is always the same with the Massachusetts," and that "within the limits of this Province is the county of Maine, which belongs to the Massachusetts Bay and sends members to the General Assembly;" the Province being "bounded by Kennebec river on the east and Merrimack river on the west." The Universal Gazetteer published in London in 1760, describes the Province as "a country well adapted to produce naval stores," and adds, that "a great part of it is by act of Parliament appropriated to that purpose for the use of the British Navy."

In a letter dated "Portsmouth, 25th April, 1768," Gov. John Wentworth writes to Col. Thomas M. Waldron, of Dover, as follows: "Mr. Benjamin Hart, overseer of my designations in the Wilderness, and Mr. Weble, who is to reside there as farmer in the future, are now on their first expedition to clear a few acres, and build an humble habitation at Wolfeborough for me. They may want assistance to forward them and their stores from Dover to Rochester, and to be supplied with ten bushels of Indian meal.

I beg your favor in this matter. We are young settlers, and depend greatly on the benevolent aid of the country to promote our work. If the said aid and other advantages encourage me, I will take measures to populate that part of the Province within ten years more usefully than is now seen from this town to Florida."

The New Hampshire Gazette, of July 13, 1770, says; "Last Tuesday His Excellency, our Governor, set out for his country seat on Winnipiseogee Pond, and we hear his lady sets out next week for the same place, to reside during the summer season. It is scarcely credible how greatly the cultivation of the Wilderness has been promoted by the settlement.

His Excellency has made, which has laid open a fine, fertile country, within one day's travel of this town (Portsmouth;) capable of producing more corn and provisions than this place could consume; and many valuable articles of export such as potash, hemp, flax, horses, &c.; for which the lands are remarkably well suited. It is much to be wished that gentlemen of fortune would follow the example before them. Our Province would then export provisions, and be the envy of our neighbors for opulence as we are now for independence."

Gov. Wentworth's mansion, completed in 1780, was a very spacious and superb establishment, and was maintained in good condition till it was accidentally consumed by fire about half a century ago. It was located about five miles from what is now the village of Wolfeborough Bridge, and the foundations of the buildings are still visible. The Provincial Road from Portsmouth to Wolfeborough, 45 miles, was built this year, and the next year, April, 1771, an act was passed to continue the road three rods wide from the Governor's house in Wolfeborough to Dartmouth College. The N. H. Gazette announces, Oct. 11, 1771, that Gov. Wentworth on the previous Saturday had returned from his country seat to Portsmouth—the same paper announcing also that the road to Dartmouth College had been surveyed and finished as far as Plymouth.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.—The Gazette has for its leading article in its issue for Friday, March 9, 1770, the following:

Portsmouth, N. H., March 5th, 1770. The education of Youth being the most important Duty of all Societies, comprehending their present Honor and future prosperity, it must therefore afford great satisfaction to all who are unfeignedly regardful of the prosperity of this Colony that we can inform the Public, that Dartmouth College is established in this Province for the free Education of Indian Youth, and for instructing all others in the Arts and Sciences upon the most liberal and public spirited plan; and endowed with very ample incomes from the Benevolence of christian people of all denominations, both in Europe and America.

We hear the edifice will be built next summer, and hope, by the ensuing autumn, to inform the public it is ready to receive students. From good authority it is assured that the College will be established in Landaff, Bath or Haverhill.

In the same number of the Gazette is an article, headed, "Bloody work in Boston," giving an account of "another Difference with the inhabitants of that town and some soldiers of the 29th regiment, in which both sides received some blows," and "three citizens were killed on the spot;" the succeeding number being heavily draped in mourning, and containing representations of four coffins. In the next number still a fifth coffin was added, the fourth and fifth citizens having on the respective days died of their wounds.

It is well known that Dartmouth College originated in a charity school which was founded in Lebanon, Conn., in 1756, by Rev. Eleazer Wheelock. Neither the charter nor "the honorable trust in England" fixed the location of the institution, and there was a sharp contest in regard to this subject.

Concluded To-morrow.

JOHN'S BARGAIN.

I don't like you at all, Maidie Royal. You are a real naughty little girl, and I won't play with you any more—so!

Maidie looked very much grieved, and began to cry. Mr. Royal was sitting at his desk writing, but at John's emphatic words, he glanced up, and said to his son, in a very grave voice.

"John, come here."

"I was just going out into the kitchen," stammered John, coloring. "I want to speak to Kitty."

"But I wish to speak to you," said Mr. Royal.

So John came slowly up to the desk, with the look of a culprit on his face.

"What sir?"

"I want to know how much you will take for your share in Maidie?"

John looked up surprised.

"I don't know what you mean," he said.

"Why," exclaimed his father, "since you have done playing with Maidie, I would like to buy your share in her,—or your right to her. Now you may set your own price. How much shall I give you for her?"

"How much money do you mean, papa?"

"Yes."

"I guess I'll sell her for fifty dollars," said John, after a few moments' reflection.

"Yes, I will—fifty dollars."

"Very well; that is quite reasonable," said Mr. Royal. "Now you must remember that as I was going to buy all your right to Maidie, you have nothing more to do with her. You must not kiss her or speak to her, or play with her any more. She is your mamma's little girl and mine, not yours at all. It is a bargain, is it John?"

"Can't I kiss her good night, when we go to bed?"

"No."

"Can't we go out doors together?" John's voice began to sound a little unsteady. "You know our garden, papa?"

"You will have to make another somewhere else. I will find you a place. You must not work in the same garden, any more."

"I shall have to lead her to school, papa; she will get lost if I don't, just as sure as any thing."

"I will attend to that, John. You will have to go to school by yourself. Is the bargain made?"

"Yes, sir—I suppose so," and John cast a doubtful look at Maidie, who stood close by, with her doll in her arms, and tears on her long eyelashes.

"Very well," said Mr. Royal. "When you want the money, you can ask me for it. You may go now."

"I know what I mean to buy," thought John, running to the other end of the room and sitting down in the broad, cushioned window seat. "I'll buy a pony and a saddle, and a gold watch, and a sail boat, and lots of other things that I've been a wanting ever since I was a little boy."

The idea of these splendid acquisitions was so pleasant, that he wanted to share it with some one, so he cried out, "Oh, Maidie, you come here, and I'll tell you what I'm going to buy with my fifty dollars."

"Stop, stop" cried papa; "have you forgotten so soon that you have no right to speak to Maidie? She doesn't belong to you at all."

A cloud came over John's face, and he sat very still for a long time, thinking, and by-and-by two or three tears fell.

Madie and he had played together ever since he could remember—such a long, long time! and she was the only little sister he had in the world; a real tease sometimes, to be sure, but then how could he get along without her? He looked slyly out from behind the window curtain, to see what she was doing.

How pretty she looked, sitting in a high chair beside her father, with a book of colored pictures open before her, and her sunny curls falling over her rosy cheeks and white neck! Wasn't she better than a sail-boat, or a gold watch, or even a pony?

"Yes, indeed, a thousand million times," thought John; "and yet I've gone and sold her for fifty dollars, and I almost know that papa won't take it back, 'cause it was a regular bargain. Oh, dear, dear!"

Here the tears began to flow faster and faster, and presently a choking little sob attracted Mr. Royal's attention. Then another and another, and then John jumped down from the window seat, and running up to the desk, hid his face on his father's arm, and burst into such a passion of tears that Maidie was frightened and began to cry too.

"Why, what is the matter, my son," asked Mr. Royal, kindly.

"I—I—I—don't wa-want to—to—sell my right to Madie," as well as he could, for weeping.

"Why—not for fifty dollars?" asked papa.

"Oh, no," said John; "no indeed, not for fifty millions. Will you let me have her back again; please, dear papa? and I don't believe I'll ever be so naughty and cross again as long as I live."

"Very well," said Mr. Royal, smiling. "Since you wish it so much, I will give up my part of the bargain, and you may have your little sister back again, but I hope you will think, another time, when you are tempted to speak to her as you did to-day, how you would feel not to have Maidie at all."

"I guess I shall," said John, giving her a good hug and kiss. "I love you, Maidie."

"So do I you," said Maidie, returning the caress. "Now let's go out in our garden, John."

So away they ran, hand in hand, as merry as the birds that were singing up among the boughs of the old butternut tree.—From "Little Maidie."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saline with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient combined with the velinous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, cools the system, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most soothing and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our "LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." Stray Thoughts of a Farmer.

It is painful to look on our New England hills and valleys and to see our pastures and fields covered with thin, scanty crops, where fifty years ago rich harvests were gathered, our farmers purchasing their flour and corn from the West, paying freight over a distance of a thousand miles, with commissions and merchants' profits, while at the same time we are continually saluted with complaints that "farming does not pay."

But here there must be something wrong,—something out of shape "in the premiere," as the old Justice used to say. No particle of matter has been destroyed since this globe first commenced its journey round the sun; but the particles of manurial matter that go to make our crops have become most sadly displaced on most of our farms. The same loving atmosphere still encloses the earth that was enjoyed by our fathers, abounding in ninety per cent. or more of plant-forming material. We have also the glorious sun of our fathers, shining with all his power, as he well knows how to in a New England summer; and we have, furthermore, "the early and latter rain;" so that there seems to be no lack of material, only of the skill to compound and put together.

I am not a believer in the immediate ushering in of the agricultural millennium, for there are only a few farmers who learn anything in relation to their calling after forty; scarcely any, after fifty,—of those who have made farming a life-pursuit. Farmers in New England are now in about the same situation that those of England were one hundred years ago. Their wheat crop then averaged about ten bushels per acre. But since that period they have applied brains to their soil and the crop of wheat has risen to over thirty bushels throughout the kingdom, though the soil has become a hundred years older.

As agriculture languishes, so will all the mechanical and mercantile pursuits. In conversation the other day with a merchant, he remarked that he had no fancy for farming. I said to him, Sir, if we stop farming, your business will soon come to a stand still, for you will not have anything to trade upon. He acknowleged it would be so, as agriculture is the chief corner-stone of a nation's greatness,—the main foundation of human civilization.

We have made some progress in the last twenty years in the improvement of stock. The old scrub ox has given place to a nobler animal. The same is true of cows, sheep and swine. The skilful mechanic has given his mind to the subject, and has invented new and improved tools, by which much of the hard labor is lightened and the work more thoroughly done. But many, very many, of the masses plod along in the steps of their fathers, gathering their scanty crops, and appear to have no wish to better their condition.

A remark is occasionally made like the following: "I do not want 'Boston folks to tell me how to manage my farm. I have managed it for forty or fifty years, and think myself more competent than they are." Many of this class of men are working a good soil, and are barely making the "two ends meet," as the saying is, and are contented, thinking they are doing well.

There is much land in New England that is not fit for cultivation, and should not be attempted. There is good land enough, and it should be cultivated to its utmost capacity. It should be made to produce on one acre what now is done on three, and the crop will be produced cheaper, thus leaving a larger profit.

The time is slowly approaching when the unskilful farmer will be crowded off the track. Men buy where they can buy the cheapest. The skilful agriculturist can afford to sell cheapest; consequently he will monopolize the market. Labor I know is high, but it must be carefully laid out, so that each day shall, if possible, pay for itself and leave a small profit to the employer. The time for haphazard farming has passed.

What other pursuit, managed as farming has been, would not have resulted in a complete failure? Can the merchant afford to let a stream of water run through his sugar and flour, or can the dealer in volatile materials expose his goods to the air, allowing their value to escape, and at the close of the year expect the balance to be on the right side of the sheet? This experiment has been tried in farming until the balance sheet is now a very close thing.—Cor N. E. Farmer.

—Steel rails on our chief railways, it is said, are not as successful as expected. The Hartford and New Haven Railroad are putting down new iron rails. They have left off putting down steel rails, as they make the road-bed too unyielding.

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND,—I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [jel5 4w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

AMERICAN
BUTTON-HOLE, OVERSEAMING,
—AND—
SEWING MACHINE!
H. N. DUNYON, 27 Market Street,
Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity.
The Reasons Why
This is the best Family Machine to Purchase.
1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do—the finest of sewing, hemming, felling, cording, tucking, braiding, binding, gathering, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.
2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand. (Not done on any other Sewing Machine.)
3. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet-hole. (No other machine can.)
4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment. (Not done on any other Machine.)
5. Because it can do "overhand seaming," by which shirts, pillow-cases and the like are sewed "over and over." (No other Machine can do it.)
Caution.
We would hereby warn the Public against albogus advertisements of Button-Hole Attachments, as the AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE is the first and only Button-Hole and Sewing Machine combined in the world.
This Machine is for sale only at our establishment, 27 Market Street, where we cordially invite the Public to Call and Examine for themselves, and be convinced that this is the Best and Cheapest Machine for any family.
N.B.—All Machines are Warranted for one year. Instruction given at the house of purchaser free. Persons buying this Machine never wish to exchange for any other.

Governor Stearns has appointed the following gentlemen as members of his staff, with the rank:—Mason W. Tappan of Bradford, chief of staff; E. A. Straw of Manchester, Samuel M. Wheeler of Dover, Charles H. Bell of Exeter, F. A. Faulkner of Keene, and L. B. Hoskins of Lyman.

A rivet factory and a truss and surgical instrument manufactory are soon to be established at Rumney.

A MISSTATEMENT CORRECTED. — A good deal of comment has been made by democratic papers regarding the removal of two of the daughters of the late Chief Justice Taney from situations as clerks in the Patent Office Department, and much has been written in deprecation of the political proscription which, it was alleged, led to that removal. The Washington Republican, however, explodes the cause of democratic indignation. It is well known, it says, that by a recent act Congress provided that all the writing for the Patent Office which hitherto had been done by ladies at their residences, should, after the 1st of July, be done at the office.

When the clerical force was re-organized, circular letters were sent to all the old lady employes, inviting them to positions in the building, as provided by law, and asking their acceptance or declination of the positions, to enable the Commissioner to make the necessary arrangements. In the case referred to above both the ladies declined the positions, preferring not to leave their homes to perform the clerical duty. If, therefore, any blame is attached to their loss of position, it rests between themselves for declining all the Department had to offer, or with Congress for passing the bill requiring the work to be done in the Patent Office.

☞ The burning of the rubber mill at Easthampton, Mass., on Monday, was caused by an explosion of naphtha, the flames from which filled the room and were sucked up the elevator to the garret, where fifty thousand pounds of dry rubber were stored. This caught and burned fiercely like pitch or rosin. The burning naphtha below dropped through the belt holes and set the second story on fire—so that in fifteen minutes the two upper stories of the mill were in a blaze, beyond the possibility of man to enter them or water to save. The roof soon fell in, and the flames, fed by tons of rubber and two score barrels of sulphur, shot straight up in the air a hundred feet. The heat became intense, and the iron of the smaller machinery melted and ran down like lead. The blaze roared like a furnace, the flames swayed to and fro like a giant flax field under the wind, and thick, suffocating clouds of sulphurous smoke rolled and billowed upward toward the sky. Gradually the strength of the fire was spent, floor after floor fell in, and now only the blackened, cracked and broken walls remain, holding a chaos of charred timbers, twisted iron pipes, and wrecked and rusted machinery. The estimated loss is $115,000.

MR. GARRISON ON TEMPERANCE.—At the great temperance gathering in Island Grove, Abington, Mass., on the 5th inst., William Lloyd Garrison stated that if he had not previously enlisted in the temperance movement in 1827, it is very likely that he might not have been an abolitionist. He considered the temperance cause, the John the the Baptist movement of the anti-slavery, as well as other morals reforms of later times. Nearly all the movers in abolitionism were total abstinence men. He had been so ever since 1827.

—A section of the New Albany and Chicago Railroad was the only ground for miles that was above water during a recent freshet, and the consequence was that the prairie snakes flocked to it in immense numbers. The road for miles was lined with snakes of every size, color and description, from the insignificant garter to the largest black snakes and racers.

—All the domestic bees near Louisville have disappeared, leaving their homes full of honey. The cause of this extraordinary exodus is a mystery. In a circuit of twenty-five miles all the hives were deserted about the same time.

—Leroy Elwell of South Shaftsbury, Vt., aged 23 years, committed suicide on the 4th inst. by hanging. He had two wives living, and the cause is said to be that he feared a prosecution for bigamy.

—The Western papers are indignant at the combination in Pennsylvania for advancing the price of coal. It is denounced as a swindle of the most outrageous character.

—In what particular does a trifling cat differ from Noah's Ark? Because it is not able to alight on Ararat.

ON THE WING.

THE FOREST CITY is alive this week with the visitors and delegates which the National and International Y. M. C. A. Convention has gathered. The weather, however, is unamiable, and General Fog to-day hides from view the Islands which the Convention proposed this afternoon to visit. Rifts in the cloud appear as I write, and it is possible that the unwelcome official may be ordered on foreign service, in which case a good time is promised. Thus far, as you have already learned, the exercises have been highly successful. Upwards of 600 accredited members are present; there are besides an equal or larger number of friends in attendance.

The topics discussed have been practical and interesting, the speakers able and earnest. To-morrow, (Saturday,) closes the session, and the pastors in the neighborhood will have abundant Sabbath help.

The Mount Desert travel promises to be large this season, and tourists to this delightful spot by the way of Portland will do well to tarry a day in the still beautiful Forest City, to drive about her beautiful environs or visit the unnumbered charms of Casco Bay.

MOUNT WASHINGTON RAILROADING above the skies is a novelty to most people. When Sylvester Marsh proposed the taking of the "Crown of New England" by steam, he was laughed at as a fool. An honorable member of the House proposed as an amendment to the charter desired, a railroad to the moon! It is Marsh's turn to laugh now, as he sees the vast obstacles all surmounted and success crowning his work. The party of Railroad men and representatives of the New York, Boston and Portland Press reached Tip Top House to-day, July 17, at noon. The weather has been fine and clear, but the wind blew so fearfully that we could not stand erect, but clung to house, rocks, or whatever we could lay hold of. The mercury was at 43 deg., 31 lower than at the hotel below.

The travel over the mountain will be large this season. Barrow of White River has opened a new and spacious hotel called the "Twin Mt. House," and Mr. Richardson, late of the Bromfield House, Boston, is its watchful custodian. Thayer, at Littleton, has refitted his parlors with most costly furniture, and added a fine croquet lawn, which will be appreciated by the many visitors to this favorite hotel. The Boston, Concord & Montreal extension will be opened to Whitefield this autumn, and probably a branch road in time built to Giant's Grave, which will greatly lessen the amount of staging required to reach the central district of the "Switzerland of America." REMARKABLE JUDICIAL DECISION! On Wednesday last Caleb Gates was tried before Mr. Justice of the Peace Forrest, at Gorham, N. H., for assault upon Henry P. Gates. The proof was that after some altercation Caleb got over the fence into the enclosure of Henry and attempted to give him a thrashing; but Henry proved more than a match for Caleb, and after giving the latter a sound drubbing put him back over the fence. Caleb then uttered threats of futher violence, and Henry entered complaint against Caleb for the assault and was required to attend Court as witness for the State.

Hon. Jacob Benton, M. C., of Lancaster, appeared for Caleb, the prisoner under arrest, and Hon. H. A. Fletcher of the same place, appeared for the State. After the evidence was all in, the case was elaborately argued by counsel and Mr. Justice Forrest delivered a learned and lengthy opinion, concluding with thefollowing judgement: "Caleb Gates, the prisoner, is required to give bonds in the sum of $150 to keep the peace, and pay half the cost of prosecution; Henry P. Gates, complainant, is required to pay the other half of the cost!

This may be regarded as a very remarkable example of New Hampshire justice. The prisoner is found guilty of assault and battery and a person required to be present as principal witness for the government is mulcted in half the costs of prosecution.—Portland Argus.

☞ Charles White, the lion tamer, travelling with Thayer's Menagerie, was actually eaten up by the lions on Friday night, in a small town in Michigan. He was struck in the shoulder by one, knocked down, torn to pieces, and part of his body devoured before they could be beaten off.

☞ Emigrants can go from New York to San Francisco by the Pacific Railway for $50, and fruit will be transported from the Golden Gate to the Eastern metropolis for five cents a pound.

Lumber mills at North Stratford are cutting up the logs faster than cars can be had to take the lumber to Portland. There are now 400,000 feet ahead, and some eight or ten millions of logs remain to be cut at these mills.

At Gorham, Mr. George Goodrich has mills for cutting boards, shingles, laths, staves and dimension timber. They cut out from five to six millions of lumber a year.

Mr. Hartwell, of Providence, R. I., who purchased the Webster farm in Franklin, has requested to be released from his bargain, on account of his ill health. He has sent a check for $500 to pay for what trouble he has occasioned.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life confirmed, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

General Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a family medicine they are unrivalled.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, and other means used had failed.

A gentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 21, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. jy22

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours,

J. M. JOHNSON.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) ministered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and cataclysmical salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main hoss" of the faculty, in cases of Dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the balding up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the blood, stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition.

In summer, when the fluctuating temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Pills.—RUSH OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—This unpleasant visitation is not confined to persons of a full habit. It is as frequently the result of weakness as of a predisposition to apoplexy. By whatever cause engendered, the best remedy for the complaint is HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. The moment they begin to operate the oppression on the brain is relieved. Their effect is to equalize the circulation, and if taken whenever a lassitude or relaxyem occurs, the attacks will soon cease altogether. Sold by all Druggists. jy20

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and combined in a pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the fairer sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

"A Word to Horsemen."

DR. TOBIAS' CELEBRATED VENETIAN HORSE LINIMENT has been tested by the first Horsemen in the country, and proved to be superior to any other. The late Hiram Woodruff, of "trotting fame," was never without a bottle in his stable. It is also used by Col. Rush, of the Jerome Park Course, at Fordham, N. Y., who has over twenty running Horses under his care, among which rank some of the finest stock in America.—It is warranted to cure Lameness, Sprains, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Cuts, Wind Galls, Colic, Sore Throat, Nail in the Foot, and Over Heating, when used according to the directions.

All who own or employ Horses are assured that this Liniment will do all, if not more, in curing the above named complaints. No horse need die of Colic, if, when first taken, the Liniment is used according to directions. Always have a bottle in your stable.

Prices, in Pint bottles, One Dollar. The genuine is signed S. I. Tobias on the outside wrapper. For sale by the Druggists, Saddlery and Storekeepers throughout the United States. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York. je17

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant but powerful preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before each meal will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 43 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jo19

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the entire system is ready for a good digesta and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile stasis freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel of deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is ready into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heetic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive apparatus, clog up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. He removes the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or Dyspepsia, Uncurated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make good blood out of the food. The only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to digest food, the liver act easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to be built up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills for all the bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was formerly a pale, wasted skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, and physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to die, but he was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, when and where they must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the head (for that is their proper designation,) with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A FINE OPPORTUNITY is offered for some opulent son of Portsmouth, at home or abroad, to add to the fund for the distribution of Medals at the High Schools. The Haven Medals are few in number, while there are always more deserving than can possibly receive them.

There are eight of the 2d class at the Girls' High School, whose records were so near that of the young lady who received the second Medal that the difference was hardly perceptible. Their names are, Annabel Scott Tucker, Clara Eva Rand, Ellen Metcalf Adams, Alice Jane Neal, Amanda Pickering, Lizzie Langley, Ella Frances Marden and Ellen Amelia Newton. In the 3d class there were nine whose records were also nearly, if not quite, up to that of the young lady who received the third Medal, viz.; Mary Elizabeth Bell, Maria Frances Stover, Mary Anna Rand, Annie Jane Sides, Annie Florence Baker, Emily Elizabeth Tomlinson, Georgette Ballmason, Katherine Mahoney and Margaret Jane Woods.

That these young ladies did not receive Medals, because of the lack of a sufficient fund for their purchase, is not sufficient reason for condemning the system of distribution; but we hope it may draw the attention of some public-spirited individual, and induce him or her to add from their wealth a sufficient sum to the fund which will in the future prevent the disappointment of any who are deserving of reward.

☞ A correspondent promises "a full report of the trip to the Shoals under commander-in-chief J. C. Butler. As Butler is a piano-forte man, we may expect something loud and soft, the latter appertaining to the correspondent. But whoever it may be, he has nothing to do with singers, sewing machines, nor Shem, Ham or Japheth. No pedestrians (walkers) were there from Virginia; and notwithstanding the party were Laight-on getting home, having a Baker on board, they were all well-bred. Moore knows the rest, but Kent do it."

☞ We learn that Mr. Eastman Cutts, of York, who died a few days since in England, held a Life Ins. policy in the Equitable Co. for $3000; which, with accumulations, amounts to about $3300 for his wife and son. Mr. Cutts, disease was congestion of the lungs. As an acquaintance from boyhood, we knew him for a good fellow; and his capacity as a seaman was such, that had he lived to make another voyage, it would probably have been as captain of a ship.

THE EUROPEAN CIRCUS made a great display on Wednesday, and the canvass was well filled at the afternoon and evening entertainments. The show brought a large delegation of lookers-on from the country, and the children thronged the streets. The circus is the best one that has visited Portsmouth this year.

☞ The New Hampshire Gazette for this week, is now ready for delivery at the Chronicle office. Price 5 cts. per copy—$2. per year. Contains all the Local and other reading from the Daily Chronicle.

☞ The "Ivanhoe" capsized with a party of eight on Middle Street, Tuesday evening. Nobody seriously damaged, though the horses rushed off with the fore-wheels.

FISHY.—Messrs. John H. Miller and Geo. Rand, of Boston, caught 1000 lbs. of fish on Wednesday, at the Shoals. A halibut weighing 103 pounds was among the lot.

☞ We are pleased to learn that Capt. A. H. Bowden, of Kittery, who dislocated his knee last December, is able to take command of his vessel again.

GOOD!—Mr. Lougee has changed the name of his new House at Rye Beach, and it will hereafter be known as the Sea-View House.

☞ It was Wm. H. Gardiner, and not Wm. R. Gardner, who took a Haven Medal at the Boys' High School last week.

☞ Drake, who attempted suicide at the Appledore House at the Shoals, is much better and will recover.

NEWS!—The Boston Post says that Portsmouth is at the mercy of a crowd a crowd of negroes!

☞ The notorious Mrs. Wilson has gone to jail in default of the $200 bail required of her.

☞ The High Schools have a vacation until the first Monday of September, 7 weeks.

☞ Brigham Young has recently married again. His new bride is Miss Fallansbee of Boston.

☞ The Stockholders of the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Co., are notified that a Special Meeting of the Company will be held at the Company's hall, in Kittery, near the station, on Wednesday, August 4, at half-past ten o'clock, A. M., to consider the subject of a settlement of the controversy between the Company and the Eastern and the Boston & Maine Railroad Companies in reference to the contract of April 1, 1847, and to act upon the proposition made to the Directed by the last two named Companies relating thereto.

HAMPTON BEACH.—The Exeter correspondent of the Boston Traveller says, a mandate has been issued by the authorities of Hampton, forbidding the occupation, erection or maintenance of any tent or structure, on the public land lying contiguous to the sea. It is but simple justice that the men who have invested such large sums of money to make this beach attractive, should have their interests protected in this direction.

☞ Philadelphia is to have a bigger musical jubilee than Boston has had. It is proposed to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the singing of the Declaration of Independence, on the Fourth of July, 1876, by a gigantic musical festival, in a building especially erected in Fairmount Park, capable of accommodating 100,000 spectators and 12,000 performers.

☞ The late rains have so damaged the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad, between Hannibal and Palmyra, that the trains have ceased running between those places for the present. Between St. Louis and Palmyra a large part of the country is inundated, so that the railroad trains run with difficulty.

☞ The Captain-General of Cuba, in view of the prompt action of the United States in arresting the filibusters, has issued a decree annulling the seventh article of his proclamation of the 7th instant, relative to the right of Spanish cruisers to search neutral vessels in the waters near Cuba.

☞ The children in Windham county, Ct., are put to work in the factories when quite young, and it appears by the report of the Committe on Education that the average school attendance in that county is less than five per cent.

☞ The Chase men among the Pennsylvania Democracy were particularly active in persuading Gen. Hancock to keep out of politics, for fear, it is said, that he might prove a troublesome rival in the Presidential competition.

☞ The telegraph line from Boston to Duxbury will probably be completed by the 25th inst., and it is expected that direct communications with France by the way of the new cable will be established by the first of next month.

☞ Rear-Admiral Davis, who has arrived at New York from Rio Janeiro, says that the yellow fever was prevailing to an alarming extent, and there were many deaths. There was also considerable fever at Havana.

☞ One hundred and seventy-five regular boarders are at the Appledore House, at the Shoals. They can accommodate 300. Rev. Geo. M. Hepworth is one of the guests.

THE HARVARD FOUR-OAR CREW arrived in England on Monday. They will row the international match with the Oxford crew on the 31st of August.

NAVAL. — Rear-Admiral T. Bailey and Commodore S. B. Bissell are ordered to temporary duty as members of the retiring board at Washington.

☞ Koopmanschap will import one hundred thousand coolies into the United States during the coming year.

☞ The Massachusetts State Constabulary now numbers one hundred and twenty-six men.

☞ Alabama election, Aug. 3d.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Concluded.

In the New Hampshire Gazette, July 19, 1770, is the copy of a petition addressed to Gov. John Wentworth against the location of Dartmouth College at Hanover, in which it is suggested that false statements as to the country have been made to Dr. Wheelock: the paper going on to say: "However, whether the Doctor has been imposed on or not, 't is generally said that the Province and Public are; for a more unpleasant spot on Connecticut river within the Province cannot be found than Hanover, both in point of soil or prospect; it being horribly broken on the river, and in the back part of the town very muddy, and scarce a running stream upon it, and but one within the limits of the town that can in any measure answer for mills; and 't is thought by many who have measured that stream that it is not sufficient for one mill." * * * * * * If they had water to grind for the few poor inhabitants who live there, they never did, and 't is said by judicious men that for years to come they will not be able to raise their own bread. * * Surely the extraordinary cost must be great to build and support a college in a town where boards can not be sawed nor bread raised."

As an offset to these statements we give the following, copied from the Gazette of Feb. 11, 1771:

"We hear from the Merrimack that Samuel Wentworth, Esq., of that place, has raised in his garden this season a cucumber that measured in length 22 inches. If such things are done in Merrimack, what may we not expect from that fertile land about Dartmouth College, which is certainly much richer and the soil deeper. As an evidence, a few hills of corn being planted on the earth thrown out of the bottom of a well 30 or 35 feet deep, grew to equal height and goodness of that in the rest of the field, viz.: 9 or 10 feet high."

The magistracy of the city of Albany offered an interest estimated at £2,300 besides large private donations, to induce the location of the College there. Sir Francis Bernard, Baronet, Governor of Massachusetts Bay, offered 2,000 acres of land for its location in a central town in Berkshire County, and other donations, amounting in all to 2,800 acres of land and £800 in money. Towns in Connecticut offered liberally also to secure the school.

The donations which had been actually made in New Hampshire in 1771, amounted to 44,000 acres of land and £340, including the township of Landaff, 24,000 acres, granted by charter. Of these lands about 3,300 acres were in a body in Lebanon and Hanover; and in the Gazette of Oct. 11, 1771, is an advertisement as follows: "Choice lands to be given away without any other consideration but settling absolutely on them, only six miles from that new seat of learning, Dartmouth College. Inquire of the Printers."

Under the caption, "Dartmouth College," the Connecticut Courant, of September 10, 1770, contains a long article, over the signature of Dr. Wheelock, in which he announces that his "Indian Charity School," so generally sustained by a "pious zeal to promote religion and learning among the savages of the wilderness," has now become a body corporate and public under the name of Dartmouth College, "by a most generous and royal charter, granted and amply endowed with privileges, in the opinion of good judges, not inferior to any university on the continent, by His Excellency John Wentworth of New Hampshire, whom God has raised up and commissioned for this purpose."

He goes on to state that he had "with one of the Trustees and a gentleman of proper ability in such affairs, whom they had invited to accompany them, spent several weeks in visiting the several places proposed as sites for the College," and that the trustees had, "with the greatest unanimity, fixed upon Hanover, where he hoped soon to support by charity a large number of Indian youth in Moor's Charity School, which is connected and incorporated with the College, also English youths in the College, in order to their being fitted for missionaries amongst Indians."

The following notices are interesting:

We hear that a day will soon be appointed by the Trustees for a public commencement at Dartmouth College in this province, when a number of young Gentlemen who have been for four or five years under the tuition of Rev. and worthy Dr. Wheelock, the President of said College, will receive their degrees.— N. H. Gazette, Aug. 2, 1771.

On Monday last (Aug. 19,) His Excellency Gov. Wentworth, with a number of gentlemen, set out from here (Portsmouth) for Dartmouth College by way of Wolfborough.—N. H. Gazette Aug. 23, 1771.

On Wednesday, 28th of August, was held the first Commencement at Dartmouth College, in this Province, which was attended by His Excellency Gov. Wentworth, with many members of his majesty's Court, and other gentlemen, and a Concourse of people beyond all Expectation.

The following Gentlemen: Messrs. John Wheelock and Samuel Gray, Independent Students, and Messrs. Levi Frisbe and Sylvanus Ripley, educated for Missionaries among the remote Indians, candidates for the first degree, performed the appointed Exercises of the day, under the conduct of the Rev. President Wheelock, to the entire approbation of the Honorable Trustees present, and obtained the admiration and applause of a crowded audience.

The exercises consisted of an Elegant English Oration upon the Virtues, succeeded by an Anthem; a Philosophic Oration in Latin, a Syllogistic Disputation, and a Valedictory Oration in Latin, followed by an Anthem composed and Set to music by the young gentlemen candidates for a degree. The next day was ordained David Avery, educated at that seminary, in order to his immediate departure as Missionary among the Indians.—N. H. Gazette, Sept. 6, 1771.

A census of Hanover, taken in 1773, gives the number of "Students at College" at 90,—and, in a total population of 342, male students 4, and female students 4. The census of the State, to which reference is made, was not published, and the original returns are to be found in two manuscript volumes which were procured from the George Chalmers papers in England, by Peter Force, and are now in the Congressional Library.

The State has 75,000 pupils in its public schools, and employs nearly three thousand teachers.

Mr. John K. Lord, who graduated in the year 1868 from Dartmouth College, has been appointed a Latin tutor in that institution.

Rev. W. R. Jewett of Fisherville has lost the sight of his right eye. He discovered the fact on arising from bed one morning a short time since.

A boy in Bristol, ten years old, recently captured a large hen hawk, using a whip with which he was going to drive home the cows.

On Saturday last, J. W. Johnson of Enfield, took in at East Lebanon, 39,451 pounds of wool from 111 different persons, comprising a very nice lot, as to quality. Upwards of 37,000 pounds of this wool was taken in in eight hours, thrown to the second story of the building, through a scutile, weighed, and packed away in the wool stalls, and every pound reckoned and paid for without a single error of a cent. If any one can beat this in the wool line, let them show their hand.—Free Press.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough, Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS, COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease, will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions to such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

Is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, which invert which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without griping, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic so dorific with the aperient, and a general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate its secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood, upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the venous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most cooling, delightful, and safe.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medical men.

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

This hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

ODE TO THE SUN.

Hail, hyperdiaphanous and superlustrous orb of day,
In whose effulgent beams with joy luxurious insects play.
Before thy face the nebulous mists hasten to deliquesce,
And quickly from thy countenance all adumbrations press.

Fructiferous trees, baciferous shrubs, own thy vivific ray.
Cornuted lambs and flocculent sheep, disporting, love thy sway.
The garish rooster ambulates with turgent, pompous mien,
And peacocks o'er the vernal sward display their caudal sheen!

When thou dost appropinquate towards this terraqueous sphere,
Thy coruscations vespertine cause adscititious cheer;
Thine evanescent nitency shines 'mid the viminal trees,
And bathes in richest splendor the broad, velliferous seas!

BEEF FROM TEXAS.—The New Orleans Picayune says the experiment of shipping slaughtered beef to that port from Texas has proved a complete success. A lot of thirty head arrived at New Orleans on the 10th inst. in the steamer Agnes, which had been fitted up with refrigerating apparatus for the purpose, and came out in perfect order, looking as if freshly slaughtered, though killed on the 5th inst. The means used for preserving the beef is so effectual that it may be shipped for long distances—to Northern as well as Southern ports. Arrangements are in progress for sending large quantities to Mobile and Havana. Texas abounds in beef cattle, thousands of which are slaughtered for their hides and tallow alone, and if this new process proves to be as successful as it now seems likely to, it will be a great step toward cheap beef.

THE AMERICAN COLONY IN BRAZIL.—The return of the American colony from Brazil has been announced. It numbered forty-six persons, who went out in 1667, under the leadership of Dr. Geo. W. McDade of Montgomery, Ala. The colonists on arriving at Rio Janeiro went to Linhaus, near Rio Doce, where a Dr. Gunter, acting under the orders of the Brazilian government, had laid out several thousand acres of land, and was offering inducements to settlers. Rio Doce proved to be very unhealthy, and the colonists soon removed to Itapmerin. This place was very healthy, but the colonists were unsuccessful in planting, and returned to Rio Janeiro, and from there came to New York.

THE VARIETIES OF CORN are more numerous than is generally supposed, no less than one hundred and twenty having been found it is said, in Spain alone. As many perhaps exist in the United States within the limits of New England alone. The ears of different varieties vary in length from one to eighteen inches, and in diameter from the half of one to more than two inches. Some kinds have eight rows of kernels to the ear, some ten and twelve, and some more, even to the number of thirty-six.

The manures at our command best adapted, all things considered, to the growth of corn, are those of the barn and the stable.

If our common eight rowed corn, which bears but one or two ears to a stalk, or our Dutton which bears but one, could be made to produce four and two, respectively, the corn crop of this State would be doubled. But is corn growing an unprofitable business in New Hampshire? Northern corn is quoted in the market at about one dollar and a-half a bushel. What does it cost to raise it? This question will doubtless elicit different answers. A careful preservation of all the items of expense of a crop raised in 1861, showed me conclusively that my corn that year cost me about fifty cents.

The value of our Indian corn crop is not generally appreciated. It is the most important of any grain grown in the country. As an article of food it is of very great value. Fifty two pounds of Indian corn is equal to seventy-one of oats, fifty-five of rye, fifty-two of wheat, and one hundred of good English hay. For fattening purposes it is doubtless the most valuable of all our cereals.

New Hampshire raised less corn in 1860 than in 1840, and in order to make good the deficiency in her own crop something like a million bushels were annually imported. By a judicious selection of the better varieties and more careful cultivation, they might supply the whole demand of the State without materially increasing the area now devoted to it.—J. B. Walker.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be literally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing; to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [jel5 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1869.

THE SPOILS AGAIN. — The Portland Advertiser, which is sometimes spicy, and is so felicitously facetious that its friends are convulsed with laughter all on account of its magnifest cunning, has taken up the cudgel against the old Democratic war-cry, "To the Victors belong the Spoils," and, in its immense way, talks to those who disagree with its opinions, like the wise men who hail the millenium as close at hand, and anticipate a speedy vision of the virtuous lion and innocent lamb reclining together with never a thought of the past or fear for the future.

Incidentally the Advertiser condemns our article on "the spoils," and delivers itself of a wondrous mass of self-sufficient wisdom, which would be more valuable did it not come from a paper so independent in its political action that it is ever difficult to predict what its course is to be.

Our first article sustaining that of the Biddeford Journal was particularly intended for this vicinity, and the Advertiser has evidently little or no knowledge or appreciation of the circumstances. We never have deemed that paper a very reliable exponent of Republican principles, and can therefore expect nothing in the way of advice from that quarter which would tend to consolidate the Republican element and harmonize its factions.

The plain effects of ignoring that "Democratic principle" before spoken of would be the total demoralization of any party. It would be natural for any man to dissolve a business connection with any partner who worked against the interest of the whole. A political partnership is more easily dissolved, and when the working men of any party are the complainants, it is very evident that they are more than half right.

The Advertiser thinks it worth while to observe that when the Democratic party had learned to care for its friends it "went under the waves] of popular disapproval." In the same style of arguing it is of course to be supposed that had it neglected its friends those "waves" would have never rolled over the unterrified! Should the Democracy, therefore, ever resume the reins of government, it must evidently be their first duty to themselves to abandon this principle, and keep themselves in power by following the illustrious examples of a Chase, a Fessenden, a Johnson, a Grimes (and the lesser lights who disremember that others firmly held the ladder on which they mounted)—forget their friends and permit their enemies to come in and sup! And in those days the Portland Advertiser shall be the official organ for the promulgation of political wisdom!

JAPAN.— A steamship, formerly a confederate cruiser, called the Tallahassee, was totally wrecked on Plymouth Rock, near Yokohama, Japan, on the 17th of June. Twenty-two lives were lost, including the captain, most of the crew and many passengers. On receipts of the news at Yokohama, assistance was immediately dispatched to the scene of the disaster, but no vestige of the wreck was visible, the vessel having sunk in forty fathoms of water. Among the lost were Captain Hill Watts, second engineer, Mr. Morgauson, an old and well-known merchant of Canton, Mr. Wainwright, formerly of San Francisco, Herr Jacklick, a pianist, and Messrs. Dobble and Muller. The imperialists had captured Hakodadi.

NAVAL.—The United States Steamer, Unadil is at Hong Kong, and the Oneida at Hakadadi. The Iroquois and Ashuelot are at Nagasaki. The Aroostook, is over due at Nagasaki, from Hakadadi. Disturbances in that quarter have probably detained her. It is reported that both the Unadilla and Mauinee have been condemned. After undergoing necessary repairs, they will be sent to California and sold. The Piscataqua and Monocacy are at Yokohama.

☞ Official returns of the vote in Washington Territory give a total of 5288, an increase in two years of 688, Garfield's (Republican) majority, for delegate to Congress, is 148. The vote on the question of a State Constitution is 400 in favor and 688 against the proposition.

☞ Rev. Dr. Peabody has gone on a trip to California, in preference to visiting Europe again, during his summer vacation.

☞ Dartmouth Commencement exercises passed off satisfactorily on Wednesday.

☞ Admiral Farragut has gone to California.

Thurston & Twombly, manufacturers of bobbins and spools, at Alton Corner, employ 25 men, and use 600 cords of wood annually. They make about 50,000 spools per day for the Clark Thread Company at Newark, N. J. Their total annual product is about $30,000. Their shop is over one hundred feet long, and two stories high, with a basement. They also do a large amount of planing, matching, and job work. They have another shop in New Durham, where they employ six hands.

A few days ago, a Wolfeborough farmer sent to New York one hundred bushels of potatoes, to raise which cost him not far from forty dollars. He received from his correspondent in return, $10, or ten cents a bushel. The freight bill for transportation was $11. So that he had the privilege of paying $1 for giving away 100 bushels of potatoes.

Two silver Trumpets were offered on the 4th of July to the Dover Fire Department, one for hand machines and the other for Steamers. But as Steamer Cocheco, 2, Capt. Lebbeus Hill, was the only one that played, the Committee of Arrangements decided to purchase one splendid Silver Trumpet, costing the same as intended to pay for the two, and present it to the plucky Company that dared to come out and test the power of their machine when invited to a trial.

The Montreal Road has just purchased a new freight engine from the assignees of McKay and Aldus, of Boston. It is named the "Franconia," and is now on the road. The price paid was $13,000.

The Dover Gas Light Co. have declared a semi-annual dividend of $1.50 per share.

As the family of Mr. William Washburn, jr., of Boston, were riding out in their corriage at Lyme, recently, the horse became frightened and the occupants of the carriage were thrown over a steep embankment, severely injuring Mrs. Washburn and another lady. Mr. L. T. Washburn, while endeavoring to save the ladies, had his leg broken in two places, and was otherwise injured.

The ladies of Manchester, with the wife of ex-Governor Smyth at their head, urge the city authorities to enforce the liquor law.

The new town of Tilton, formerly Sanborntown Bridge, held its first charter election Saturday, choosing Lyman B. Ames, town clerk, Professor Sylvester Dixon, superintendent of public schools, and Eleazer Davis, Horace Moulton and Leonard K. Clough, selectmen.

Of seventeen graduates of Dartmouth College, who died the last year, three were over 80 years of age, and five others had passed the allotted period of human life.

There are sixteen Young Men's Christian Associations in the State.

The barn of Mr. D. Stickney, of Sunapee, was struck by lightning, a few days ago, and entirely burned with all its contents.

WHAT IS IT FOR?—A remarkable degree of activity prevails at the present time in all the dock-yards of the country, Pacific as well as the Atlantic; and it looks as though the Government were placing the whole available navy on a war footing. A similar activity in the dock-yards of France or Great Britain, would in a week's time have set all Europe in a blaze and caused a broad panic in the funds. Here it does not seem to ruffle the surface of our midsummer life; and yet naval preparations on a wide scale have been going on for weeks at all the Naval Stations of the country.

☞ A sinlguar accident occurred at Stratford, Conn., a few days since. As a farmer was sharpening his scythe with a rifle, a swallow flew between the rifle and the blade and his head was severed from his body.

—A French child asked the priest the other day, "Why is it, Father, that we ask every day for our daily bread, instead of asking our bread for a week, month, or the whole year?" "Why, you little goose, to have it fresh, to be sure," was the reply.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on suffrance and many others than will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success has only been commensurate with their true merits. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

Dr. Speer, of New Jersey, makes an excellent wine, that is becoming celebrated among medical gentlemen in our large cities, and used in hospitals as a superior article. removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby relieving it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced down it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that dreary sea, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main holt" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, when pound preparation so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is operated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the building up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which advocates gentle means. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, with a marked improvement in the general condition.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Pills.—RUSH OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—This unpleasant visitation is not confined to persons of a full habit. It is as frequently the result of weakness or a predisposition to apoplexy. By whatever cause engendered, the best remedy for the complaint is HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. The moment they begin to operate the pressure on the brain is relieved. Their effect is to equalize the circulation, and if taken whenever a paroxysm occurs, the attacks will soon cease altogether. Sold by all Druggists. jy20

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

in Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been achieved. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary jelly, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than one thousand experiments and experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the kindred complaints to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without injuring those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY PAIN MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physicians. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jel6

A SURE REMEDY.

GRANT & PROSPERITY.

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the head (that is the general designation,) with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that and that he knows it to be so, because he has analyzed it.

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it. 2jy22

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the secrets of their action are constantly practiced by their use, and the principle of life confirmed, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

General Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are unrivalled.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other means used had failed.

Algentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 21, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. jy22

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native converts are so assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours,

J. M. JOHNSON.

Missionary at Swatow, China.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, loosens it from the lungs, and heals the ulceration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has recovered the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the Tonic can do their good work.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will equal the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Liver complaint is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and as the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry the chills, stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats and hectic fever; remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerous Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, hoarseness, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not for the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of the food, and it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets healthy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery has cured thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 33 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. diyjs4

☞ The annual Richards Avenue Pic-Nic came off at Rye Beach on Tuesday, near the Farragut House, from which the party received many courtesies, as heretofore.

All visitors speak in praise of the new arrangements connecting the Atlantic and Farragut Houses, and the manner in which the consolidated hostelry is conducted this season. Besides the marine attractions, the beautiful grove attached to these houses, is very enjoyable. There were 110 guests at the Farragut, Monday morning. That Messrs. Philbrick & Co., proprietors, and Messrs. Shepard and Walker, Clerks, know how to keep a hotel, and more than one, is pretty certain.

☞ The Navy Yard has always been regarded as an injury to Portsmouth, by business men generally,—as competing disadvantageously and irregularly with private enterprise. We must confess we never saw it in that light so strongly as some,—but no doubt it may prevent the development of business on this side the river somewhat. For instance, on the recent call for more hands, many house carpenters dropped other work in this city to go to the Yard—in some instances leaving their employers, master workmen and others somewhat in the lurch. And it is the glorious uncertainty of keeping places on the Yard, or retaining workmen on this side, that is one of the objections raised to the institution.

PERSONAL.—Hon. William L. Putnam, Mayor of Portland, was in this city on Thursday, on business connected with the construction of the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad.

Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, of Portland, whose position in Masonry is thus elaborately described, viz; 33d. M. P. Sov. Gr. Com. Supreme Council for the Northern Jurisdiction, U. S. A., was also in town making arrangements for a Grand Encampment of the Commanderies of the State of Maine, at Cushing's Island and the Sagamore House, about the middle of September.

☞ Lieut. Comdr. H. B. Seely, of the U. S. S. Pawnee, was arrested on Thursday, for abusing O'Brien by having him triced up by the wrists. He was bailed in the sum of $5000. O'Brien sues for $5000. A second writ was issued on another charge of abusing a colored seamen, and Detective Kent with District Attorney H. P. Rolfe of Concord went to the Navy Yard on Thursday to serve it.

☞ We observe that the Ocean House, Rye Beach, has been surmounted with a new and larger Cupola, which is quite ornamental and improves the appearance of the House greatly. There are also various improvements inside. Job Jenness & Son are always improving things. Their new cottage barn in their fine field above is a very tasteful addition to the landscape.

☞ Mr. T. H. Drake, who cut his throat at the Isle of Shoals on Saturday last, entered a grocery store when a boy, and last January retired from the firm, wealthy, and went to Europe for his health. His attempt to commit suicide was caused by an overtasked brain.

☞ The Sagamore House, at Frost's Point, is one of the most nicely fitted and richly furnished hotels on the coast. It is a most interesting trip, to make the round of the string of Beach Houses, from the Sagamore to Boar's Head Hotel at Hampton.

☞ The Trotting Matches for next week will no doubt afford some fine sport. Both sides are confident of winning, and will strive to do so; and this is just the way to secure some fun and excitement.

☞ The weather is of the loveliest, of late. We are having our perfect June days now—or were at the writing of this.

☞ The Second Adventists will celebrate next Sunday by a camp meeting at Rye Beach.

☞ Rev. Mr. Weston is to preach at the Universalist Church next Sunday.

DETESTABLE.—There are two things in this world which I particularly dislike. One is that leathern bag of small and sharp bones called a "cunner"—black perch is his ornithological name, I believe. I tried to skin one once, and tore my trowsers and very nearly assassinated my friend with the fish-knife, in the attempt. At that time I vowed to have no more to do with cunners unless they were fried; but I reckoned without consulting the horrible, prickly fish, one of which has persecuted me since that time, through no fault of my own.

Being at the Shoals a few days since, I of course went out in one of the fine boats that are always in readiness to take parties from the Appledore House on fishing excursions. I was accompanied by a very select few, who generously allowed me to row (as we had no wind when we started) all the way to the fishing ground, and didn't once try to take the oar away from me. As soon as the lines were over, it was voted by the company that certain "incidental expenses" at dinner should be liquidated by the man who caught the last fish: I didn't intend to catch the last fish, so I didn't trouble myself in the matter.

We enjoyed ourselves much. Big pollock and codfish were hauled in, and much water was drank,—some of it from the big jug belonging to the boat, and some from a bottle which one careful soul had brought in his pocket,—I drank only from the jug. The fish-box was about filled and I had not yet "had a bite," when our skipper mildly hinted at the possibility of my hook not being baited, which proved to be correct. In my eagerness to catch a fish I had forgotten to put on any bait; however, I can recommend that style of fishing to those who love quiet, as one is not half as liable to be bothered with bites as when the hook is baited; and I think the violent exertion required to haul in those big fish must be injurious to health.

The skipper baited my hook with the last clam, and I let it down into the sea once more. Line after line was hauled in, each with a big fish on the end, and at last I pulled up mine, remarking that they hadn't got me, for I'd not caught a fish at all,—when lo! as the hook came to the surface, on it was a miserable little cunner, stone dead—he must have been there full half an hour. The result is plainly to be seen,—I had caught the last fish. I hate cunners now worse than ever.

The Isles of Shoals boatmen are geniuses in their way, and can conceive of no moral guilt greater than mismanagement of a boat. Those connected with the hotel keep their strong, roomy craft very clean and neat, and are civil and obliging to their patrons; but they exist in a chronic state of wonder at the ignorance of rational beings who don't know starboard from port, and "catch crabs" in rowing. They know just where the fishes reside, and just how to catch them. I am certain that our skipper took me where that wretched cunner lived, on purpose; knowing that though I escaped unscathed from pollock and cod, I could not get away from him.

The other thing that I detest is the moral character of the man who lately stole my new shirt off the clothes-line. I do not hate him; it is his deed I condemn. I cherish no malice. So far from wishing any ill to the man who has ruthlessly bereaved me, I would be most happy to write his obituary; and would be glad to exert my influence in procuring the insertion of an extended notice of his decease and funeral, in this paper, gratis. Until I have this opportunity of manifesting my forgiveness, my happiness will be incomplete.

MARRIED BY TELEGRAPH.

"Mr. Leary, are you a married man?"

"Very, sir."

"Very! Why do you say very?"

"Because my dear little wife and I are bound together by wires!"

"Latimer Leary, you talk enigmas."

"Then sir, to be as plain as a primer, I will inform you that I was married by telegraph."

"You don't say?"

"Yes I do."

"Then tell the company all about it."

"I will, with pleasure. Ladies and gentlemen, my wife is a second cousin, and is also a Leary. She once resided in the city of Indianapolis, while I was a resident of Centerville, in the same State."

I was a bachelor of thirty, but full of romance and general love. I say general love because I had not made any contract.

"Why don't you take a wife?" was eternally buzzed in my ear. "Whom will I take?" said I. To this query a score of friends would say: "Your relative, Kate Leary."

"Kate Leary! Why she is my cousin!"

"Only a second cousin," they would retort, "and your opposite, Latimar.—Kate is a blonde, and you as dark as Erebus or the ace of clubs."

I had never seen Kate, but this continual association of the young lady with my wedded life had an influence.

One day a member of Congress exclaimed, "Mr. Leary, were I single I should assuredly pay court to your magnificent cousin. As I am married, and you are my best friend, I earnestly hope you will possess that luxury."

At this period I was a merchant.—Having discharged a thieving clerk, I was so confined to my store that a journey to Indianapolis was out of the question. I was growing almost wild to see one whom all praised and so many wished me to wed.

In a few days of the call of my legislative friend, his brother, a noted Judge, appeared at my store. The Judge was also a devoted ally—a position intensified by his recollection of being educated by my deceased father.

Drawing a daguerreotype from his coat, he said: I wish to show you something nice. There what say you to that? I told him it was absolutely enchanting. "Who is it?" I cried, with enthusiasm.

"This, my friend, is Miss Kate Leary, the lady I wish you to marry."

"Tell me," exclaimed I, "is she—is she all they claim for her?"

"My dear friend, honestly, as I value truth, I have not heard her sufficiently praised."

"Why don't some one try his luck?"

"I am glad you ask. Simply because she is overcured, and consequently extremely hard to please. She is romantic, and I clearly see not winnable by ordinary methods."

"You say she is very particular?"

"She is, sir."

"Then good bye for me."

"Not at all; she is rapturous over your likeness, and sends her cousinly love with an invitation to visit her. I pledge you I omitted not a single good trait in your body, calibre or character."

"Do you consider her daguerreotype accurate?"

"I can tell you it don't flatter her. She has extraordinary beauty, and the kind that is more striking in animation or conversation."

While mutual friends in Centerville were lauding my fair cousin, mutual friends in Indianapolis were decided in their eulogies of me and preparing her mind for an alliance.

I am not very self-conceited. Believing such concord must be born of an obvious fact, I settled on the idea of marrying this wonder in beauty, soul and accomplishment.

My intention was quickly confirmed upon hearing that a very wealthy and influential banker from Got am was in the melting mood. I remembered it was midnight. I hinted from my store the last of a batch of chronic loungers, and selected the best stationery in my establishment. I was to write my first letter to Kate.

From all that had passed, a fine style was easy. I always flattered myself on my syntax, and will unegotistically affirm that my missive was at once tender, audacious, dignified, wild and intense. It struck her like an electric shock. The banker was laughed out of competition, and your humble servant was left master of the situation.

Such a reply as I received! Well—you must see it—you shall see it. I have good gas works, but am inadequate. In brief time we learned that each knew the other well. The much raid by many mutuals, superadded to our daguerrotype and letters, made us a comprehending couple. In fact we confessed our love—a full, round, ripe, luscious article. There could be no unsafety in the case. Our lineage was in common and every fact known. What followed is clear—an engagement!—yes, between unseen lovers and cousins.

I was "dying to fold her to my heart," but my solus condition and maturing appointment postponed indefinitely.

What do you say? Why didn't she visit one of her friends in Centreville? I answer you cheerfully. She was an oddity. She had her notions and would entertain them. Though we were plighted, she declared it should not be said she made the first visit. Many believed that she was right.

I don't argue the point, but merely answer the question.

Concluded to-morrow.

—The last Erie railroad accident suggests that a large supply of sharp axes should be carried on every train to extricate passengers from being burned to death in a general wreck.

CALIFORNIA WHEAT.—It is a curious circumstance that every one who has been in the habit of eating the bread made from it cannot with any satisfaction relish bread made from any other kind of wheat. The bread has a peculiar rich golden white hue, is moist in its nature, and with such richness of flavor that it is difficult to persuade those who eat it that sugar has not been used in making up the bread.

The product of the grain is very beautiful. It is as white as arrowroot, while chemical analysis of the farina shows that immediately beneath its hull is a rich deposit of phosphatic matter, in which our own wheat is said to be deteriorating year by year. With a large supply of wheat from California our own wheat lands may perhaps be permitted to rest until by a judicious rotation of crops the fertilizing qualities of virgin soil may in some measure be restored to them.—Cincinnati Commercial.

ME-A-OW.—An unfeline coatemporary thinks that of the two, cats are a greater nuisance than dogs, in a city, and calls for an ordinance against Puss as well as against Towser. We join in the call. In our vicinity the cats seem to be emulative of the Great Boston Noise, and they ought to be punished for having such bad taste in musical matters, if for nothing else. The Jubilee was largely indebted for its Noise to cat gut, we believe, and the cats should be content with that distinction, without getting up jubilees under our windows. Hurry up that ordinance.—N. Y. Atlas.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough, Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS, COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs farther relief by promoting free discharges of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease, will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by the timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple, plain, clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membrane of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining chyme; and at the same time relaxes the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saline with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and joints, and the saline of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the vascular system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, equalizes the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. All fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY.

The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." The fact that they this year renew the order and increase the amount is the best argument we can give that these "LISTS" are good advertising mediums.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

DISTINCTION WITHOUT DIFFERENCE. "The Notorious Mabel Grey" is the term used by the English press for the mistress of the Prince of Wales; and "His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales," the term used for the heir to the British Crown. The "notorious Mabel," and "His Royal Highness" and wife occupied separate boxes at one of the London theatres last week, and the "mistress" and the "Prince" shared the notice of society;" but the scandal of the thing was such afterwards, that the lessee was told that if it occurrs again, no member of the Royal Family will again darken his doors! The question now occurs, who should vacate, the notorious Prince or his victim? Perhaps the English editors will tell us?

SETTING EVERGREENS.—From our own personal experience, we can safely say that the best time for transplanting evergreen trees is between the 15th of May and the 15th of June; for the hardy evergreens, the month of September or October is good, taking care in each case to mulch the ground well, and particularly to see that trees are well packed and roots kept moist and unexposed. If the distance of transportation is quite short, evergreens may be safely transplanted as late as the 15th of June; but if transportation is distant, it is better to place them in the ground a little earlier. Choose a wet moist day for digging, and also for planting.—Deitz's Farm Journal.

BRING 'EM OUT.—We would suggest to the managers of trotting fairs the propriety of opening stakes for young horses, instead of offering all the higher premiums to those that have acquired speed with age. There are a large number of promising three, four, and five year olds that would enter in these stakes, and make such races as would please the public. The breeders and owners of young horses should receive some encouragement; as it is now, nearly all the favors are extended to the old trotters; and, in order to draw out the best grade of youngsters, the stakes should be liberal.—Turf, Field and Farm.

CLOVER is the cheapest and best manure that can be had. Nothing pays better than a field of good clover plowed under. It enriches the soil quicker than barnyard manure, and puts it in better condition. To plow it down well, if it stands thick and high, each morning a roller should be drawn over as much as can be plowed in a day, and a heavy chain should be fastened to the point of the plow beam to drag it into the furrow. In this way it can be completely covered.

Clover contains all the elements needed to enrich the soil for all kinds of grain, and in larger quantities than other manures.

DIED AS THE FOOL DIETH. Joseph Wagner, a young man living at Charlestown, West Va., died a few days ago under singular circumstances. He professed to have the power of charming snakes, and having captured a rattlesnake, he was giving some friends an exhibition of his power. After fondling the snake for a time in his arms, he threw it on the ground and switched it until it writhed with rage. He then took the reptile up in his arms again, and saying, "Are you mad? kiss me and make up," he put his head in his mouth. The snake bit his tongue, and he died in about an hour afterwards. In fifteen minutes after being bitten his skin assumed the spotted color of the snake.

—H. G. Morse, a gentleman well known in Chicago, last week, while playing billiards, took up a "bridge" to assist him in making a shot, which was a successful one; but it was scarcely made when he fell back upon his left knee, then upon his head, and expired in a minute afterward. The other gentlemen of the party were awe-struck at this sudden termination of a man's life under such circumstances, and stood for a few seconds like statues.

—A little girl was reminding her younger brother that the next day was Fast Day. "What is Fast Day?" he inquired. "Why," said the little girl, "it is a day the Governor makes—something like Thanksgiving. We have to keep still, go to church, and not play out of doors. It is like the lower part of Thanksgiving Day."

—A little boy in Danbury, Ct., was recently engaged in throwing stones at an empty tin can, when suddenly it flew into the air with a loud report, and the little boy lost no time in getting out of the neighborhood. It had contained glycerine, and the last stone had struck a portion of that dangerous stuff adhering to the can.

—Thirty ruffians threatened to clean out the Orange Hotel at Turner's Station, on the Erie Railroad, unless white men were substituted for the black servants. The proprietors refused, and now have the hotel well defended.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND: I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [Jel5 5w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

AMERICAN
BUTTON-HOLE, OVERSEAMING,
—AND—
SEWING MACHINE!
H. N. DUNYON, 27 Market Street,
Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity.
The Reasons Why
This is the best Family Machine to Purchase.
1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do—the finest of sewing, hemming, felling, cording, tucking, braiding, binding, gathering, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.
2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand. (Not done on any other Sewing Machine.)
3. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet-hole. (No other machine can.)
4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment. (Not done on any other Machine.)
5. Because it can do "overhand seaming," by which shirts, pillow-cases and the like are sewed "over and over." (No other Machine can do it.)
Caution.
We would hereby warn the Public against alleged boguss advertisements of Button-Hole Attachments, as the AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE is the first and only Button-Hole and Sewing Machine combined in the world.
This Machine is for sale only at our establishment, 27 Market Street, where we cordially invite the Public to Call and Examine for themselves, and be convinced that this is the Best and Cheapest Machine for any family.
N. B.—All Machines are Warranted for one year. Instruction given at the house of purchaser free. Persons buying this Machine never wish to exchange for any other.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1869.

KOOPMANSCHAP is a revolutionist, and will make his mark ere many years have elapsed. He was born in Holland and came to the United States nineteen years ago. He soon discovered that money was to be made by supplying the Pacific coast, where laborers were scarce and received high wages, with coolies. His business has increased largely in the past ten years, and many thousand Chinese laborers have been imported through his agency. Koopmanschap has now large contracts for supplying the Southern States with Chinese laborers, and John Chinaman will, before many years, be an important element in that region,—influential if not potent in the management of affairs.

John is a patient forbearing individual; he toils and lives economically in his own country, for a pittance that an American would starve on. When two more States shall have ratified the 15th Constitutional Amendment John will be a voter, like unto his darker hued brother. His vote will be in demand, his interests will be consulted and his influence sought after. He has built the Pacific Railroad, and will travel over it to his new home in the South.

Koopmanschap will be the gainer. John will be the gainer. The Southern planters will reap the benefits of cheap labor, and John's relatives in China will be tempted to join him, induced by the $1.25 per diem, which he seldom receives at home for a week's work. Who knows what part will be played in United States politics by John and his friends, about the year 1880? The sagacious Burlingame and the indomitable Koopmanschap will be remembered by John, and strange things happen now-a-days. Will "Burlingame and Koopmanschap" be a political rallying cry of John's friends only ten years hence?

Chronicle Items.—The Chicago Tribune has begun the agitation for the removal of the National Capital to the Mississippi Valley. It goes in for St. Louis instead of Washington. It may be done yet.

American Girl has out-trotted Lady Thorne and Mountain Boy; and Goldsmith Maid has beaten American Girl. No very low time, though—2:21 3-4 the quickest.

Helmbold the druggist drives a four-in-hand at Long Branch;—of course it is a buchuful team.

Velocipedes and tandems are forbidden by the West Point authorities.

The Newburyport Herald nominates Secretary Boutwell for the Presidency, and the New York Sun says it is a strong nomination.

New York and Chicago are going to have mammoth musical Peace Jubilees, after the style of Boston. We fear they will be a great way after. Philadelphia also talks of one in 1876; a good idea, but we wonder if they will taboo anvils and guns on the Centennial 4th of July?

REV. J. C. Fletcher, the pleasant and gossipping lecturer and traveller, has failed for his Oporto Consulate. He used to tell a very pretty story of how he won his Swiss wife; but since he became so jealous of her intimacy with a literary young man whom he introduced himself and left for her companion during his long absence, that they have separated,—his tale now is of how he lost her.

HORACE GREELEY has been run away with! The philosopher chose to drive a fiery pair of horses, and, in consequence, succeeded in losing his white hat, smashing the team and getting slightly bruised. It is not true that Horace has been engaged to drive American Girl in her next race with Lady Thorne.

☞ At Washington, July 22, the President's Morgan mare "Addie" died from the effects of some poisonous substances eaten in the pasture. This was the President's favorite animal, was valued at $3000 and could make her mile in 2.30.

☞ John A. Roebling, the well-known New York bridge engineer, died on Thursday of lockjaw, from getting his foot jammed while surveying the ground for the East River bridge.

☞ Another expedition of troops has landed in Cuba from the United States. Soon after disembarking they attacked two regiments of Spanish volunteers and routed them, taking 200 prisoners.

☞ Canterbury Hall, an old Theatre at Washington, was burnt on Friday morning; loss $40,000.

☞ The French Atlantic Cable Vessels arrived at Duxbury, Mass., on Friday at noon.

Mr. Nathl. Stevens, of Durham, died very suddenly of heart disease on Thursday of last week, at Freeman's Oyster Saloon on Franklin Square, Dover. He had eaten an oyster stew, went out doors, shortly returned, said he felt unwell, and dropped dead on the floor. He was aged about 44 years.

Wm. H. Leighton, who is now visiting his daughter in Strafford, is 84 1-2 years old. He walked from Danville, Vt., to Strafford, two weeks ago, a distance of 125 miles. He is hale and hearty. He never rode in a stage or cars in his life, never attended a caravan, circus or lecture, and never got drunk. He was born in Barrington, in a place called "Canaan," where men live to great ages.

On Wednesday afternoon, at Hanover, there was a furious wind, and torrents of rain which wet through the big tent where Judge Barrett was reading a poem, and scattered the auditors and stopped the speaker. When the shower ceased, he finished the poem to what audience remained. There were some big hailstones in the shower.

Recently Mrs. Ruth Hemphill of Henniker, celebrated her one hundreth birth day, and the occasion was observed by hundreds of her neighbors, young and old, and a serenade was given her in the evening which delighted her very much. She has raised a large family of children, all of whom lived to grow up, except one who died at the age of twelve or fourteen years. She has been a widow about fifty years. Her youngest child is now about sixty years of age. She still retains her faculties remarkably; her memory is good; and she converses quite freely, and can rock the cradle and sing the babies of her great-grandchildren to sleep very acceptably.

The covered Bridge (known as "the Blair bridge"), across Pemigewasset river in Campton, was entirely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. Loss about $5000. Incendiary.

Some one entered the house of Rev. Howard Moody of Canterbury, N. H., between Monday noon and Tuesday night, and stole about $50 in greenbacks. It was probably taken Tuesday while Mr. Moody was in the field haying and the other members of the family were absent berrying, leaving the house for a short time alone.

On Monday, the 19th, Dr. Foster waived an examination on the complaint against him in the Laconia poisoning case, and gave bonds in the sum of $2000, for his appearance at the Supreme Judicial Court in September next.

In Troy, on the 7th, as two boys, Gardner Foster and Charlie Hubbard, aged 11 and 12 years, were burning powder, a can held in the hand of one exploded, burning them badly about the face and hands.

THE FREEDMAN'S SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY.—The history of the rise and progress of the Freedman's Saving and Trust Company is somewhat remarkable. It was chartered by Congress in 1865, its charter being among the last bills signed by President Lincoln. Its first branches were established in Beaufort, Norfolk and Washington, in 1865. Most of its first deposits were from colored soldiers. At the end of 1866 it had only $208,073: at the end of 1867 it had reached $398,925; at the end of 1868 it had reached $638,299; in July, 1869, it has $1,250,000. Its deposits are now increasing at the rate of $43,000 per month. It is paying interest, three times per year, at the rate of five per cent. per annum. It loans money only to the United States, therefore its assets are sure.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—On Thursday the house of Joseph Jewett of Hubbardston was struck by lightning, and while no one of the family was injured, the house was badly shattered in many places. There were four persons in the house, all in bed except Mrs. Jewett. Every room but one in the house was more or less injured. In one room an old gentleman in his ninetieth year was in bed and uninjured, but the plastering on one side of the room was nearly all torn away.

BERWICK ACADEMY.—This school is now under charge of Mr. G. F. Clark, a graduate of Bowdoin College, a young man, who unites to sound scholarship much energy of character and aptitude for his profession. Under his management the school has increased in numbers, and was never in a more flourishing condition. The Fall Term commences Aug. 25th.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of PAIN KILLER you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the PAIN KILLER was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours, J. M. JOHNSON.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direction of dirty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until the solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main bolt" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the building up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable compound, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Pills.—RUSH OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—This unpleasant visitation is not confined to persons of a full habit. It is as frequently the result of weakness as of a predisposition to apoplexy. By whatever cause engendered, the best remedy for the complaint is HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. The moment they begin to operate the oppression on the brain is relieved. Their effect is to equalize the circulation, and if taken whenever a paroxysm occurs, the attacks will soon cease altogether. Sold by all Druggists. jy20

THE LATEST DISCOVERY.

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been labouring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obtained. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains the two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous exciant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to a perfect state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the female system is subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal; other pills are advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or drink a dose or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

Prepared by Wm. Ellis, Chemist. For sale in Portsmouth by WILLIAM R. PRESTON; by Weeks & Potter, Wholesale Agents, 170 Washington Street, Boston; and by Druggists and Grocers generally. mh29m6md

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the hair (so that is their well designation,) with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that

CRISTADORO'S DYE IS UTTERLY POISONLESS, and that he knows it to be so, because he has analyzed it.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life confirmed, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

General Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are invaluable.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other means used had failed.

A gentleman, whose family had died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 21, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. jy22

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jel9

A SURE REMEDY.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaint, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. Sold by all Druggists. my13eodsm

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to direction. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure Consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely into the bowels and relieves; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the Seaweed in this Tonic, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to stop the cough, and give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they dammed up the foulest of foul matter, dried up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in one way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In this case what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and since then hundreds of many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He can be seen professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. 19

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED.—When Mr. Somerby, manager of the Trowbridge & Hart Concert, the other day, came into our office and inquired why his advertisement was not in, we replied that we had no order to put it in, but had intended making mention of it, at least, for old acquaintance sake, but in the press of business, omitted that also. But, said he, here is my advance agent's memorandum to pay Chronicle $5 for advertising—how is this?

But we could learn nothing of the affair, until it finally appeared that the agent was careless and foolish enough to leave his order drawn in our favor on his treasurer, and the advertisement and some complimentary tickets, intended for us, with one George S. Leach, and he, we are now told as coming from him, "having a spite against Frank Miller," kept back his trust—unless, indeed, as another report says, he induced the agent to consent to his ignoring the Chronicle; the which, Mr. Somerby said, if he knew, he would discharge him at once.

Now we know not which of these be true, if either—and we can imagine no cause of complaint which Leach has against us, unless it be that he stands debtor on our books, for years, to the tune of $25 or so. But we do hear it reported, since, that we kept him from selling tickets at the Trotting Park on the 5th of July. Now we never heard he was thought of for the position; but his conduct in regard to the other matter, does not look encouraging in this direction, does it?

The advertisement never came to our office, the tickets were used at the Temple door, but the agent's order was not presented for payment. This is a matter of little interest to the public, and we refer to it more for the purpose of saying that this stupid fellow, (like some others, who stop papers to spite editors, and thereby punish only or mainly themselves,) in striving to injure us, really hurt his friends ten times more, by depriving them of their best advertising, which they required and cared for vastly more than we did—and which we only allude to at all, to show the petty meanness of some folks, and to warn agents not to entrust their business to dead-beats and bummers about town. F.

PERSONAL.—Hon. Henry P. Rolfe, U. S. District Attorney, was in this city Friday, attending to important business connected with Government.

Maj. Charles E. Plaisted, Chief Clerk in the Post Office, has been appointed a Justice of the Peace, by Gov. Stearns and Council.

T. B. Aldrich and family, of Boston, are summering at the Sagamore House, Frost's Point. And of course Col. Frost himself and suite would be found at that Point,—which is a good one to sea. The poet sports a matched pair of boys, and the Colonel's children a pair of ponies.

Mr. Jas. K. Medbery, of the New York press and literary bureau, with his wife, a French lady, are rusticating in this city,—visiting his father and his new wife.

MASTERLY MOVEMENT.—Lieutenant-Commander Seely, whose late dashing exploits cause every true heart to swell with pride, on Friday circumnavigated the enemy under Gen. Kent, by spiking his guns and making a gallant retreat to some place, leaving his camp equipage, the place where he had been, and his wounded in hospital, to the victor; he lost everything but honor. It is to be hoped that our Navy may not lose the services of this humane officer of the Pawnee, for he is evidently a man of sterling good sense. 'Tisn't every one has courage to run away when he is troubled.

☞ We regard our publication of Real Estate Conveyances in the County, as very interesting matter,—lor which we are indebted to the courteous attention of Mr. Belknap, the popular Register of Deeds; and in his name we would urge on all concerned, the importance of having all deeds promptly registered, thereby often saving much time and trouble, and consequent disputes or uncertainty about titles.

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF INSTRUCTION will hold its Annual Session in this city, as may be seen by an advertisement in this day's paper, during the second week in August. It will bring together many literary and scientific men, and be an occasion of much interest.

ELSEWHERE, Friday evening—late.—Detective Kent Foiled. To use the definition of Worcester, he has been frustrated, balked, baffled, but not defeated yet. Time will tell! Distance lends enchantment to the view!

☞ Fremont is in Paris.

A NEEDLESS ANNOYANCE to hundreds of people residing in the vicinity of the Kearsarge Mills, is the eternal whang-banging of the bell with which the Corporation summons its operatives to labor, and manifests its supreme disregard of the peace and comfort of other and inferior personages. This nuisance, publicly complained of before, is what I have called it, a needless annoyance. If any person within the sound of a bell cannot hear it when rung for five minutes, such person will not hear it though it be battered at for fifteen. Granting that the bell must be rung as often as it now is, there is no use in keeping up such an outrageous clangor all the time. Fifty strokes would warn all concerned in knowing it, that any particular moment had arrived; but the factory authorities have their old noise-machine pounded, mornings, till weary souls who wish for another hour's nap sit up in bed, and vainly wish the whole concern was in—China. Six hundred strokes I counted on Friday morning, between quarter past and half past six, and the ringing kept on after I got tired.

Perhaps this clanging is kept up to show that the Directors regard not mankind, save themselves; perhaps they think it will be sweet music to them after they depart from this scene of trial,—but it won't. The tone of the bell will never reach the place to which people go who wantonly trespass on the rights of others; sound does not descend.

I believe an ordinance exists to regulate and restrict the tolling of bells for the dead; then why should the factory bell be allowed full swing to torture to death the living? Such a hideous and continued din is enough to make a man do anything,—commit suicide, steal a shirt, (the fellow who stole mine lately had doubtless been made insane by the noise, and consequently I forgive him,) or even vote the Democratic ticket.

Gentlemen,—you who can control the uselessly continual racket of that old brass kettle, will you be good enough to have one spark of consideration for those who don't own stock in the Kearsarge Mill? PAKEHA.

ARRIVAL.—The steamer Rattlesnake, with coal for the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad, has arrived at their wharf. She is an iron propeller, and has machinery to discharge her cargo. She left Philadelphia on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, and arrived at the wharf at three o'clock P. M. on Friday—a good passage.

MAIL ROUTE.—Mr. Isaiah Farwell, our former mail-carrier, commenced carrying the mail the first day of July from Cape Neddick, York and Kittery Depot, to Portsmouth, and back every day. Mr. F. resides at Ogunquit, Wells, four miles east of Cape Neddick, where he starts from at 6 o'clock A. M., without the mail, but takes it at the Cape. The people at Ogunquit, Cape Neddick and York would be much better accommodated to have the mail route extended from Cape Neddick to Ogunquit, which would give us a direct communication route instead of a circuitous one of some forty-two miles, half by stage and the other by rail.

The distance is only four miles, and we could get a return answer the next day, whereas, as the mail is now carried, it requires two or three days. The route should be extended from Cape Neddick to Ogunquit at once, and the increased mail facilities would net a corresponding revenue to the Post Office Department. The people interested should at once call the attention of the Post Master General to this subject. G. M. F. in Biddeford Democrat.

MARRIED BY TELEGRAPH.

Concluded.

Weeks passed, letters were numerous and copiously saccharine. The time arrived when I could endure my single condition no longer. What if some one were to cut me out at the eleventh hour? —With such love, what would become of me?

An idea dawned—a brilliant one. I was determined to compel a speedy marriage, and satisfy her thirst for romance. After a flood of tenderness, by way of dramatic preparation, I wrote: —"my adored one, let us depart from this state routine, and wed by telegraph."

The idea took her by storm. Her answer was characteristic. It ran thus—"Darling, I will. The idea is savory, but is it legal?"

Immediately, I sent for my old friend, the judge. As soon as he faced me, said I, "Judge, is a marriage by telegraph legal?"

"Certainly, sir; I see no objection to a contract by telegraph. I readily perceive how all requirements can be accomplished."

"Will you state this opinion on paper, and prescribe a formula for an electric wedding?"

"With pleasure, sir."

The judge understood me and gladly complied. The result I forwarded to Kate by return mail, and soon received word that on the following Thursday she and proper authority would present themselves at the Indianapolis office according to said formular, there to enter upon the holy estate of matrimony.

I tell you the appointed day was a great one among the mutual friends at each end of the wire. The affair was so novel, that all else was eclipsed by the contemplation of it.

Clergymen and witnesses assembled at the termini. There, in full costume, two unseen lovers were to be made man and wife. The instrument began its ticking. The operater read, the clergyman put questions. I answered, the instrument did more work, and soon I was saluted as the husband of Kate Leary. Happy was I, though possessor of a lady I had never beheld.

One week passed, and I was still without help. My brain was becoming frenzied. I must see Kate, and I must go to her first, for it was her fiat, and well did I know what a Leary was.

By entreaty I prevailed upon a brother merchant to loan his best clerk. As soon as he put his foot in the store I put mine in the stage, en route for the capital of Indiana. When about 12 miles from the city we stopped for a passenger. It was a young lady. Such a being I never beheld. She resembled my likeness of Kate, but was far more beautiful. I own my heart went out to her. Call me fickle; say what you please, and I will bear it; I repeat, my heart gushed forth a flood of love.

Here was a fix! I a married man, going to see his telegraph bride, and as telegraphically in love with another woman. I began to repent my haste, and when too late, saw the crime of marrying one I had never put my eyes upon. What would I do? The lady was also married, for I heard the driver call her madam.

How she eyed me! I spoke about the coach window being raised to suit her. She thanked me in tones that acted like an arterial stimulant. I was gone.—Much conversation followed, and I was a goner. I saw she was giving me sweet yet pleading looks. Heavens! thought I, she is unhappily mated. Suppose I give her my sympathy. Yet, should I jeopardise myself before such transcendant charms? Suppose I betray my love, how should I feel in the presence of my wife, and what power would I confer on a total stranger? I had it. I would betray nothing, but offer consolation to a flower most surely neglected. We were the only passengers, and what a good chance!

"Madam," said I, "please pardon me but you seem to exist under a cloud."

She sighed deeply.

"May I ask if you are a widow?"

"Well, sir, not a widow; though I don't live with my husband."

"Poor soul," continued I.

She put her handkerchief to her mouth, I thought about half of it went in; but of course it was to stop her emotion.

"You are not happy, madam?"

"Very far from it, sir. I am miserable!"

So was I, miserable to put my arms about her neck.

"Where do you reside, madam?"

"In Indianapolis."

"Have you friends there?"

"Many sir."

"No doubt of it. Allow me to ask, do you love this husband?"

"Devotedly, sir."

"Then you live with him?"

"Would be glad of the chance, sir."

Here she again swallowed her handkerchief.

"Never seen him? Why, what do you mean?"

"Sir, have you not read of a telegraphic wedding?"

"Julius Cæsar!" cried I. "Tell me, are you Mrs. Kate Leary?"

"I am."

"Then come to me!" And I took her to my bosom convulsively.

As I relaxed, said she, "Go on, Latimer. I knew you from your daguerreotype."

I will not prolong this, but merely remark that Kate is next to the Great One Above. I have never felt ashamed of my inconstancy, and would not lose her for the wealth of Orient. I ever consider us bound together by wire; and when asked if married, I always feel like saying—very.

MULCHING FRUIT TREES.—We believe in mulching as much as we believe in good cultivation, for it is a part; but there is a time for benefit to be derived in the greatest degree from both. Light, heat, air, and moisture, are essential to the growth of roots below ground as they are to that of leaf and twig above; but if the mulch is put upon the ground early in the Spring, the direct action of these elements is lost, growth is retarded until heat has approached from a side connection, and then it is continued often late in the season, resulting in an immature, unripe condition of the plant.

We have found our best results to come from stirring the soil frequently until the summer heat, then apply our mulch, removing it again in October, and again apply, as soon as the ground is well frozen.

By this course we give our roots, in the spring, the benefits of the elements they need to make perfect growth; we keep the powerful rays of midsummer sun away, and thus give them a longer time to fully mature wood and root; we give them in autumn the addition of the atmosphere to enable them to gradually harden the root and branch and fit it for the extreme cold of winter; and in winter after having frozen them to sleep, we cover them so that they may not be awakened from week to week, but continue their nap until such time as, by their natural order, they should again pursue their appointed course.—Horticulturist.

—Recently a rector of a parish in Toledo, Ohio, in catechising his Sunday school, asked: "Where did the wise men come from?" Without a moment's hesitation the answer came from a little five-year old; "From Boston!" The father and mother of the little catechumen are natives of the Bay State.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of its gastic juice, that solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic so-dorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting prespiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of lactic acid in the blood, which coagulates the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the venous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the glossy freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

The Chronicle.

How He Came to be Married.

It may be funny, but I've done it. I've got a rib and a baby. Shadows departed—oyster stews, brandy cocktails, cigar-boxes, boot-jacks, absconding shirt-buttons, whist and demijohn. Shadows present — hoopskirts, bandboxes, ribbons, garters, long stockings, juvenile dresses, tin trumpets, little willow chairs, cradles, bibs, sugar teats, paregoric, hive syrup, rhubarb, senna, salts, squills, and doctor's bills. I'll just tell you how I got caught. I was always the darndest, most tea-custard bashful fellows you ever did see. It was kinder in my line to be taken with the shakes every time I saw a pretty girl approaching me, and I'd cross the street any time rather than face one; 'twasn't because I didn't like the critters, for when I was behind the fence looking through a knot-hole, I could not look long enough.

Well, my sister Lib gave a party one night, and I started away from home because I was too bashful to face the music. I hung around the house whistling "Old Dan Tucker," dancing to keep my feet warm, watching the heads bobbing up and down behind the window curtains, and wishing the thundering party would break up, so I could get to my room. I smoked up a bunch of cigars, and as it was getting late and mighty uncomfortable, I concluded to shin up the door post. No sooner said than done, and I soon found myself snug in bed.

"Now," says I, "let her rip! Dance till your wind gives out." And cuddling down under the quilts, Morpheus grabbed me.

I was dreaming of soft-shell crabs and stewed tripe, and having a good time, when somebody knocked at the door and woke me up. "Rap" again. I laid low. "Rap, rap, rap!" Then I heard whispering and I knew there was a whole raft of gals outside. Then Lib sings out:

"Jack, are you there?"

"Yes," says I.

Then came a roar of laughter.

"Let us in," said she.

"I won't," said I; "can't you let a fellow alone?"

"Are you abed?" says she.

"I am," says I.

"Get out," says she.

"I won't," says I.

Then came another laugh.

By thunder! I began to get riled.

"Get out, you peticoated scarecrows," cried I. Can't you get a beau without hauling a fellow out of bed? I won't go home with you—I won't, so you may clear out!"

And throwing a boot at the door, I felt better. But presently I heard a still, small voice, very much like sister Lib's, and it said:

"Jack, you'll have to get up, for all the girl's things are there."

Oh, mercy! what a pickle! Think of me, in bed, all covered with muffs, shawls, bonnets and cloaks, and twenty girls outside the door waiting to get in! If I had stopped to think I should have pancaked on the spot. As it was, I rolled out among the bonnet ware and ribbons in a hurry. Smash went the millinery in every direction. I had to dress in the dark—for there was a crack in the door, and the girls will peep—and the way I fumbled about was death on straw hats. The critical moment came. I opened the door and found myself right among the women.

"Oh, my leghorn!" cried one. "My dear, darling winter velvet!" cried another, and they pitched in—they pulled me this way and that, boxed my ears, and one bright eyed little piece—Sal her name was—put her arms right around my neck, and kissed me on my lips. Human nature couldn't stand that, and I gave her as good as she sent. It was the first time I ever got the taste, and it was powerful good. I believe I could have kissed the gal from Julius Cæsar to the Fourth of July.

"Jack," said she, we are sorry to disturb you, but won't you see me home?

"Yes, I will," said I.

I did do it, and had another smack at the gate.

After that we took a kinder turtle dove after each other, both of us sighing like a barrel of new cider when we were away from each other.

We were married.

COUNTRY SEATS.—The most expensive luxury indulged by the city people says the New York Commercial, is playing "gentlemen farmers." Never before were so many rural homes for sale as during this spring and summer. The papers have been filled with "desirable country seats" for sale. It is a little remarkable how short a stay some folks make "under the greenwood trees." Not one in a hundred of the beautiful retreats on the Hudson remain in the hands of the original owners, and most of them have been sold half a dozen times. Only a family with an income of $40,000 or $50,000 can keep a house in the country.

—Human life is worth but little more in Texas, now, than it was before the war. The other day a man in Basque, in that State, whose son had been shot by pure accident by another man, went to church where the latter was engaged in worship, and shot both him and his little girl besides.

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBER DODD'S NERVINE. I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [je15 3w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

AMERICAN
BUTTON-HOLE, OVERSEAMING,
—AND—
SEWING MACHINE!
H. N. DUNYON, 27 Market Street,
Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity.
The Reasons Why
This is the best Family Machine to Purchase.
1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do—the finest of sewing, hemming, felling, cording, tucking, braiding, binding, gathering, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.
2. Because it can work a beautiful button-hole, making a fine pearl, as by hand. (Not done on any other Sewing Machine.)
3. Because it will work a beautiful eyelet-hole. (No other machine can.)
4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment. (Not done on any other Machine.)
5. Because it can do "overhand seaming," by which shirts, pillow-cases and the like are sewed "over and over." (No other Machine can do it.)
Caution.
We would hereby warn the Public against all bogus advertisements of Button-Hole Attachments, as the AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE is the first and only Button-Hole and Sewing Machine combined in the world.
This Machine is for sale only at our establishment, 27 Market Street, where we cordially invite the Public to Call and Examine for themselves, and be convinced that this is the Best and Cheapest Machine for any family.
N. B.—All Machines are Warranted for one year. Instruction given at the house of purchaser free. Persons ordering this Machine never wish to exchange for any other.

MONDAY, JULY 26, 1869.

CUBA.—Letters from Cuba state that the Spanish Generals Puello and Lesca admit that troops, now being decimated by fever, cannot maintain themselves against the climate, one of them going so far as to say that even with a reinforcement of 15,000 men, little could be done. The organ of the Spanish volunteers is urging that they be sent to the field, and that untenable positions be evacuated. What is meant by untenable positions is illustrated by Gen. Puello, who believes it best to evacuate all the ports the Spanish forces hold, leaving the navy to take care of them.

Advices from leaders in the Cuban army to the 15th, state that on the 13th and 14th the troops of Gen. Quesda, stationed between Puerto Principe and Nuevitas, were attacked by Gen. Letons, and in both instances were repulsed, on the first day with the loss of fifty killed and wounded, and on the second with over one hundred. The Cubans retain their position of the siege, before Puerto Principe.

The troops under Gen. Fogeurro, of Gen. Jordan's command, forty miles from St. Jago de Cuba, were attacked on the 12th by a Spanish force of 1200, said to be commanded by Gen. Valmaseda. After three hours' fighting the Spaniards were compelled to give up the attack. Next day, having been reinforced, the Spanish General renewed the attack with great vigor. Three assaults were made on the Cuban position, and in each the Spaniards were repulsed. In the last attack their loss was so great that they were compelled to precipitately retreat. Gen. Jordan participated in the second day's fight. The loss of the Cubans is set down at 62 killed and wounded. Among the killed were two officers. The Spanish loss is reported to have been over 300. They made good their retreat to St. Jago. The Cubans are in good spirits, and affected but little by the cholera and vomito, so prevalent among the Spanish troops.

OUR NATIONAL CREDIT is on a basis too firm to be shaken by anything short of stupendous folly in Congress or by the people.—This fact is shown very plainly by an article prepared by Mr. Edward Atkinson, and published in the Boston Journal.

We all remember the desperate attempts which were made during the last Presidential campaign to prove that the nation was on the broad road to financial ruin, when Mr. Delmar's statistical bureau was invoked to show that the receipts for the fiscal year which has now just ended would be a hundred and fifty millions of dollars less than the expenditures.

A portion of the Democratic press and speakers paraded these figures with the greatest diligence, and all who took stock in Mr. Delmar's lugubrious figures are now respectfully referred to the fact that the excess of the national revenue over all expenditures for the year ending July 1, 1869, will be fully $50,000,000, a difference of just $200,000,000 in favor of the nation over the Delmar estimates.

We enter on the present fiscal year under more favorable circumstances than the last, and there is little doubt that our surplus revenue for this year will amount to twice that of the last year. We note in this connection the exactness with which the estimates which have been made by Hon. David A. Wells, Special Commissioner of the Revenue, in his recent reports, have been verified.

SEIZURE OF A LARGE DISTILLERY.—Information has been received at the Internal Revenue Bureau, of the seizure of one of the largest distilleries in the city of New York. The amount the Government has been defrauded of is not known, but from the present evidence it must be exceedingly large. Detectives were notified to watch the premises, and commenced their labors on the 17th of June, and continued until the 11th of July. During this time as has since been ascertained, thirty-three thousand bushels of rye were received that were not accounted for by the proprietors. The amount of the tax thus evaded is upwaod of $60,000. There is suspicion that some one has been derelict in duty, and investigations are being made in other quarters.

From the Journal.

HON. JOHN P. HALE.—Gen. Sickles, the successor of Mr. Hale as Minister to Spain, has sailed for his destination, and Mr. Hale, being relieved, it is understood will spend some months in travelling in Europe before his return to this country. He will receive when he does come, a cordial welcome from his old friends who have not for a moment credited the many charges which have been preferred against him by his Secretary of Legation, Perry, who has proved himself an adept in falsehood and calumny, if in nothing else.—Mr. Hale, having shown that his confidence in Perry had been grossly abused, and that the latter was the agent through whom all his business in relation to which he had been charged with attempting to act illegally, had been transacted. Perry has sought to break the force of this damaging disclosure in another long letter to the New York Tribune, in which, while substantially admitting the charge, he endeavors to shield himself under the plea that it was his official duty to do so. His notions of official duty must be rather loose, to say the least, if they consist in entrapping his superior, ignorant of the Spanish language and unfamiliar with the laws and usages of the country, into signing an order which would lead the Minister into any seeming irregularity in a matter so trivial as the importation of a few goods for the furnishing of his house—which in a pecuniary point could amount to nothing either to the Spanish Government or to the Minister, but which at the same time was calculated to subject the latter to much undeserved scandal and reproach. Mr. Perry has been continued in office so many years by successive administrations that he has come to regard the Spanish Embassy as his own property, and the successive Ministers who have been sent there have found the position so uncomfortable that they have been glad to resign after a few months' service, leaving the office and its emoluments to him. Mr. Hale has had the resolution to defy and expose his machinations, and if his mission had resulted in nothing else, he would deserve the thanks of the country for ridding its diplomatic service of one so unworthy to represent it in any capacity.

☞ Frank W. Ballard, the secretary of the Security Fire Insurance Company of New York, who appropriated $63,000 of the company's funds, has long been a prominent member of the Young men's Christian Association, was a delegate to the recent Portland convention, and was always engaged in religious enterprises. He was at one time the insurance editor of an evening paper, and has written much for magazines and papers. He will not be prosecuted. The deficit reduces the surplus of the company to $845,808, instead of $909,303, as published July 1st. Mr. Ballard was for years a correspondent of the Boston Post.

☞ The notable fact about the passengers brought from Brazil by Rear-Admiral Davis is that only one-fourth of them were men, about the same number being children, and the other half being women. —Some time ago a family named Davis, from Vermont, settled in Michigan, back of Grand Rapids. The father subsequently died, and the mother and five children started to return to their former home. —It is supposed that the fire in the Yellow Jacket and Crown Point Mines, in Virginia City, Nevada, which proved fatal to so many of the miners last fall, has never been entirely extinguished, and great volumes of smoke and gas filled the 900 feet level in the Yellow Jacket Mine, last week, and necessitated the closing of all the avenues.

—Some barges navigating the Rideau Canal, in Canada, broke from their fastenings during a storm, and were carried along with such force as to break through six gates, damaging the canal to such a degree that two weeks will be necessary to complete the repairs. Two lives were lost.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and of native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours, J. M. JOHNSON.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every dirdiction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "manic hole" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by a painful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the building up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Pills.—RUSH OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—This unpleasant visitation is not confined to persons of a full habit. It is as frequently the result of weakness as of a plethoric condition or apoplexy. By whatever cause engendered, the best remedy for the complaint is HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. The moment they begin to operate the oppression on the brain is relieved. Their effect is to equalize the circulation, and if taken whenever a paroxysm occurs, the attacks will soon cease altogether. Sold by all Druggists. jy20

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish mercury from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than One thousand Physicians and Druggists were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its alterative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitly more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the lungs), and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale.

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

Prepared by Wm. Ellis, Chemist. For sale in Portsmouth by WILLIAM R. PRESTON; by Weeks & Potter, Wholesale Agents, 170 Washington Street, Boston; and by Druggists and Grocers generally. mh26eóm

GRANT & PROSPERITY.

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the head (for that is their proper designation), with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that

CRISTADORO'S DYE IS UTTERLY POISONLESS, and that he knows it to be so, because he has analyzed it.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life continued, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

Dr. Lopez Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are unrivalled.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other means used had failed.

A gentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, then aged 21, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man.

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskillful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where cholera and bowel disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jy19

A SURE REMEDY.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for those stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 84 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it out, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the duct of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a healthy appetite; the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 228 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 33 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Monday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. ditjla4

COALING.—About the busiest place in this city, is the Concord Railroad Wharf, at North End, where are usually to be seen quite a little fleet of coasting vessels, unloading their cargoes of coal, hard pine timber, brick, &c., to go into the interior. The facilities for the business are good—the cars run down on the wharf, and a stationery steam engine does most of the work of stevedores and lumpers.

We have already reported the arrival of the iron steamer Rattlesnake, from Philadelphia, with 600 tons of coal, for the Manchester Print Works. She had a very short passage, only 60 hours from port to port; and the Pennsylvania people think the construction of vessels like her, screw-colliers, will mark an epoch in the Coal-trade for New England. It is now about 18 months since Mr. Crane of Philadelphia, the projector of this plan, commenced to actively carry out the idea, that in a great measure the uncertainties and risks of shipment of coal by sailing vessels to the consumers in distant markets, would be obviated by the introduction of iron steamers, built especially for the service; and finally he was rewarded by securing, through Philadelphia influences, a sufficient guaranteed subscription to enable him to order the construction of his experimental vessels. The coal trade in Philadelphia, and the management of the Reading Railroad Company, have warmly seconded his endeavors.

The work of building the vessels was intrusted to Messrs. Reaney, Son & Co., of Chester, Pa. Their ability to properly fulfil the task assigned them is fairly demonstrated by the workmanship and general excellence of the Rattlesnake. The other boats to be built are to be of the same general construction, but will of course be subject to such modifications as may be found necessary after the actual trial of their coal-carrying qualities has been made. The Rattlesnake, as the pioneer in the enterprise, has excited very general interest. Every one seems to feel a practical interest in all relating to the ship and her capacities, and we hear but one opinion concerning the merits of the vessel and the sagacity which induced her construction.

She has a carrying capacity of six hundred tons, which can be unloaded or loaded, by means of a peculiarly excellent hoisting apparatus, in an incredibly short space of time. Her coal-bunkers, of which there are three, are iall forward, and clear of any chance of nterference in shipping, as they are entirely away from the machinery, galley, pilot-house, &c. Her hull is of iron, and is really an admirable model. Her length is 160 feet, and her breadth 28 feet 10 1-2 inches, which will enable her to pass all the Boston bridges.

She has but one engine, of a peculiar pattern, adapted for the work it has to do, having a diameter of 34 inches and a stroke of 28 inches. When fully laden it is estimated that the screw, which is of 9 feet diameter, will average about 80 revolutions per minute. Her estimated speed is about 9 knots. Altogether we can see no reason why this vessel, and those that are to follow her in rapid succession, cannot do all that is claimed for them. Certainly Mr. Crane should feel pleased at what is now a certain prospect of an entire realization of his anticipations.

☞ The horse-leach bummer and ticket-stealer denies our soft impeachment. Of course he would—but how is it about that shawl he took out from a dry goods store in this city where he was unknown, months ago, for "his wife" to look at?

And as to the bummer's organ publishing Cards (which we hear of but never see) from such fellows, abusing decent people,—we advise them to keep it up, so as to call out mention of the man who moved his furniture out of town in the night on a wheelbarrow, to keep it from attachment. What a precious set.

THE TIDE OF SUMMER TRAVEL has fully set in. The Messrs. Laighton at the Shoals are gladdened by the coming hosts, whom they provide for bountifully. The beach houses are fast filling up, and the Sagamore is getting a full share share.

☞ Isn't the Street Sprinkler a good institution? Market Street merchants are not obliged to answer this conundrum.

☞ A Good Place to hire teams at reasonable rates—at the Stone Stable, off Congress Street. See adv.

☞ Much interest is felt in the double Match Trots for next Wednesday, at the Rockingham Park. Somebody must beat, and somebody also get beaten, to be sure; but, in this case, like a lawsuit, all concerned think their side will win, or ought to, at any rate—hence the fun—in the horse-race, we mean; lawsuits are not so funny, unless you win.

☞ The champion fishermen at the Shoals have the freedom of the city. They report a 60 pounder as their latest prize. This is as seen through New Hampshire glasses—in default of the empty ones which grace Massachusetts bars perhaps.

☞ Some people around town are inquiring why the Cornet Band plays not any more. Squibbs thinks it must be because it requires too much exertion.

☞ Joseph M. Edmonds, Esq., has been recommissioned as Deputy Collector at this port.

DETECTIVE KENT, the ubiquitous, is after Lt. Com. Seely.

PROPOSALS FOR BUILDING GOVERNMENT STEAMERS.—A Board of Examiners, convened by the Secretary of the Treasury, has been engaged in examining bids offered for the construction of one first class propeller, one second class large side-wheel steamer, and two third class side-wheel steamers, for the revenue service. The New England bidders were as follows:

George W. Lawrence, Portland, Me., propeller, $126,000; Toby & Littlefield, Portsmouth, N. H., propeller, $139,700; second class, $129,350; third class, $95,300 each; P. E. Dolliver, Boston, propeller, $106,500; John A. McPhail, Boston, second class, $85,00; John J. Curtis, Boston, Propeller, $135,00; second class, $115,00; third class $80,00 for one or $158,000 for both; Hall & McPherson, East Boston, propeller, $132,4000; second class, $117,900; both of third class, $174,800.

There were nineteen bids in all, the lowest for the four vessels ($266,000) exceeding by $34,000 the sum appropriated by Congress for the construction of the vessels. The Board of Examiners will recommend to the Secretary of the Treasury a modification of the plans in order to bring the expense within the appropriation, and until this is acted upon there can be no award made on the bids received.

From the Journal.

MEMORIAL OF FREEMAN LAMPREY.—The employees of the Eastern Railroad have contributed a tablet for the grave of their fellow employee Mr. Freeman Lamprey who was lately killed at South Berwick. It has been constructed at Treat's Stone yard in this city at an expense of $140, which includes six granite posts for the lot in which it is to be set. The stone bears the following inscription:

Freeman Lamprey, Died May 12th 1869, aged 28 years, 5 months.

None knew him but to love him,
Nothing but Christ can save me.
Just as God leads me I would go;
I would not ask to choose my way.

Watch, therefore, for ye know not at what hour your Lord doth come.

The grass withereth, the flower fadeth but the word of our God shall stand orever.

Mr. Treat is also constructing two marbl monuments and one granite, for the same cemetery.

☞ A Mr. Wade Bolton, who was shot some days ago by Dr. Dickens, died at Memphis, Tenn., on Friday.—The day before he died he made a will, bequeathing $100,000 for charitable purposes, including $10,000 to Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, and ten acres of land to each of his former slaves.

☞ The officer in charge of the Richmond (Va.) revenue district has reported to the Internal Revenue Bureau the seizure of rectifying establishments, valued at $10,000, for violation of the revenue laws.

THE HARVARDS won the Freshmen and University races at Worcester on Friday; the latter in 18 min. 2 secs. beating the Yales nine seconds in three miles.

☞ The latest accounts from Cuba, speak of a great conspiracy, recently discovered there, among the Spaniards, in the interest of the ex-queen.

☞ The amount of fractional currency of the fourth issue of the denominations of ten and fifteen cents already issued is $120,000.

☞ The Parliamentary crisis in England is over. A compromise was effected.

THE ROSE, THE CLOUD, AND THE ORIOLE.
A FABLE WITHOUT A MORAL.

Rose of Damascus—rose of all—
Queen of the roses of the world!
The only flower that ere his fall
Adam thought fit to pluck for Eve,
As once she lay in slumber curled,
And he, though half afraid to speak,
Said, "Lovely being, by your leave,
Your husband gives you this;"
Then laid a rose upon her cheek—
A damask rose, and kiss.

The rose before was not so red;
But Eve awoke. And such a blush,
With her smile mingling, overspread
Her face, that instantly the flower
Felt through its veins new coloring rush,
Till every petal showed the stain!
And so, in midsummer's best hour,
Upon Lily's most radiant morn,
The queen of all the rosy train,
The damask rose, was born!

When Eve awoke, and hand in hand
They walked to where the strawberries grew,
An oriole from an elm that fanned
These earliest lovers, on the rose
Lighted; and straight as caught its hue:
His white and red to orange turned,
Then the sly bird his moment chose,
And snatched it from her hand, and fled
Far as an opal cloud that burned
In the bright blue o'erhead!

Now when thou watchest in the west
The dying colors of the day,
Think of the damask rose that prest
Her cheek whom we our Lady call,
As dreaming in her bower, she lay;
Remember, too, the oriole's theft,
First theft that was—ere Adam's fall—
And in the crimson clouds behold,
Unless thy heart all Faith have left,
His orange and his gold.

T. W. PARSONS, in August Galaxy.

ON A FEW GOOD BOOKS.

BY REV. L. F. BOLTON, SO. MALDEN, MASS.

Dear Gazette:—I am a little surprised to see how books accumulate when I have been busy a while. It is now Saturday afternoon of the Coliseum week, in which I did not find F. W. M. in that Press-room, though I am sure you were there, if alive and well. And I mean at the close of this to tell you what I think of it. Would at the outset, but that having just laid down a solid octavo to take up my pen, I did the un-author-like trick of writing the title of my letter first. That book was CONYBEARE AND HOWSON'S LIFE AND EPISTLES OF ST. PAUL.—When, some twenty years ago, I saw this, a book of great cost, on the parlor table of a New York city pastor, a magnificent gift from a few of his rich parishioners, I little thought to see it put within the means of under paid clergymen of country parishes. The way was this: after all these years it came into the heads of a bookmaking firm whose agents infest all New England, to abridge the work and re-issue it. Another firm caught at the idea, and another abridgement was started. Each waxed wroth with the other, exposed the defects of each other's work, and made the hills of New England re-echo with the names of Conybeare and Howson. Now steps in Scribner & Co. with an unabridged edition, a cheap one but practically good enough, except the maps. Somehow I do not think Scribner's map engraver is the best, and years ago it had occurred to these English ministers to re-produce this bit of antiquity. Conybeare read it up and Howson travelled it over. The latter knew better the face of the country than probably did Paul and Luke both; had the former got equally in advance of the author of the Epistles, we should have had a fine work indeed. If he did not, it was not because he was less brilliant than his coadjutor. He has made an entirely new translation of all Paul's Epistles, including the Epistle to the Hebrews. Of the character of the translation I am not now to speak. It is carefully done, but men will judge of it according to the theology they have been bred to or have revolted to. I would not hint that there is no objective truth beneath our subjective views; for, if you and I differ on any point, one of us is in error. Error is sometimes innocent, and sometimes not. Some error may be harmless; some is fatal. But I know of no such thorough reproduction of ancient scenes in our day as these thousand-and odd pages. Happy he that has time to study it. I have not.

Two books on Heaven comfort us,—one by a Washington clerk, the other by a a charming lady. The older book is said to be the parent of the younger. The Gates Wide Open, was once the Future Life, or Scenes in Another World, by George Wood, author of Peter Schlemihl in America, which I am very sorry not to have read. Derby & Jackson, who published Future Life in 1849, failed the next year. Lee & Shepard now have taken it up, and will make a good thing out of it. It is a good thing to think more of Heaven than we do, but I suspect that if a chicken in the egg had the mental power of Descartes it could not come to very correct conclusions about what lay just outside the shell. I hardly think the joy that it "hath not entered into the heart of man to conceive" can be well shadowed forth in this way. But the practical Mr. Wood has an eye to the utility of his studies in the life that now is. Various things in which this world might have been managed better are suggested in it. He has read Pollock and admires him. So do I, though I am half ashamed to own it.

The Gates Ajar, if the daughter of the preceding, is as different as the blacksmith's daughter who smites hearts is from her papa who smites iron. It is as fascinating as the other is prosaic. I have not room here to quote, but I do not think there is a sentence in either that could be thought for an instant to have belonged to the other. The book itself shows something of that transfiguration of Mr. Wood's that I imagine that our glorious bodies in that World will be of what we are here. The book is likely to tell on the generation to come. For good?

New Hampshire Items.

At Pittsfield, on the 14th, Patrick Hannan, a workman on the railroad, was seriously injured by an accidental blow from a pick. He was hit on the hip, the pick penetrating to the bone.

On the afternoon of the 13th, Edward Sweanor, of Great Falls, a brakeman on the Boston and Albany Railroad, was killed by a fall from a freight car between Boston and Framingham. He was crushed in a terrible manner, both legs being cut off and his head severely jammed.

About a week ago, as Mr. George Cilley, of Groton, was felling a tree, he threw his axe some distance from him and started to run, thinking the tree was going to strike him. His foot slipped in running, and he fell, hitting his hand against the blade of the axe and severely cutting it.

Lucius C. Andrews, who was instantly killed on the 21st inst., by the falling of the arch of a new Catholic church in Hudson city, N. J., was a son of J. F. Andrews, of Nashua.

DRAINAGE.—A great objection to stone drains is the fact that they require three times as much labor to construct them as to make them of tiles. A four inch tile drain will carry off as much water as a two feet square drain made of loose stone. The drains should be laid with a gradual descent of two inches to every twenty feet. There are thousands of acres of land utterly useless, which might be made the most valuable by judicious draining, and much cultivated land could be greatly improved by it. Farming will never be brought to a high standard in this country until draining becomes general. Deitz's Farm Journal.

SETTING OUT CABBAGE.—A good manure for cabbage plants is made by filling an ash hopper with equal parts of hen manure and cow manure, and pouring water over it. Then mix the leach water with muck, making it the consistency of thick paste, and put it into the holes prepared for the plants. Plant your cabbage plants in this substance, and they will grow from the start, and not wither. Beets and Celery can be set out in the same way. The tops of beet and celery plants should be shortened one-half, at planting.—Deitz's Farm Journal.

—"Mammy!" said a precocious little boy, who against his will, was made to rock the cradle of his baby brother, "If the Lord has any more babies to give away, don't you take 'em."

—The science of velocipede riding is mostly comprised in a few words: You straddle, paddle, and then skedaddle.

—A crusty old bachelor says he thinks it is woman, and not her wrongs, that ought to be redressed.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough, Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS, COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease, will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF

REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY

is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE

it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining nutriment; and also because it relaxes the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY

is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE

it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saline with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY

is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE

rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the saline of the Seltzer Aperient, when absorbed into the serious system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY

is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE

it opens the pores, equalizes the temperature of the body; calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. No fever drinks it in the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

The Chronicle.

FORTUNATE BUT UNWISE.—A few years ago, a young man named Kornissarven saved the life of the Emperor Alexander of Russia by knocking up the arm of an assassin just as he was about to direct a pistol against the Emperor. The man who was fortunate enough to render this service to His Majesty was a working hatter, about thirty-five years of ago. From this time honors continued to rain upon him. For this plebeian name was substituted a noble one—that of Kostumski. He received an entailed estate, with all its privileges, was made Colonel of a regiment of the Imperial Guards, and a national subscription was opened for him, which produced nearly two millions of roubles. This favorite of fortune, however, could not stand the intoxication of his good luck, and he sought to counterbalance its giddy effect by another species of inebriety. A hopeless sot, he became an intolerable burden to himself and others, and finally, in one on his desperate fits of drunkenness, hung himself.

ECCLESIASTICAL TRIAL AT CHICAGO.—The trial by an ecclesiastical Court of Rev. Charles Edward Cheney, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, for alleged unauthorized omissions in the baptismal rites for children, was begun in Chicago on Wednesday, when various exceptions to the pleadings were presented and argued by the counsel for the accused. On Thursday these exceptions were overruled, whereupon the defendant's counsel announced that he had applied to the Superior Court of Chicago for an injunction, which had been granted, against all further proceedings in the case. He had determined that if his client was smitten it should not be contrary to law. The sheriff then served the writ of injunction and the Court adjourned.

FANCY FARMING. — We have read nothing of its kind so good as Five Acres Too Much, by R. B. Roosevelt, since the days of the "Sparrowgrass Papers,"—a book which it somewhat resembles in the geniality of its humor, and decidedly excels in the broadness of its burlesque. It is aided by some very Hoodish illustrations, none the less comical because of no particular value in an art point of view. Mr. Roosevelt had read "Ten Acres Enough" —it inoculated him with the country fever.

He was seized with an ambition to have a home of his own—a rural retreat whither he could fly from the din and bustle of the city; a place where he could simultaneously cultivate flowers and a love of nature, vegetables and his own muscles; with a cow to give fresh milk to him and his children; and a safe family horse to afford them inexpensive riding, the expenses of the whole establishment to be paid by the sale of butter from the dairy, fresh lettuce and early peas from the garden. It was all practicable. "Ten Acres Enough," "My Ten Rod Farm," "Farming by Inches," and half a score of like volumes were full of figures to demonstrate the practicability of his vision.

How he tried the experiment, and what he made of it; how he shipped a house from Nantucket, and how it did not come to time; how his kitchen-garden became a grazing place for the neighbors' cattle; how his flower-garden produced nothing but some carrot-heads; how his spring chickens furnished food for the dogs; how, in short, he paid for his garden and henery in the spring, and bought his vegetables and his chickens in the summer, as amateur farmers are wont to do. All this he tells with a wild, uproarious glee that is positively contagious, and makes you imagine his sparkling eye and his broad laugh as he tells to his friends with infinite zest the story which he has told so well to the public. Blessed is the man who can convert every misadventure into a good joke.—Harper's Magazine.

FROM RALPH WALDO EMERSON TO WENDELL PHILLIPS is only twenty miles; and, yet, there is the breadth of a continent between them. In fact, they belong to different worlds. One lives in the ideal, the other in the actual; one walks with his head in the clouds, and, now and then, sends down to us the music of that far-up, hyperborean region; the other treads the solid earth, and, with magic voice, raises or stills at his will the tempest of human life that is sleeping or surging around him. But both have had a mighty influence on the time, and the memory of both will live when most other Americans of this century are forgotten.—From Packard's Monthly, for August.

NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. (jel5 8w) Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1869.

DREADFUL AFFAIR AT ALSTEAD.—We learn from the Newport Argus that as Samuel C. Savory of Alstead was yoking a pair of four-year-old bulls, on the 7th inst., one of them made a furious attack upon him, throwing him down and breaking his ribs, one of which penetrated the right lung. Mr. Savory received other serious wounds, and his recovery is doubtful. A hired man and Mr. Savory's eldest son, Eugene, eleven and a half years old, were present at the time, and the former managed to keep the bull off, while the boy and his mother assisted the injured man into his house. Dr. Smith was then called and dressed his wounds.

The little son of Mr. Savory was thrown into a state of terrible excitement by seeing his father hooked by the bull, and also by running some distance to procure the doctor, and soon began to show that the shock to his nervous system had disordered his mind. On Tuesday morning, the 13th inst., he was advised not to go to school, but as he was missing after the other two children went, his mother supposed he had gone with them. When the other children returned home, at about four o'clock, they said that Eugene had not been to school that day. The house and out-buildings were then searched, and the body of the boy was found by his mother in the sugar-house, about six rods from the other buildings, hanging from a beam by a rope. His neck was broken.

The funeral of the child took place on the following afternoon. The grief of his mother and the other members of this unfortunate family can be imagined better than described.

CYCLONE IN INDIA.— The two cyclones, or hurricanes, which visited India, one on May 16, and the other on June 9, were very destructive in their effects, though they were far inferior in violence to the terrible storms of 1864 and 1867. The planting crop was ruined, but most of the other crops escaped. At Calcutta, business was entirely suspended. Few merchants were able to reach their places of business, and those who did found themselves minus their native employes. The roof of the Lock Hospital fell in, killing two women and wounding nine others.

Trees were blown down, brick houses were injured, and huts were generally leveled with the ground wherever they were not sheltered. The shipping rode out with few casualties, but cargo boats were swept away, and some lives must have been lost. In the country the huts of the peasantry were blown down in all directions, except where they were protected by thick trees. No news of shipping disaster have been reported. One paper asserts that ten thousand lives were lost by the first cyclone—that of May 16.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE SOUTH.—Governor Hahn of Louisiana, who has arrived at Washington from New Orleans, gives a most cheerful account of affairs in his section. The sugar, cotton, and corn crops are all heavy, and cotton is believed to be safe from the worm. The animosities engendered by the war and subsequent political contests in Louisiana are dying out, and the social quiet which prevailed before the war is rapidly returning. So far as he could learn in passing through Mississippi the Dent movement there has few republican supporters. He anticipates great business activity throughout the South the coming autumn if the crops turn out as now expected.

SPAIN.—The decree of martial law promulgated in 1812 has been revived and put in force by the Spanish government, and more vigorous measures will doubtless be employed in quieting the political disturbances which of late have increased at an alarming rate. The government troops have already attacked and defeated a band of Carlists. The Bavarian government has decided to recognize the validity of marriages solemnized between Bavarians in this country without the consent of the home government.

☞ On Wednesday afternoon a man by the name of Malachi McFalls lost his life at the Waltham Bleachery. He was descending in the elevator, when the chain broke, and in jumping he broke both legs, and the chain struck him on the back of the head, inflicting such severe injury that he died in about half an hour.

☞ Mr. Matthew S. Pike, a young man of Hampton Falls, has recently sold a Fearnaught Colt, four years old, for $1500.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE.—The project of bridging the East River between New York and Brooklyn, has met a heavy blow in the death of Mr. Roebling. His success in similar works inspired confidence and made the raising of funds an easy matter. He was a very resolute man, and died a victim to his obstinacy. He was standing on a cross beam to which were affixed the piles against which the ferryboat strikes in coming into the dock. He was advised to move, but held his position and had his toes jammed off. He had a theory that cold water was a sovereign remedy for nearly all the ills that flesh is heir to. After the surgeon had dressed his foot, he refused all further medical assistance and kept a stream of cold water running constantly on his foot. Lockjaw set in, and he died in great agony.

☞ The Cuban revolutionists say they have men and food enough, but want arms, medicines, salt, clothes and shoes.

A PRESS FOR THE LADIES.—Speaking of the Editors' Excursion, all of which he saw, and part of which he was—our gallant Br. Butler, of the Biddeford Journal, says, "The ladies of the members graced the excursion by their presence, as was eminently proper, since, whatever may be said of mankind in general, the ladies always appreciate a well-conducted press." No doubt of it, is there, Mrs. B?

☞ At Lawrence, Mass., on the 23d, two boys, Danl. Green and Thos. Toomey, each aged 18, were in the Police Court, charged with beating Michael Corney (11 years old,) on the 13th, so badly that he died on the 21st.—In the same city on the 21st, Michael McGovern was held to bail in $10,000, for driving (when drunk) over, and killing a child of James Galligan, 18 months old. The names seem Irish.

BOUTWELL.—The New York Herald has changed its mind about the Secretary of the Treasury, and actually compliments its management of the department over which he presides. It says he seems devoid of the absurd crochets and theories of finance which made Mr. McCullock so sad a failure, and that he is administering the finances from the broad platform of common sense. His success is witnessed in the reduction of the national debt and a well-ordered plan of the finances. The tax-payers of the country do not care for crochets or fine-spun theories; what they look for is results. The exhibits of Secretary Boutwell please them.

"DEAD BEATS" IN SPRINGFIELD.—The definite number of "dead beats" in the city has been ascertained to be 795. One of them has unsettled bills at 26 of the 55 grocery stores and markets in town. The largest amount of goods sponged by any one man is $960 worth, which he took from 16 stores, and the largest bill any one of the "beats" has unsettled at any one store or market is $440.—Springfield Republican.

THE FARMER.—A farmer, more than most men, needs pluck, faith in himself and in nature, and, above all, patience. He must wait for results; and, while doing so, it is important that his surroundings should be as pleasant as he can afford to make them. A cheerful, healthy location is of more value than a fine house.—Ex.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on sufference and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no reliable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success has only been commensurate with their true deserts. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again bloom upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

Dr. Speer, of New Jersey, makes an excellent wine, that is becoming celebrated among medical practitioners in our large cities, and used in hospitals as a superior article. Physicians recommend it as an invaluable article for weakness and general debility. It is a rich nutritive wine, possessing the virtues that make it valuable for weakly persons and for general family use at this Season of the year.—N. Y. Sun. Post.

☞ "None name thee but to praise," should be inscribed upon every bottle of "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative;" for among all its would be competers it stands alone; unapproached and unapproachable.—Watchman and Reflector.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, been very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully
Yours, J. M. JOHNSON.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every dereliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main hoss" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with each tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who fell, and prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the building up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an aliterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when a diseased condition.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to the unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Pills.—RUSH OF BLOOD TO THE HEAD.—This unpleasant visitation is not confined to persons of a full habit. It is as frequently the result of weakness as of a predisposition to apoplexy. By whatever cause engendered, the best remedy for the complaint is HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. At the moment they begin to operate the oppression on the brain is relieved. Their effect is to equalize the circulation, and if taken whenever a paroxysm comes, the attacks will soon cease altogether. Sold by all Druggists. jy20

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than Three Thousand Cheerful Testimonials were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is free from all intoxication, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

GRANT & PROSPERITY.

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the head (for that is their proper designation) with which the country is inundated, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that and that he knows it to be so, because he has analyzed it.

CRISTADORO'S DYE IS UTTERLY POISONLESS,

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as a Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it. 3y22

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life continued, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

General Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are unrivalled.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other means used had failed.

A gentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 18, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. jy22

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskillful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where the dreadful disease is ever more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jel9

A SURE REMEDY.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 10 GENERAL WEARE, BOSTON. Sold by all Druggists. my13eod3m

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the food thus becomes good, the liver makes good blood; the stomach begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. His Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are to freely act on the liver, to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, and cleansing the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much: they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and to do anything they damage the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcers and Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, chronic irritation, adhesions, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only way is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their disease examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yjs4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE STABLE KEEPERS are at last rejoicing over the return of a lively season, and on some days it is difficult to secure teams unless they are spoken for twenty four hours in advance. The late comers, and there are always some, generally find that a kingdom even won't secure a horse.

It was our lot to be suddenly in want of a horse on one of these days, and not being forewarned we could not be fore armed. So we were forced to wait the coming of the first steed which should venture back. Towards eve a mare put in an appearance, and, having been driven to Kittery only, we were of the opinion that she was good for a Rye trip, though Henry wasn't at all satisfied to let us a slow, though not tired, animal.

We started in grand style, and the mare spurted for a rod as if she meant business. After turning the corner, however, we were obliged to use our persuader, and went up Congress street in 4:20. One of us held the ribbons and the other plied the whip, until both were tired of the amusement. We have always regarded the owner of the animal as one of the squarest men in Portsmouth, and our experience this time confirmed the opinion. He had fully and truthfully described the animal before we left the stable.

The mare occupied both sides of the road, for we couldn't get steerage way on her. She tried our patience sorely, and we never did have so cheap an excursion, including the exercise. At the Four Corners, two miles away, we gave it up, and slowly and sadly started on the return home via the Sagamore. Our companion, exhausted in spirit and physically weary, gave us charge of the reins, and the urger was turned over to his care. The mare brought us safely back that night, some time or other, and we've a distinct remembrance of taking every body's dust, and puzzling people behind who wished to pass, but who found it difficult to do so, as they could not readily ascertain which side of the road we occupied most. The steed went to sleep on the road once and stopped a minute, and was surprised to find herself at the top of a hill when she awoke. In astonishment she started, the wheels moved, the momentum was too great for her to resist, and down hill went the three of us as fast as the law allowed. We carried that mare back, and Henry grinned as he said, "Well, you didn't go as far as you intended—oh!" — and the wicked boys laughed noisily as Lady Thorne was led to her stall. Henry bought her for nothing, and thinks he was sold. We think so too.

A FOWL PROCEEDING.—That

"He who fights and runs away
Will live to fight another day," is proverbial, and an incident that happened a day or two since shows that game Spanish breds are sometimes chicken-hearted. Said a merry young man pointing to a black Spanish chanticleer, who was perched on a fence to view the landscape o'er, "that fellow's got fight in him—I saw him fight another rooster a whole hour, lately." So eager was he to demonstrate the truth of his assertion that in the confidence of his heart he produced from a well filled pocket book a dollar, for which a boy belonging in the same family with the crower agreed to bring him out to fight a Shanghae.

He came, the dollar was accepted, the black Spanish was set on his feet and his long-legged opponent straightened up, clucked once and went for him. No opposition however came from the black who was soon crowded into a corner and ducked through a hole in the fence in the twinkling of an eye. The Shanghae was too large to follow, and remained master of the field, astonished at his easy victory and amazed at the sudden disappearance of his adversary, who sped away towards home as fast his legs would carry him, a whipped chicken, leaving his brother biped a dollar in and somebody else a dollar out. The former thought it a paying investment— the latter didn't.

☞ The more rain the better for the race—the human race, and also the horse-race, or races, on Wednesday—for a good soaking shower would put the track in prime condition. The two fine trotting mares Nellie Locke and Empress are very nearly matched in speed; and if both come to the score in good condition, the one that wins, it would seem, will have to work very hard for it. As to the other pair, the public this way are not so well posted; but though Rosa is a good and game mare,—we have seen the giant Martin Luther trot, and we regard him as an honest and steady goer, a hard one to beat, unless by a horse of considerably greater speed. But let us see what we shall see, and therein lies all the fun of it.

DIED.—In North Hampton, Sunday night, July 25th, of consumption, Mr. D. CURTIS SMITH, aged 36 years, 7 months. Mr. Smith was of the firm of Smith Brothers, doing business at the North Hampton Depot Store; and besides being a prompt and energetic business man, was also a fine man socially, and his death will be much regretted by a large circle of friends. He was an excellent bass singer, and for several years formerly was leader of the bass in Park Street Church choir, Boston.

He was of late years a valued member of the Portsmouth Philharmonic Society; where his rich and powerful voice will be missed, but not more than the social good cheer which he carried with him everywhere. His comic powers also were great as an actor and singer. His last public appearance with the Society was at the Dover Concert of the Haymakers—at which, with the rest, he was very much heated, in the crowd; and it was always thought that from his exposure in getting home that night by the freight train, his fatal sickness dated.

The funeral will take place this (Tuesday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, at North Hampton, and the Philharmonic Society are invited to attend and take part in the services—for which purpose a meeting is called at Mr. Tilton's Music Room this morning at 10 o'clock, and the members will take the 11 1-4 train out.

THEN AND NOW.—In looking over the first number of the New Hampshire Gazette, for Oct. 7th, 1756, we find under the head of "Port of Piscataqua," that there entered this harbor of Portsmouth on the day previous, 1 ship, 2 brigs, 1 schooner and one sloop; sailed, 3 ships, 1 brig, and 1 schooner; cleared 2 sloops, 3 schooners, and 1 brig.

Rather different this, from our port manifest of late years—since the commencement of Railroading here, about 1830. The step which should have been taken then to keep our interior trade and foreign commerce, is the same which should be taken now to regain it—namely, build a Railroad from Portsmouth to Ogdensburgh, or at least to the White Mountains. To do the first but three links are needed, from Portsmouth to Dover, Alton Bay to the Weirs, and Wells River to Montpelier.

The Lake Shore Railroad ought to be built, and the Portsmouth & Dover. Some existing corporation must help both—will the Eastern, or the Boston & Maine, take hold of the P. & Dover? We shall see.

☞ One of the fishing vessels of Messrs. Harding & Doane, of Newcastle, caught a Sword Fish on Saturday, weighing about 400 lbs; which Messrs. Laighton & Mugridge, of Jefferson Market in this city, were retailing in slices on Monday at 17 cts. per lb. The flesh was firm and solid, of dark color, and rather coarse, but pretty good eating for an experiment, fried like halibut. The fish was about 10 feet long, with sword from his snout about 4 feet more, and he was taken with hook and line, and cudgelled over the head when pulled in. He was a round, sung-bodied fish, very thick on the back.

☞ We are informed that the sixth concert by the Cornet Band will probably be given some evening this week. The reason assigned for the delay of the past two weeks is that some of the Band have been out of town on business. The small sum received for this series of concerts does not warrant the neglect of private business, and it is desirable to have full ranks when concerts are to be given.

☞ The officers and crew of the U. S. S. Narragansett have left that vessel and are now at Wood Island Hospital. They will be taken to New York to-day by the U. S. Speedwell. The Narragansett will remain at her moorings on quarantine ground in charge of watchmen, with her hatches battened down and sealed until cold weather.

☞ The Boston Transcript says "Those in pursuit of a quiet retreat by the seaside will find the "Sagamore House," at Frost's Point, at Portsmouth, desirable, inasmuch as everything is new; and the cuisine, so it is said by one who knows, is the best on the Eastern coast."

☞ The Carlists are making a troublesome counter revolution in Spain.

CHEAP WRAPPING PAPER.

OLD NEWSPAPERS—Clean and whole, for sale by the hundred, at the Chronicle Office.

Morning Chronicle.

A QUADRILLE is described thusly by a young man who tried it:

We both bowed to both of us, then t'other; then the fiddler tuned and the thing started. I grabbed her hand, she squeezed mine, we both slung each other, then changed base clear across the room, jumped up and down ever so many times, then passed each other ever so many times, then my dear and me dosed-a doe and hop-scotched home again (from a foreign shore,) then we two forwarded, four ladies changed, we X over, turned around twice, shassayed sideways, I backed to place, she dittoed, side couples to the left, side couples t'other way, side couples turn gentlemen, side couples turn ladies, ladies turn side couples, gentlemen turn side couples, head couples turn side couples, gentlemen turn side couples, head couples turn side couples, all hands round, back again. First feller takes opposite gal, slings her around, take your own gal and t'other feller's gal, forward and back twist, both gals two times, sling 'em to opposite feller, let him do the same as you, and back again to the places, light gentleman balance to heavy lady, heavy lady dupliate, promenade all gals to the center, fellers catch hold of each other's hands, bob up and down, arm over, ladies stoop, jump up and down, each feller takes his gal to place.—Right gentleman spin right lady, right lady spin left gentleman, all twist each other, do it again, over, repeat, once more, keep it up, all turn each other backwards, sideways, each couple swing t'other couple, cross over, back again to our seats.

DUTIES OF FARMERS.—Farming is not only a profession, but of all professions it embraces the widest range of scientific propositions and practical facts, and affords the widest field for the exercise of the philosophic and analytic mind. Instead of the brightest boys being sent to a medical college for a field worthy of their talents, they should be educated in the science, and instructed practically in the duties of agriculture.

It is a prominent duty of the farmer so to pursue his calling as to inspire a respect for it in the minds of his children, and so train them that they shall be able to pursue it successfully, which can only be effected by his availing himself of every advantage resulting from the discoveries of science and the accumulated experience of the past. This will at once strip farming of almost every disagreeable feature, and clothe it with attractions possessed by no other business.

As at present conducted there is a large amount of very disagreeable labor required to be performed in farming, and it is mainly to this fact that we owe the desertion of that business for others by country boys. Science and human skill must relieve this, and undoubtedly will, if the farmer will avail himself of their aids.—Ex.

FIELD BEANS.—The high price at which good white beans have been selling for several years past, makes them a profitable farm crop. They are best grown on light, easily worked soils, and require but little manure for the production of fair crops. If planted on rich, loamy soils, or if green, fresh manure are freely applied to the land, they are apt to run too much to vine, without a corresponding yield, and ripen unevenly. In growing beans for market, the best vareties should be selected. It is just as easy for the farmer to grow a No. 1 as a No. 3 bean. It is much more profitable to raise the blue-pod, the marrow or the extra pea-bean, well known and high priced varieties in the Boston market, than it is to grow a medley of various colors, which will not sell for half the price of the best kinds.—N. H. Statesman.

A SMART OLD LADY.—The Barry county (Mich.) Banner mentions a remarkable lady named Clarissa Pennock, seventy-four years old, who has a crippled hand and one foot so lame and sore that much of the time she cannot walk with it, but moves a chair as she goes about, resting the lame foot upon it. In this condition, in four years, she has wove (on an old-fashioned loom) 4000 yards, has made 107 yards of rag carpet for herself, doing all the weaving with one foot, preparing all the warp and nearly all the filling with her own hands, besides bearing the wool and making fifty yards of cloth, doing her own spinning. Also planting and dressing her garden, and doing her own housework.

TOMATO WORMS.—An Illinois paper utters this timely warning: "People at this season should look out for the large worm which infests the tomato vines. Its sting is deadly poison. It is of a green color, two or three inches long, and as large as a man's finger. At Red Creek, Wayne county, a few days ago, a servant girl, while gathering tomatoes, received a puncture from one of these worms, which created a sensation similar to that of a bee sting. In a short time the poison penetrated to every part of her system, and she was thrown into spasms which ended in death."

—On a recent trip of one of the Illinois river packets—a light draft one, as there were only two feet deep of water in the channel, the passengers were startled by the cry of Man overboard? The steamer was stopped, and preparations were made to save him, when he was heard exclaiming, "Go ahead with your darned old steamboat. I'll walk behind you."

—Colonel Peter B. Gleason, for many years a printer in Hartford, died at Windsor, a few days since, aged 89 years. At the time of his death he was the oldest printer in the country.

New Hampshire Items.

A singular accident occurred in Brookline on the 8th inst. While a Mrs. Bailey, during her husband's illness, was leading a young animal to pasture, the hook of the chain by which she was leading him caught in the palm of her hand, lacerating the tendons and nearly severing one finger.

At Canterbury, on Friday night last, the house of Charles Glines, a substantial farmer, situated about two miles from the Centre, was entered, the thief abstracting eighty-five dollars from a wallet in the pants in Mr. Glines' sleeping room and making good his escape.

☞ Sunflowers, when planted on an extensive scale, it has recently been asserted by experimenters in France and Holland, will neutralize the deleterious effects of exhalations from marshes. This plan has been tried with great success in the fenny districts near Rochefort, France, and the authorities of Holland assert that intermittent fever has entirely disappeared from districts where the sunflowers have been planted.

—Justice in Texas is still very rapid, if not always certain. A black mare was stolen from a livery stable, and, after search, was heard from in a distant town. The proprietors sent a messenger after her, and a day or two afterwards received a dispatch as follows: "Your mare is here; I will bring her; thief hung.

—W. M. Haynie of Sacramento, who has a large number of silk worms, lost 500,000 in one night. He attempted to hatch them by artificial heat, and to economize the heat by running steam pipes through the building. In the night creosote was produced by condensations and the worms were poisoned.

—A curious card appears in a Texas paper. A man advertises that his brother is candidate for Sheriff of the County because he himself is disfranchised, but that he is to be the real officer. "You are voting for me," he says "that is, for my benefit, and I am to receive all the pay, if my brother is elected."

—The son of the last Whig President elect of the United States, and who was a Brigadier General in the Confederate Army, dwells in a dilapidated house in Washington, and has his principal dependence on a poor colored woman, who feeds him in his moral and physical destitution.

—"The penalty for walking on a railroad track in England is ten pounds," said one, while discussing the numerous fatal accidents on a railroad. "Pooh!" replied Uncle Jerry, "is that all? The penalty in this country is death."

—Two ladies in Providence were poisoned by drinking root beer on the fifth of this month. It was supposed some poisonous herb was put into the beer through mistake.

RYE AND THE BEACHES.—We make the following extract from the Rye Beach correspondence of the Traveller:

Many of the early settlers of this charming rural town came from a place of the same name, in Great Britain, which was doubtless the reason for selecting the name of Rye for this town.

The first settlement was made here about the year 1630, though corporate privileges were not granted until after the beginning of the last century.

The early inhabitants must have been afflicted with impecuniosity, or were sadly neglectful of their religious interests, for no minister of the gospel was settled in Rye until nearly a century after its settlement. The first meeting-house was built in 1725, and a church was organized the following year. Rev. Samuel Parsons was fifty-three years a minister here, from 1736 to 1789, and was most successful in his mission. During this period Mr. P. baptized 700 persons, and above 200 were received into full communion with the church.

The principal hotels are the Ocean House, by Job Jenness & Son, Atlantic and Farragut Houses, by J. C. Philbrick & Co., and the Sea View House, by George G. Lougee.

The Ocean has a capacity of 300 guests, and fully sustains the reputation of its proprietors. Messrs. Jenness & Son will soon open a large hotel in Washington, D. C.

Philbrick is another name for identified with the hotel business. The late John Colby Philbrick commenced the hotel, or rather boarding-house business, about 1835, his rates then ranging from one and a half to two dollars a week!

The Atlantic and Farragut stand near the sea, and have been greatly improved for this season.

The Sea View was originally named the Ocean View House. Just before it was opened Jenness & Son announced that the name of their house would be changed, on account of the similarity of the name of the new house. Their house had borne the name of Ocean House for 25 years, and Mr. Lougee, with commendable generosity, changed the name of his house, although he had procured his register, stationery, crockery, &c., all marked with the name Ocean View House.

I visited Hampton Beach on the 17th, returning yesterday. Since my visit of a week previous the company has largely augmented. The Boar's Head has about 100 guests, and the Ocean about the same number.

A mandate has been issued by the authorities of Hampton, forbidding the occupation, erection or maintenance of any tent or structure on the public land lying contiguous to the sea. I am not familiar with the merits of the matter, but am told that the promiscuous "camping out" by whoever chose to pitch a "tent on the beach," has been a matter of great annoyance to the guests at the hotels, who have had the pleasure of their rambles seriously marred by incidents decidedly offensive to the visual, auditory and olfactory organ. It is but simple justice that the men who have invested such large sums of money to make this beach attractive, should have their interests protected in this direction. The authorities are evidently in earnest, as they have retained Gen. Gilman Marston and Albert R. Hatch, Esq., as counsel.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF
REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple, but clothed in language that everybody can understand.
WHY
is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?
BECAUSE
it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining pabulum; it stimulates the bowels to action without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.
WHY
is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?
BECAUSE
it combines the properties of a mild diuretic sudorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting a free perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.
WHY
is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?
BECAUSE
rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and as lime is the base of Tarrant's Aperient being absorbed into the venous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.
WHY
is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?
BECAUSE
it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effect upon the whole system. No other drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.
In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing has been set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medical men.

WHAT ADVERTISERS SAY.
The firm, whose letter we print below, gave us in 1867 what was then the largest contract we had ever received for our "LISTS OF 100 LOCAL NEWSPAPERS." The fact that they this year renewed their order and increase the amount is the best argument we can give that these "LISTS" are good advertising mediums.

The Chronicle.

SIR JOHN WENTWORTH, BARONET, who exercised the "regal authority" which granted the charter for Dartmouth College, was the last of the Royal Governors of New Hampshire. He had been preceded in this office by his grandfather, John Wentworth, who held the office from 1717 to 1730, and by his uncle, Benning Wentworth, who held the office from 1740 to 1766, when Sir John succeeded to it, and held the same till 1775, when the Revolution broke out, and he went to England.

Sir John Wentworth was an elegant and accomplished man, and a statesman. He graduated at Harvard College; received the degree of LL. D. from Princeton when only twenty-seven years of age, and from Oxford, England, three years afterwards. He married his cousin, Frances Wentworth, the most beautiful and accomplished woman of her time. Her portrait by Copley, now preserved in one of the old residences at Dover, N. H., shows her to have been all that tradition reports of her. Sir John was made a Baronet while in England.

The ancestor of the Wentworth family of New Hampshire was William Wentworth—a descendant of the baronial family so well known in English history—who lived and died in Dover. The first Governor Wentworth was his grandson. The most interesting remains of ancient wealth and splendor which the visitor at Portsmouth sees, are the residences and family memorials of these three royal Governors.—Boston Transcript.

YOUNG LADY HEARD FROM.—A good joke is told of a young man who attended a social circle a few evenings since. The conversation turned on California and getting rich. Tom ——remarked that if he was in California he would, instead of working in the mines, waylay some rich man who had a bag full of gold, knock out his brains, gather up gold, and skedaddle. One of the young ladies quietly replied that he had better gather up the brains, as he evidently stood in more need of that article than gold. Tom subsided.

—At the celebration of the national anniversary at Algona, Iowa, a gentleman—a Mr. Ingham, banker—took from his wife's arms her babe, and Mrs. Ingham mounted the platform and delivered a speech on woman's rights to an attentive audience; after which the banker returned the babe to his wife with apparent pride and satisfaction at her success—both with her speech and her baby, we presume.

—Susan B. Anthony, at the Saratoga woman suffrage convention, was interrupted in her remarks by a man who asked, "What is to be done with St. Paul's saying, that 'women should be subject to their husbands?" and replied; "The same as men do to others of his sayings—pass them by."

—Although Mr. Turner, the negro clergyman just commissioned postmaster of Macon, Ga., was not one of the subscribers to the Grant testimonial, it is believed that his appointment is, nevertheless, a sign of the utility of black mailing.

—For a juvenile version of the naked drama, commend us the Beaches. The children have positively less dress on, there, than we ever before saw apportioned to girls of their years.

—A man named Foster, a real estate dealer in Chicago, absconded Saturday with funds amounting to $10,000 belonging to his partner and creditors whose lands he had sold.

—Ferdinand Andrews, the first editor of the Boston Traveller, and for many years of late a clerk in the Treasury department at Washington, has just resigned this last position.

—Owing to the poisonous nature of the cosmetics in use among our belles, courtship has come to be like a game of billiards. In either many "kisses" are fatal.—N. Y. Telegram.

—It is said that boarding-house keepers now induce their boarders to eat hash by telling them that there is a fifty cent stamp in the compound for each meal.

—An attempted suicide in Liverpool, when arraigned for reprimand, excused his rash act on the ground that he had got wet and was hanging himself up to dry.

—What we lack in natural abilities may usually be made up in industry. A dwarf will keep pace with a giant, if he will but move his legs fast enough.

—A gentleman said to a rather stout lady: "Allow me to introduce my wife? she is not quite so large as you are, but I guess she's quite as good!"

—The man who always leaves church before the service is over, in speaking of an "ancient" single lady, said she was "fearfully maid."

—Colonel Ryan, the filibuster, is in Canada. He boasted that he would perish in his cause, but he don't perish worth a cent.

—"Sam, why am de hogs the most intelligent folks in de world? "Because dey nose everything."

☞ PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.—We clip the following from the Providence General Advertiser: At this season of the year, when cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, and other kindred complaints are sure to prevail, everybody should be liberally supplied with the PAIN-KILLER. Persons leaving home whether it be for a day's excursion or a trip to Europe, should be in a condition to place their hands on it at a moments warning. Many diseases incident to the summer months which will prove fatal if not immediately checked, can be promptly cured by one or two doses of the Pain-Killer. On more than one occasion have we been relieved of intense suffering by the timely use of the above named preparation." Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Medicine Dealers. jy13 4w

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair, and my head has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [je15 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 28, 1869.

CHINESE COOLIES. — It is asserted that while Chinese laborers do very well in California, where they are governed by beneficial and protective societies, and are within reach of their own homes, yet when taken to the interior of the country, and removed from all restraint, they become lazy and disobedient. The coolies who were taken to the Sandwich Islands in 1852, it is reported, behaved very badly, never working willingly, and sitting up all night to drink and gamble. If scolded, they took great offence, and sometimes attacked the overseers with knives, tied to long poles. The general experience of the Chinese coolie is that he must be kept from whiskey.—Boston Journal.

To keep the Coolies from whiskey, looks a little like a Prohibitory law! and like a partial law also. The General experience is, that the white men and men of all colors, who keep away, or are kept away from whiskey, work better, and are less quarrelsome than those who indulge in it. And yet, in the face of these facts, the multitudes drink on, to imbecility and decay, to distress their families, and often to madden themselves.

IN THE SANDWICH ISLANDS, Much sickness prevails, among natives particularly, and the mortality is unusually large. The next census will tell a sad tale regarding the decay of the aboriginal race. Leprosy, overdrinking and the use of opium are making fearful inroads upon the bone and muscle of the kingdom.

Remarkable changes are reported to be going on in the crater of the volcano Kilauea in Hawaii. After the eruption and earthquake a year ago, the bottom of the crater subsided from 300 to 500 feet below its former level. Since then the sides of the crater have been caving in, and at times immense portions of the sides of the crater fall in and are swallowed up in the boiling lava. In this way the active lake has increased from 200 or 300 feet to over 1500 feet in diameter, and is still extending.

☞ Last Saturday, at Chicago, Thomas Wilson, a laboring man, aged 70 years, murdered his wife, aged 35 years. She was engaged in her domestic duties in the garden. Wilson approached her and gave her a fearful stab in the abdomen, with a dirk, and then repeated the blow in the temple. Either would have proved fatal. She died in a few moments. Wilson has been an intemperate man for years, and when intoxicated is exceedingly brutal. So says a dispatch, and it so, his wife had better be dead than to live with him.

MARVELOUS ESCAPE.—The Burlington (Vt.) Free Press says that one day last week Mr. Sanford Rose of Huntington, while engaged in mowing, discovered a hand rake standing in the grass in front of his machine, and lifting the cutter, reached down to remove the rake, when he discovered what appeared to be a human object just in front of him. He carried the blades over, and turning around saw his son, a youth of four years, asleep in the grass, who, but for the providential occurrence of the rake being visible, must have met with a horrible death.

☞ The New Bedford Standard says it is reported that Senator Anthony of Rhode Island has lately requested from the War Department copies of all letters written by Senator Sprague, containing charges against officers in Rhode Island regiments during the recent war, whereby many of them were unjustly suspended, and will next winter open a vigorous fight on Sprague in the Senate.

☞ The Manchester Mirror says it is not creditable to farmers in the vicinity of cities, that such quantities of garden sauce and early vegetables should be brought from Massachusetts, when much of it might be raised at home, and besides paying well, could be placed before the consumer much fresher and in better condition. No doubt of it, and the same is true here as well.

☞ Miss Addie, only daughter of John Turner, and Flora, oldest daughter of Horatio G. Turner, both of Charlestown, Mass., visiting in Auburn, Me., and two sons of Rev. Mr. Libby of Auburn, were drowned in the Lake at the latter place last Saturday afternoon. They were out in a row boat, which sunk. Two other persons in the boat escaped.

☞ Bishop Cummins, of Kentucky preached in Trinity [protestant episcopal] Church in Chicago, last Sunday, to a full house, although his brother Bishop Whitehouse had forbidden him to preach in his diocese.

PREMIUM LIST OF NEW ENGLAND FAIR.—The Premium List of the New England Agricultural Society, for its Sixth Annual Exhibition, to be held in connection with the Fair of the Maine State Agricultural Society, at Portland, Me., on the 7th—10th of September next, is now being circulated throughout New England. The List is a liberal one, embracing premiums for all the departments of New England agricultural and mechanical industry, and we notice with pleasure that the premiums for trials of speed of horses, do not absorb the larger part of the sums offered in premiums, as has been the case at some former Exhibitions of this Society.

The List will be sent to all who apply by addressing Col. Daniel Needham, Groton, Mass., or S. L. Boardman, Augusta, Me. All entries must be made to Samuel L. Boardman, Augusta, or U. S. Hotel, Portland, Me.

Our Navy Yard Correspondence.

July 27.

Workmen are at work on the ways above the Dry Dock, getting them ready to take the Wyoming on.

Everything is brisk in all the departments of the Yard.

The Civil Engineering Department are building a nice brick buildsng for the Steam Fire Engines, near the new reservoir.

The Ferry-boat Emerald will be taken up for painting and repairs next week, and the Tug Port Fire will be run instead. The Port Fire has had a thorough overhauling and is in the best of repair.

THE WASHINGTON NAVY YARD.—Admiral Dahlgren is ordered to the command of the Washington Navy Yard on the 10th of August, and Commodore A. L. Case, now at the Naval Academy, takes his place at the head of the Naval Ordnance Bureau. One of the first things that Admiral Dahlgren will have to do in the Navy Yard will be to clear it of men who oppose the administration in its efforts to give all mechanics an equal chance without inquiring as to their race or color, as the Secretary of the Navy is determined that a new order of things, more in accordance with the President's political views, shall, in the process of time, be brought about in all the yards of the country.

FINANCIAL.—A Washington dispatch says that Mr. Boutwell has received a proposition from a German house in Frankfort to loan our government $300,000,000 at five per cent., which the Secretary has of course been obliged to decline. His view is that we may, within a year, borrow all the money we want at four per cent., or certainly at four and a half per cent. A private letter from a well-advised source in England expresses the opinion that a bond at four and a quarter per cent. can be easily negotiated in Europe within six or eight months.

☞ A letter from Rio Janeiro says that owing to the bad reputation of nitro-glycerine, a small quantity in the military arsenal there was ordered to be thrown into the bay. Six ten pound cans were put into a boat and taken out about 250 yards. The first one thrown out exploded on striking the water and the concussion set off the others. The boat was blown to pieces and all the crew, seven persons, killed.

☞ Fifteen iron-roof rafters, weighing about two tons each, fell from the top of the new repair shops of the New York and New Haven Railroad Company, at New Haven, Thursday, carrying three workmen with them, all of whom were injured in the back, though with strange good fortune, no bones were broken.

☞ The royal assent has been given to the Irish church bill, and the announcement was received with cheers in the House of Commons. The frequent outrages in Ireland have spurred the government to devise a remedy for the state of feeling exhibited in that country.

☞ The evangelical Christians of New York city are again talking of starting a paper in opposition to the Independent,—this time with a capital of a hundred thousand dollars.

☞ Mr. Bachelor, who was bitten in Portland by a vicious horse last Tuesday, has had his arm amputated at the shoulder joint, and there is little hope of his recovery.

☞ At Calais, Me., in a disturbance, Saturday night, John Lockwood of Dover, N. H., was injured so that he died Sunday morning.

NAVAL.—Chief Engineer B. F. Isherwood has been detached from New York and ordered to the Mare Island Yard.

—It must be a happy thought to a Jersey lover, that his blood and that of his own sweetheart mingle in the same musquito.

—The Richmond Whig says the reports of the crops that have been threshed in Virginia are not generally satisfactory, the yield being less than was expected. The dry season has been favorable for threshing, and the wheat will come to market in fine condition.

—There are three things in the world that know no kind of restraint, and are governed by no law, but merely by passions and brutality — civil wars, family quarrels, and religious disputes.

—Carlyle says, with witty ambiguity, "If you are in doubt whether to kiss a pretty girl, give her the benefit of the doubt."

—Some people resemble whales in this, that their precise locality is never known until they blow.

—The Argentine Confederation—the league of Wall street specie men.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on sufference and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong. Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh; wine does not cheer; smiles do not gladden; music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. Dr. Speer, of New Jersey, makes an excellent wine, that is becoming celebrated among medical gentlemen in our large cities, and used in hospitals as a superior article. ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential, I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. As it was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful service in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours,

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direlliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would call the pills, the "Malin Bolt" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by prolonged depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the building up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a powerful tonic. Its vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire nervous system, when in a morbid condition.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Ointment.—Dropsical swellings can only be reduced in two ways—by absorption and evaporation. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT acts powerfully and beneficially upon the vessels which perform these functions. It invigorates the absorbents, and promotes the expulsory action of the pores. Among all the external complaints for which the Ointment is an acknowledged specific, there is none in which it works greater wonders than in dropsical cases. Sold by all Druggists. jy28

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as sugar candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two chemical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than Five Hundred Medical Experiments were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy and the irregularities to which females are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without effort, and loosens the delicate organs (the Lungs) not without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale.

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life continued, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this fearful disease is at all more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jel9

A SURE REMEDY.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator

removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby restoring it to its normal healthful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia, kidney complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease. He gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and breaks up the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is the food to grow into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have ceased to power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach; the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

NOT EXACTLY SO.—An unknown writer, after making a variety of statements about the bosses and workmen on the Navy Yard, in Jackson and Van Buren's time,—calls upon Uncle Toby to endorse them. But, on having the statements shown to him, he finds himself unable to do so; as some of them are so far from the truth as to throw doubts over others, of which he knows but little.

One of them is, that during those two administrations, "such men as John Freeland, John Locke, J. B. Hill and Jonathan Barker were the only master workmen on the Yard, and—their whole talk was in cursing and damning the President and his whole administration. And yet they—either died holding their positions, or became incapacitated by age."

Being intimately acquainted with John Burley Hill and Jonathan Barker, and seeing them very often in those days, we are sure (says Uncle Toby) that their whole conversation was not in cursing and damning the president or any body else; for both of them were careful in speech, and very far from being abusive.

Of the four men above named, two were removed or superseded in a later administration, and both of them were active mechanics afterward; so that their ages had not rendered them unfit for duty.

The Crushing Machine at the Navy Yard, was of a little later date; and it was used for political purposes under democratic administrations, quite a number of years before the rebellion broke out. Then, when there was danger, the test oath was taken, and after a while, the Crushing Machine was reversed, in favor of the republican party. Then it was turned partly back again by Johnson & Co., and from the complaints now made, it seems to be again reversed at least in part.

☞ If the Trotting Matches for this afternoon do not afford plenty of capital sport, then it must be because all signs fail in a dry time. The Matches announced are actually made, and the money is up; and so nearly matched are the horses, that nobody is going to win any of it while asleep. The well-known mares Empress and Nellie Locke will make a close race, and the sporting public will be pleased to see them meet again thus.

In the other match, while Rosa has the credit of faster time, still Martin Luther will make her trot her best, and many think will beat her. He is an immense horse, 17 1-2 hands high, and a curiosity well worth seeing.

☞ The funeral of Mr. D. C. Smith took place in the meeting house at North Hampton on Tuesday afternoon, the pastor officiating, and was largely attended by the townspeople and others—including a delegation of the Philharmonic Society of this city, who took part in the service. Rev. Mr. Barrows of Exeter assisted, and there was singing in the house and at the grave—the church choir, of which Mr. Smith was a member, also taking part. Mr. Smith's age was but 30 years.

☞ Mr. Robert Drew is building a handsome dwelling, (for his own residence, we understand,) on Middle Street, at the corner of the new Union, which should be Anthony Street. It is square, two stories with French roof, with an L running back on Union Street, and will be an ornament to that vicinity. This makes the seventh new house located on the land between Middle and South Streets, since the opening of the new highways there, a year or two ago.

☞ Rev. Amos Abbott, formerly City Missionary of Portsmouth, who has been for the past twelve years in the Foreign Mission Service in India, is now, with his family, on a visit to his old friends in this city. His health has been and is good, and Time has dealt tenderly with him, except to change his hair and flowing beard almost to snowy whiteness.

☞ The United Cricket club of this city has organized by the choice of the following officers; George Dove, President; Henry Jackson, Vice Pres't; Henry A. Brown, Sec'y, P. O. Box 585; William Sladden, Treasurer; Abel Fitten, Captain; Chairman Business Committee, John Haig.

☞ It was announced at the Universalist Church last Sunday, that the House would be closed for repairs, until the 4th Sunday in August when it would be reopened, with services by Rev. John G. Adams, of Lowell, Mass.

☞ An Adjourned Meeting of the Friends of Education, is to be held at the City Rooms this (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements for the American Institute.

Correspondence of Chronicle and Gazette.

RYE, July 26.

The general appearance of things at the Beach on Sunday was quite lively, and although there is still room for more, the company now here will compare favorably, as regards numbers, with previous years. There were about 150 at dinner at the Farragut House, and doubtless there was a good attendance at the other hotels. The private houses are nearly full, and will have but little spare room by Saturday night. The Ocean House Band arrived to-day.

The Advent Camp Meeting, near G. H. Jenness' saloon, is in full blast, and there was a large attendance Sunday afternoon and evening. The principal individual about the establishment is a woman, and her management of the affair reflects great credit on her; and that, with her eloquent speaking, and material assistance rendered by others, makes the occasion one of great interest to those who are so fortunate as to be able to attend the services. No time for the final winding up of all things earthly has been announced yet, and as long as they can keep their tent pitched in such a delightful spot as Rye Beach, it would seem that no occasion calls for an emigration to regions as yet unexplored.

Sunday the weather was the hottest of the season, the thermometer standing at 90. A party from the Shoals, arriving about four o'clock, represented things very cool over there, and the Appledore House full. One of the "champion fishermen" was in the party.

There are whisperings of some private theatricals at the Farragut House next Saturday evening. A party from Portsmouth inaugurated the light-fantastic part of the summer season by a little hop in the parlor of the Atlantic House, Saturday evening. R.

FAIR PLAY IS A JEWEL, whether it be in matters of great or trifling importance. The New York Turf, Field and Farm newspaper, which always goes in for things fair and square, thus speaks of a recent trot at the Union Course — something like which, has sometimes been seen elsewhere:

With the exception of a bare summary of the trot, there is but little to record of the race that would interest our readers, and that little, we are sorry to say, is not at all of a laudatory nature, so far as the conduct of the race was concerned. With an independence defying all precedents, the judges, scorning all turf rules and regulations, allowed the horses to go just as the drivers wished them. When it suited them to trot, they of course were allowed to trot; and when it pleased them to gallop or start into a run at the top of their speed, the judges looked on complacently. It did not matter to them whether the horses ran twenty yards or half a mile, if either could defeat his opponent or save his distance thereby.

This looseness in turf matters is of too frequent occurrence, and should be frowned down by all right-minded turfmen. When the public go to see a trot, they do not desire to be humbugged; and when men stake their money on a race, they expect "fair play and no gouging." Though the judges are to blame, those who wink at their shortcomings are equally culpable.

☞ The school teachers, clergymen, and other professionals, are enjoying their summer vacation about this time. Among the rest, our good City Clerk is on a boating trip to the cool and grand old Bay of Fundy, and Rev. Mr. DeNormandie of the Stone Church has a brief respite in absence. These are two of the most public-spirited, laborious and valuable men in the city, and we hope much refreshing and recuperation for them in their relief from business.

☞ The Portsmouth City Farm has completed Haying, housing about 95 good ox-loads. The last year's crop of 105 tons was recently shipped to Boston, at about $18, pressed.

☞ Mr. John W. Pickering, while at work at Seavey's Island in the sea sand, a day or two since, dug up a Pine Tree Shilling dated 1652, the figures and lettering being perfect.

☞ Interesting correspondence from the Shoals will be found on our fourth page.

PICTURES OF APPLEDORE,

ISLES OF SHOALS, July 6.

The cluster of islands which forms the Isles of Shoals are Smutty Nose, Hog, Duck, Cedar, and Malaga, belonging to the State of Maine, and Star, White, and Londoner's, belonging to New Hampshire.

Appledore, or Hog Island, as it was originally called, is one of the largest of the group, and is the only one which is classed as a Summer watering place. Here we have a first-class hotel, called the Appledore House, and it is beginning to be, and soon will be, crowded with guests. The hotel, and the cottages immediately connected with it, are now the only buildings on the island, with the exception of one fisherman's hut.

There are, however, the remains of a town on the southwest side of the island, still visible in the tumbled-down walls, which seem to have surrounded each dwelling. Also a few mounds marking the graves of some who were buried here; but nothing else to indicate that there was once here a flourishing village. In or about the year 1640, there were some thirty or forty dwellings, besides a meeting-house, and afterwards there was quite a flourishing seminary, where some of the first men of New Hampshire and Maine were educated. This village was in existence until the war of 1812, when for some reason which I have not yet ascertained, it was abandoned or destroyed and never afterwards restored. Not a stick of timber—nothing in fact, as I have said, remains but the old stone walls and the graveyard to mark the spot which was once surrounded with all the enjoyments of life.

At what time the seminary was established or was in existence, I have not been able to ascertain; but as both the sexes enjoyed its benefits, it must have been some time after its first settlement, for at that time and for some years afterwards the inhabitants consisted entirely of the male gender, a selfish lot of old bachelors or husbands who had run away from their wives, no doubt. They didn't seem to be in good humor with the fair sex, for they got a law established forbidding women from living on the island.

A curious memorial, presented to the Court in the year 1647, reflects some light upon the faint delineations of those times:

The humble petition of Richard Cutts and John Cutting, showeth—That, contrary to our order, or act of court, which says: "No woman shall live on the Isles of Shoals," John Reynolds has brought his wife hither, with an intention to live and abide. He also hath brought upon Hog Island a great stock of goats and swine, which, by destroying much fish, do great damages to your petitioners, and others; and also spoil the spring of water upon the island, rendering it unfit for any manner of use, which affords the only relief and supply to all the rest of the islands. Your petitioners therefore pray that the act of court may be put in execution for the removal of all women from inhabiting there, and that the said Reynolds may be ordered to remove his goats and swine from the islands without delay.

The goats and swine were removed, but "it was thought fit by the Court" that "if no further complaint came against Reynold's wife, she may enjoy the company of her husband."

What a splendid illustration of woman's rights in those days! And the idea of classing women among goats and swine!

In 1661, the Isles of Shoals were inhabited by about forty families. Being places of note and great resort, the General Court incorporated them into a town, by the name of Appledore, so named after an English town, from which place the original settlers of the Isles came.

The views of and from Appledore are at all times interesting, picturesque, and beautiful, and sometimes, especially during heavy storms, exceedingly grand and sublime.

I cannot undertake to describe these views and scenes in my own language when I am able to resort and refer you to Lowell's graphic "Pictures from Appledore."

Before coming here, as I know some of your readers may (and will, if they take my advice), during the present and coming hot weather, read, by all means, Lowell's "Pictures from Appledore."

Here we are away from the dust and heat of the main land, with splendid breezes full of health, and almost inspiring in their character.

During the hottest months the atmosphere is of a remarkably even temperature, pure and invigorating, the mercury seldom rising above 75 deg. nor falling below 60, and rarely varying more than 4 or 5 degrees during the day. Such an uniformity of temperature renders it highly beneficial to persons of delicate constitutions, and particularly to those with weak lungs.

If you have not read "Pictures of Appledore," do so at once, or if you have, come up on to these rough old rocks, and read them again. With your eyes open, you can readily see how easy a matter is a poet, and how easy it was for Lowell to drink in an inspiration which has given us those beautiful pictures.

Look at the island itself:

"A heap of bare and splintery crags,
Tumbled about by lightning and frost,
With rifts and chasms, and storm-bleached jags,
That wait and growl for a ship to be lost;
No island, but rather the skeleton
Of a wrecked and vengeance-smitten one."

"Ribs of rock that seaward jut,
Granite shoulders and breast bare and magnificent,
Round which, though the winds in heaven be shut,
The nightmared ocean murmurs and frets,
Writers, and swashes, and toses, and turns,
And the dreary black sea-weed lolls and wags."

"And under all a deep, dull roar,
Dying and swelling forevermore—
Rock and moan and war alone,
And the dread of some nameless thing unknown—
These make Appledore."

"And on the whole island never a tree
Save a score of sumachs, high as your knee,
A score of sheep that do nothing but stare
Up and down at you everywhere;
These are the cattle that chew the cud,
Lying about in a listless despair."

But all this, he says, shows us only a common island.

"But stay a moment; only climb
Up to the highest rock of the isle,
Stand there alone for a little while,
And with gentle approaches it grows sublime,
Dilating slowly as you win
A sense from the silence to take it in."

"Only be sure you go alone,
For Grandeur is inaccessibly proud,
And never yet has backward thrown
Her veil to feel the stare of a crowd."

"She hides her mountains and her sea
From the barriers of scenery,
Who hunt down sunsets, and huddle and bay,
Mouthing and mumbling the dying day."

And then you are expected to see the sights which the poet pictures. Whether you will or no depend altogether upon the spirit within yourselves, and the process you adopt to bring it out.

I would give a hundred days of sunshine if I could be here to see "How looks Appledore in a storm?"

I am told by those who have been here and witnessed the raging of the Storm King, that no written description can more than faintly portray its grandeur. I can readily imagine it to be so, after looking at the terrible havoc the waves have made against the rocky shore. But "How looks Appledore in a storm!

I have seen it when its crags seemed frantic,
Butting against the mad Atlantic,
When surge on surge would heap enorme;
Cliffs of emerald, tipped with snow,
That lifted and then let go,
A great avalanche of thunder,
A grinding, blinding, deafening ire
Monadnock might have trembled under.
North, East, and South there are reefs and breakers
You would never dream of in smooth weather,
Bellowing, and gnashing, and snarling together."

And after witnessing the effect of the storm at a distance:

"You, meanwhile, where drenched you stand,
Awaken once more to the rush and roar,
And on the nearest tighter your hand,
As you turn and see a valley deep
That was not there a moment before.
Such rattling down between you and a heap
Of toppling billow, whose instant fall
Must sink the whole island once for all,
Or watch the silenter, stealthier seas
Feeling their way to you more and more;
If they once should clutch you high as the knees,
They would whirl you down like a sprig of kelp,
Beyond all reach of hope or help:—
And such is a storm is Appledore."

On a quiet day like this on which I am writing, it is not easy to imagine such a scene, for there is to-day

"A general dazzle of open blue."

But we can look down on the storm-polished rocks and imperfectly fancy what the poet describes. How the old sea must come thundering in, and maddened at its rough reception, dash its wild spray high into the air and make the whole island tremble as the waves strike the rocks.

Sunrise and sunset from this island "are sights of a lifetime to behold." And then the nights!

"Know you what silence was before?
Here is no startle of dreaming bird
That sings in his sleep, or strives to sing;
Here is no sough of branches, stirred,
Nor noise of any living thing,
Such as one hears by night on shore:
Only, now and then, a sigh,
Such as Andromeda might have heard,
And fancied the huge sea-beast unseen
Turning in sleep, it is the sea
That welters and wavers uneasily
Round the lonely reefs of Appledore."

There—I think I have quoted enough of these Appledore pictures to prompt a full reading by all who have not yet entered this "art gallery."

Nothing can be finer or more invigorating than the sailing around these islands. The Messrs. Laighton, who own this and the neighboring island of "Smutty Nose" (what a poetic name!) are the proprietors of the hotel here, and it is enough to say "they know how to keep a hotel." No pains are spared to provide everything their guests require to make them happy and comfortable, and consequently they have two fine yachts and any number of small sail and row-boats.

The fishing is also all that any one could desire who is fond of pulling up twenty, thirty, or forty pound cod-fish, as can any day be done within a mile of the island.

I say again—read "Pictures from Appledore," and then come down here and realize the poet's description. A. M.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF
REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.
WHY
is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the cure of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?
BECAUSE
it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent which converts the food into a life-sustaining agent; and also because it relaxes the bowels without weakening them, and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.
WHY is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal disorders, and for dropsy?
BECAUSE
it combines the properties of a mild diuretic sudorific with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.
WHY
is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?
BECAUSE
rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the alkaline of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the venous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.
WHY
is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?
BECAUSE
it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and by diaphoresis, cleansing effect upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.
In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient nothing is set forth which is not justified by testimony of competent medical men.

The Chronicle.

PLEASING INCIDENT.—The Providence Journal says a private letter mentions an impressive scene witnessed a few Sundays ago in Rev. Mr. Spurgeon's tabernacle, in London. Rev. Professor Park of Andover, who is now traveling in Europe for the benefit of his health, chanced to be one of the vast congregation present. Mr. Spurgeon, being made aware of the fact, insisted that he should take part in administering the Sacrament, introducing him to the congregation as his "venerable and beloved friend." The occasion is described as having been most impressive and affecting. The hymn book used by Mr. Spurgeon's congregation is the one prepared some years ago by Prof. Park.

THE MAIN CAUSE OF CRIME.—A country paper in Pennsylvania, after a long report of the proceedings of the criminal court, called the attention of the moral and religious portion of the community, and of the tax-payers generally, to the fact that every case before the court was the direct result of the use of intoxicating liquor. "In other words, if there had been no liquor used in Huntingdon county, there would not have been a single criminal case for trial."

It is just about the same in all the counties in the country; and why in the world the sober and thinking people of this nation do not rise en masse and put an end to it, as they did to slavery, is one of the horrible mysteries. We must throttle this monster (alcohol) or it will destroy us.—Exch.

—Some years ago the Emperor of the French was astonished at the great space occupied by flour when packed in sacks in the usual manner, and imagined that it might be compressed into a much smaller bulk, and be thus rendered easier of transport. He at once authorized some experiments to be made on the subject, which resulted in the flour being submitted to powerful hydraulic pressure, and served to the various regiments in tin cases, not only occupying a very small bulk, but protecting the flour from the damp of the atmosphere, and so preventing it from becoming mouldy.

SOLDIER'S MONUMENTS.—"Is not Mr. Ware thoroughly and wholly right in his 'Wall-Nuts,' xxvi, where he says, 'I hope no money shall go into marble or bronze, so long as one shattered remnant of humanity grinds out his existence on a city curbstone, or one sightless orb appeals for wayside charity,'" asks the Christian Register; then answers its question with, "We say 'Amen' to this 'with all our powers of heart and tongue.' Never was there such an inversion of the order of duty and charity, as in this matter of monuments to our patriotic dead."

—It is stated that while John H. Sims of Syracuse was a convict in the State prison at Auburn, and employed in packing goods for Howland & Company, the tool-making contractors, he, with the aid of other convicts and a clerk named Tenrick, sent out goods to various localities to the value of $20,000. Suits have been commenced against Sims, Ezra Brown of Macedon, Wayne County, and Henry Tenrick of Auburn, for the value of the goods. These parties have been arrested and held to bail in $5000 each.

—Rev. S. S. Burton, a Methodist minister of Chatauqua County has just been tried, by his church, on the serious charge of having said that he believed many Universalists would be saved, and acquitted, the charge not having been proved against him. "Do you believe everybody will be saved?" asked an anxious old lady of one whose orthodoxy was suspected. "Well, it is possible that a few will be lost." "Ah, well," said the old lady, drawing a sigh of relief, "that's better than nothing."

—The Richmond (Va.) Journal, which warmly supported Gov. Wells in the recent election, expresses confidence in Gov. Walker's declaration of devotion to Republican principles, and believes that the men who carried the election for him begin to distrust him, and will oppose him and the measures he advocates.

—The Czar of Russia has decreed that all parents forcing their children to marry or to enter monasteries or convents shall be liable to a punishment of from four months to one year's imprisonment, besides any punishment that may be inflicted by the religious authorities.

—The corn crop of the United States for 1868 was nine hundred millions of bushels; of this about four millions were exported. The wheat crop was two hundred and twenty-five millions of bushels, and of this the larger portion was exported either in bulk or in flour.

—A nurse in Rottingdean, England, tired of a baby, and threw it over a precipice 100 feet high. She has had no further trouble with it.

—A good way to find a woman out—Call when she isn't at home.

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1863.
REMEMBERED FRIEND:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without anybody advising me to it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [je15 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

PERFECT ADVICE.—It is an old saying, that all Advice is freely and cheaply given, except Medical and Legal. We have been much amused by some of the editorial advice given to the Temperance Women of Dover. One paper suggests that they begin at the wrong end,—and says:—

Nothing but the most solid grounding in religious principles can really avail. This no one can give so well as the parents, and especially the mother. Let her be unsparing in her instruction, and, as the powers of body and mind develope, leave no chance for an evilly disposed playmate to whisper slyly into the youthful ear knowledge which, without a mother's watchfulness, may work infinite mischief.

If the writer of the above paragraph had brought up many children, and had watched over them side by side with one of the best of mothers, he would never have prescribed such a task for parents, especially for the mother. He would have learned, long ago, that it is utterly impossible to prevent the whispers of evil playmates, or to leave no chance for unprofitable or dangerous counsel.

The same writer says further:—

We venture to suggest that these mothers and sisters examine themselves to see whether they have done their whole duty at home and be sure they are right, there, before they sally forth on a raid for the reformation of others. They can certainly save their own sons if they begin and go on rightly.

Certainly is a very strong word in such a place,—and sounds as if uttered by a novice in family matters. If the editor or writer should happen to bring up half a dozen or half a score of sons, he would probably find, that under the same training some would go one way and some another.

That the mothers and sisters should consider whether they are doing right at home, is a good suggestion;—but that they should not do anything abroad till they have done everything at home, is an impertinent assertion. Let parents do their best, by all means:—but the certainty of success is beyond their knowledge or power.

☞ On Saturday afternoon an unknown man sold a forged city warrant for $233 to a broker in Thirtieth street, in Philadelphia, received the broker's check for the amount, and left. Five minutes afterwards the forgery was discovered, and the clerk ran to the bank to stop payment of the check, and finding that it had not been presented, laid in wait till the bank closed, expecting the forger to come. Meantime the forger had stepped across the street from the place where he had sold the warrant, to another broker, and resold the check for gold and disappeared.

☞ The Republicans of Montana have nominated James Tufts for Delegate to Congress. He was speaker of the first Legislature in Idaho, and has been acting Governor of Montana since Green Clay Smith resigned the place. Mr. Tufts is a native of New Hampshire. He has been one of the most active men in the Territory in promoting its interests, and his nomination is heartily indorsed by the local press.

NEGROES KIDNAPPED AND KILLED. The Augusta, Ga., Constitutionalist, states that a disguised party visited the jail at Appling, Columbia County, and took therefrom a negro man and woman who were found dead on the road, Sunday morning. The negroes had had a difficulty with a white family.

☞ Contrary to the previous statement that Elisha C. Sprague has acquiesced in the judgement of the court at Wheaton, which required him to pay $40,000 to Miss Amanda J. Craig, of Cincinnati, for breach of promise, that gentleman has appealed to the Supreme Court of Illinois for a writ of error.

DUXBURY, MASS., celebrated the completion of the French Atlantic Cable, on Tuesday. Real estate has doubled in value within ten days. Duxbury is but a few miles from where the Pilgrims landed from the Mayflower, 250 years ago. Duxbury is as near Plymouth as Plymouth is near Duxbury.

TURKS ISLAND SALT.—A letter dated Turks Island, July 6, received by a mercantile house in this city, states that the last sales of salt at that place had been made at 12 1-2 cents per bushel, and there was very little of the article to be purchased at any price.

ON A FEW GOOD BOOKS.

BY REV. I. F. HOLTON, SO. MALDEN, MASS.

Concluded.

But I must come down from these high themes to—Chemistry. I have long regarded this science as on the brink of some great revolution. Indeed we seem to have crept into one much before the old fogies (I. F. H. included) were willing. I got trapped into it unawares, and then a special duty called me to the extreme front of the advanced views. An expert in the old chemistry needs a pioneer in the new science. Take for this the Manual of Inorganic Chemistry, of the Mass. Institute of Technology, by Chas. W. Elliot and Frank H. Storer. I have not a very small library of inorganic chemistry, but I would give at least half of all I had in it for this one book. I think it would do any physician good to make a conscience of reading this book; also let the gentleman of education happily blessed with leisure which I have not, pitch that serial into the paper-barrel and take Elliot & Storer or Storer & Elliot, and be a man.

Kerl's Grammars — First Lessons, Common School, and Comprehensive,—are the best series I have met with. The latter supplies a want my library has long felt. As for the others, I have never tied a class of beginners to a grammar, and I never will till I find a better and a very different one from any I have yet seen. Some, I remember, were thin quartos. These First Lessons, which a certain ten-year-old girl I wot of has gone through in the last fifteen months with considerable credit, is probably large enough to fit a student for Yale College. Grammar is the only metaphysics in the common-school course. It ought therefore never to be omitted, and the Common School, which is probably the best used in the High Schools of New England, is none too much for its title. But for a gentleman's study I judge the Comprehensive just the thing. I get no clue to the author, with his somewhat Teutonic name, saving that he was christened Simon and has been "adorned" with the degree of Master of Arts. I think he must have been quietly working up this matter exhaustively while others have been making books on half a dozen subjects. The publishers are Ivison, Phinney & Co.

One more book, a small book of travels in a country that we do not have many books on. The region is the coast of New England, and the book is Robert Carter's Summer Cruise. Carter was not Robert, the bookseller, but a Tribune correspondent at Washington who went with a naturalist of the U. S. Exploring Expedition. The naturalist's presence infuses into the correspondent's writing quite a flavor of marine zoology. It in fact led me to look for an index, and its presence would have suggested an attempt to dose one with zoology under the guise of narrative. I wish the index had been there, and still the book would have been as fresh or rather salt reading by the seaside as one would wish. The book is published by Woodworth, Ainsworth & Co., just large enough for the pocket.

I was gladdened by a discovery on going into Ditson's for a song-book I despised. I found the easiest books to teach vocal music from, that I suppose to exist. They are the Musical A.B.C., and the Musical Spelling-book, both by E. Ives. I can say no more now than that he who learns to sing by this system has taken a grand step towards learning to play on any instrument,—and vice versa. I would give five times as much to have these books put into our schools than any other one book.

There! I am through my pile of books. I have examined them rather less than usual; but in the thirteen years that I have written to you about books I think I have not made many mistakes.

Now for the monster concerts. I found in the Colloseum, as the word should be, more of music and less of noise than I expected. I wonder at that, for while there were less than three and a half acres to fill with sound there was about an acre of the space given to the production of that article. But I was too busy to go till Friday, and by that time that acre had been cropped so much that it was quite weedy. Very many in the chorus seats were not pretending to sing. The singing there had been quite exhausting. Some sat in silence; others had lent their tickets to dummies.

I had a theory that the acre with even perfect skill could not blend their sounds well. This was not verified to the extent I expected. The sounds if uttered in perfect time must reach the center from the outside voices a sixth of a second late. This is a considerable affair in sixteenth notes, as one could see in watching the "Hallelujahs," which were probably sung in time. Two other things, however, that I feared a thousand times more, did not happen. One was that either the orchestra or chorus might prove unmanageable. The other was a panic, which might well have cost five hundred lives. Financially the scheme was a success: for it took the money and satisfied the people, even good judges of music. But esthetically it was a dead failure. No blind man would have given much for one thirty-thousandth of Adelaide Phillips' song, though as a tour de force it was wonderful. I think her every note could have been heard by every one. There must have been places, too, where but one part of the music could be heard. But from every point could be seen a sea of faces. And it paid.

A NAVAL COURT-MARTIAL of great interest is to come off in Washington city. It is that of Surgeon Charles L. Greene, late of the steamer Nipsic, just returning from the Cuban waters, on charges preferred by Commander Selfridge for disobedience of orders, in refusing to discharge one of the seamen from the sick list. One point in the case will be whether the surgeon or the captain of a vessel is the proper official to say when a sick man is fit for duty. The more important point is whether a commander can give such an order to a surgeon, and this turns on Admiral Porter's pet theory as to the relative rank of line and staff officers. Capt. Davenport is president of the court.

[Common sense would suggest that the Surgeon should know better than any one else whether the seaman was sick or well.]

—Last Wednesday, Newland Perkins of Troy Vt., 98 years of age, spread an acre of stout grass in three hours, and raked and tumbled up hay until five o'clock in the afternoon. Few men of his age can boast of such a day's work.

☞ Edward Halpine, an elderly man, fell over an embankment at Niagara Falls, near Table Rock, on Monday evening, a distance of 180 feet. He was instantly killed.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

☞ There are valuables which will be received into the vaults of a bank only on reference and many others that will not be received on any terms. Towns possessing no suitable place of deposit often lose valuable records and papers, impossible to replace, by fire or robbery. The UNION SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS, 40 State Street, Boston, were instituted to remedy these evils, and their great success has only been commensurate with their true deserts. Individual safes are rented from $20 to $100 a year. Circulars of Henry Lee, Manager. jy14

WITH DYSPEPTICS everything is wrong Food does not digest; sleep does not refresh wine does not cheer; smiles do not glad den music does not charm, nor can any other joy enter the breast of the miserable dyspeptic. You must get rid of it or it will become seated and confirmed, and life will be a burden and existence a curse. PLANTATION BITTERS will do away with all this. New life, strength and energy will take possession of you. The damask will again mantle upon your cheek, and the lustre in your eye will again be as bright as in your healthiest, happiest and most joyous days. jy15

Dr. Speer, of New Jersey, makes an excellent cough lozenge, highly celebrated among medical gentlemen in our large cities, and used in hospitals as a superior article. Physicians recommend it as an invaluable article for weakness and general debility. FACIS FOR THE LADIES.—I have one of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing-Machines, which has been in constant use for the past fifteen (15) years. It has been used in making heavy clothing, bedding and all manner of family sewing, and I think it gets better every day.

Dr. Ham's Aromatic Invigorator removes from the system the ill effects caused by the excessive use of alcoholic liquors, and effectually destroys the appetite for these stimulants. It gives tone to debilitated mucous surfaces. Effete matter is removed from the system, thereby relieving that loathsome and painful condition. As a medicine, it is quick and effectual, curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsia, Kidney Complaints, and all other derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, in a speedy manner.

This elegant preparation has stood the test of years. A wine-glassful before eating will give a good appetite and prevent all suffering from indigestion. Ladies of weak and delicate constitutions should take the Invigorator three times a day. A wine-glassful before retiring will insure sweet and refreshing sleep. All the proprietor asks is a trial, and to induce this he has put up the Invigorator in pint bottles at 50 cents,—quarts $1.00. Principal Depot, 45 CENTRAL WHARF, BOSTON. SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direlliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) expurged them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced upon it again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main help" of the faculty, in cases of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When an invalid is prostrated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated; and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the holding up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfectly safe, vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the system against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, even in the worst of cases.

In summer, when the enfeebling temperature renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. jy21

Holloway's Ointment.—Dropsical swellings can only be reduced in two ways—by absorption and evaporation. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT acts powerfully and beneficially upon the vessels which perform these functions. It invigorates the absorbents, and promotes the expulsory action of the pores. Among all the external complaints for which the Ointment is an acknowledged specific, there is none in which it works greater wonders than in dropsical cases. Sold by all Druggists. jy28

THE LATEST DISCOVERY

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a Lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but embodying all the remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and portions of which that dangerous excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor before he received perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal properties of its compounds has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the various affections to which the feebler sex are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among proprietary preparations or the prescriptions of the regular pharmacopœia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenges, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared in Swatow after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native assistants assured me that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved invaluable to us, and to hundreds of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours, J. M. JOHNSON.

Missionary at Swatow, China.

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons for the head (for that is their proper designation,) with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that

CRISTADORO'S DYE IS UTTERLY POISONLESS,

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life confirmed, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the enfeebled intellect.

General Pace, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are unrivalled.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pills of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other medicines had failed.

A gentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 21, by the disease. He had cough, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to try Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. 1ly22

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, and while it is a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physicians. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is over more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, jel5

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the digestive powers become good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, from when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing the obstructions, causing the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the fettered liver and set the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach and gives the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is taken into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the night sweats, to heal the lungs, when all this time they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks to the grave.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased; either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, and the whole system is prostrated by the wasting. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver part from their power to make blood out of food. Now, the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a healthy appetite, clean the liver, the patient will begin to want food, digest it well, and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When the disease has long disease and gone Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to die. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since has restored many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 85 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y1s4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE HARVARD CREW are to practice daily until the race with the Oxfords, which comes off August 23 or one of the following days. The Harvards made their first appearance on the river Thames, on Tuesday, in their American boat, and created a decided sensation.

☞ Hon. Agustus O. Allen, a former Massachusetts State Senator and prominent member of the Suffolk Bar, has become insane. While being taken from Duxbury to Kingston, on Tuesday, he stabbed Deputy State Constable Noonan in the forehead, inflicting a painful but not serious wound. He was taken to the Insane Asylum. Mr. Allen had been married about three months.

THE TROTTING at Rockingham Park, Wednesday afternoon, afforded plenty of good sport, as we expected. In the match for $250 a side, between Empress of Boston and Nellie Locke of Portsmouth,—Empress was the favorite in the betting, and most of the spectators appeared to think she would be an easy winner. But Nellie won handily in three straight heats, best time 2:39 1-2 — not very fast, but the track was dry and loose, and Empress apparently not in good condition; while Nellie was fine as a fiddle, and in the hands of Hiram Woodruffe, trotted steady as a clock.

The judges for both trots were Messrs. Thomas F. Baker of Boston, R. M. Perley of Newburyport, and F. C. Ham of New Durham. Wm. Woodruffe drove Empress, as usual; but she was easily beaten, as Mr. Locke (and he almost alone of all we saw,) was confident she would be, from the first.

Empress drew the pole, in the toss for place, but Nellie took it from her at the first turn, and came in a winner of the first heat in 2:39 1-2. Empress breaking frequently and acting badly.

The second heat was very much the same, and Nellie had it in 2:39 3-4.

For the third heat, Empress made a struggle at the start; and Nellie breaking, lost the pole, and as they entered the back stretch, Empress was several lengths ahead; but Nellie outfooted her easily, and came in winner of the heat and race in 2:43 1-2.

And after all Nellie's accidents and bad luck this season, we congratulate Mr. Locke on the success of his fine mare.

Time 2:39½, 2:39¾, 2:43½.

For the second match of $400, between Rosa of Dover and Martin Luther of New Durham, there was more of a struggle, and the big horse trotted faster than ever before. Harry Bradley of Boston, a well-known sharp driver, and one often ruled foul, drove the mare; and after the first heat, Steve Hayes of Boston drove Martin. Rosa has a trifle more speed, but is less steady than the horse; and being a quicker scorer, Bradley caused numerous false starts, as is his wont. But finally the judges sent them off, and the mare took the first heat in 2:44 1-4.

The second was about ditto, the big horse not making a skip in either. But though Rosa came in ahead, she broke and ran so often and so much, and was evidently allowed to do so on the home-stretch by her driver, that the heat was given to Martin, (and we think the race should have been) in 2:47 1-2.

For the third heat, after six false starts, the judges placed the horses on a line, and even then there were two more attempts—and finally Bradley got the advantage somewhat which he was striving for, and at once took the pole from Luther and won the heat in 2:47 3-4, and the fourth and race in 2:48.

WHAT NAME, SIR?—We recently referred to a strange change in the given names of a couple of our fellow workmen in printing offices. Of one of these, that of Mr. Ichabod N. Fernald, now of the Boston Wide World newspaper, who when here was always called John, he speaks himself as follows:

In regard to the change of names, the above has brought to mind an incident that occurred to us as the result of our double and treble name. We attended the South Parish Sabbath School in Portsmouth, some ten or twelve years during our minority. It was customary then, once a quarter, we believe, for the superintendent to read before the school the names of those who deserved mention or some reward of merit for punctuality and good behavior. The Superintendent of the school, at the time to which we refer, was the respected James F. Shores, sen., and our teacher, Mr. Joseph B. Upham.

The Sabbath on which the names were to be read off came around, and one of the scholars in our class, always as full of roguery as he could hold, knowing of the various appendages applied to our sirname, quietly gave to the superintendent all the appellations we had been blessed with,—accidental and baptismal—as the correct designation of our individual self. After reading a few names, the worthy superintendent came to a rather long one. He contracted his brows, re-adjusted his glasses, inclined his head nearer the paper, and read, distinctly. "John Ichabod Nichols Fernald!" There was an audible titter all over the room, the teacher looked amazed at the victim of names, and he "looked daggers" at the waggish informer, who stuffed his handkerchief nearly down his throat to keep his laughter within bounds.

BASE BALL.—The national game seems to have been sadly neglected of late, hereabouts, and we are glad to hear that efforts are to be made to put a good nine in practice for play. There is enough material for a very good nine, about town, and it is proposed to have a practice game at the Plains, next Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. The Sanger Brothers (whose fine playing last year will be remembered) with the swift pitcher of the old Rockinghams, and others from the Granite State and Mutual Clubs, can make up a nine not easy to handle. At the beaches there are quite a number of ball players who would like to renew the contests which last year caused so much interest. Perhaps, too, the Kearsarge nine, of Concord, wouldn't object to playing a full game with the proposed new nine.

THE TORPEDO CORPS.—It is reported that the Navy Department is about to organize a torpedo corps. Stations will be established at Portsmouth, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Pensacola and Mare Island. As many officers as may be required will be assigned to duty at the different naval stations under the Inspectors of Ordnance. They will carefully examine the channels of the harbors under their supervision, and select such places as will be best suited for obstructions.

ODD FELLOWS were those who picnic-ed at Dow's Grove on Tuesday and played a seven-innings game of base ball. As Brown hath it they were "nonvitiates," and appreciated their day's liberty so much that with only six men to a side they made 112 runs—60 to 52—and returned leg weary at night-fall.

Don't they deserve especial mention for keeping so busy all the time? The poor fellows were inquiring next day what should they do to get limber again, and Messrs. Thacher and Preston made large sales of arnica and newrum. It's a good rule never to take ones exercise by wholesale, and above all things base ball should be taken in small doses at first, with slight increase of quantity as practice gets one used to it.

THE LATE HON. SAM'L D. BELL.

BY HON. CHAS. H. BELL.

It is seldom that a life has been passed of greater usefulness than that of the late Chief Justice Bell, of New Hampshire. He was never in the most conspicuous field of public employment, nor were his labors of a character to awaken the popular admiration; but for many years he occupied a most important and responsible position in his State, and the service he rendered to the community was constant, and of inestimable value.

Samuel Dana Bell, was born in Francestown, N. H., Oct. 9, 1798. His father was Hon. Samuel Bell, L. L. D., a judge of the Superior Court, four years governor of New Hampshire, and twelve years a senator of the United States; his mother was a daughter of Hon. Samuel Dana, of Amherst, N. H. He manifested, at an early day, the love of study which distinguished him thro' life. He entered Harvard College in his fourteenth year, and was graduated in the class of 1816. He then commenced the study of the law in the office of Hon. George Sullivan of Exeter, and was admitted to the bar of the county of Rockingham early in the year 1829.

The first few months of his professional life he passed in Meredith, in the present county of Belknap, but within the year he established himself in Chester, then a town of some note, and the home of several gentlemen of cultivation and distinction. Entering into practice there, he soon acquired the reputation of being a sagacious, learned and trustworthy lawyer, and obtained an ample business and the full confidence of the community. In the year 1823, he was appointed solicitor of the county of Rockingham for the term of five years; in 1825 and 1826, he was elected a representative in the State legislature, and in the latter year was placed upon a commission to revise the statutes of the State; in 1827 and 1828, he was chosen clerk of the house of representatives, and in the latter year was re-appointed county solicitor, which office, however, he declines.

Mr. Bell remained in Chester ten years, and then took up his residence in Exeter, the half shire-town of the county of Rockingham, where he discharged the duties of cashier of the Exeter Bank for some years, though without relinquishing his legal studies, or even the whole of his practice.

In 1836, he determined to devote his entire time to his profession, and with that view removed to Concord, the capital of the State; but it soon being apparent that Manchester was to become the leading town of New Hampshire, and upon receiving the appointment of general attorney to the company chiefly concerned in its advancement, he determined to make that place his home and fixed his residence there in 1839.

In 1840, Mr. Bell was placed at the head of a commission for another revision of the statutes. To this work, the greater part of which fell to his share, he gave unwearied care and research. It was completed in about two years, and in a manner which admirably met the urgent wants of the legal profession and of the community.

In 1846, Manchester had found the need of a city charter, and Mr. Bell, at the time of the leading citizens, accepted the office of judge of the Police Court, which he held long enough to fix upon that tribunal the impress of his own accurate and systematic habits; and, two years later, he received the appointment of circuit judge of the Common Pleas throughout the State. This office he held until 1849, when he was placed upon the bench of the Superior Court—the highest tribunal of the State. In 1859, he was elected to the position of chief justice, which he retained until his resignation in 1864.

It was his intention from this time to relinquish all professional employment, and he declined every retainer, even those of a permanent and lucrative character, and which were offered him in a form to encroach little upon his pursuits or leisure. In 1866, however, on being again appointed at the head of a commission to revise the statutes, he did not refuse his assent, but with his usual diligence and fidelity acquitted himself of the arduous duty, which was accomplished so speedily, that the work was before the legislature in season to be adopted at the ordinary brief session in 1867.

This was the last public service upon which Judge Bell was engaged. His health had been delicate for some years before, and about this time he was prostrated by an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, from which he never recovered. He lingered in a condition of great helplessness for a year after, bearing his privation, and occasional sufferings, with cheerfulness, and died at his residence in Manchester, on the 31st day of July, 1868.

Judge Bell received from nature an inquiring disposition, a retentive memory, and a love of order and method; to which he added habits of untiring application. He was never inclined to out-door occupations, and almost the whole of his time, out of the court-room, was passed in his office or library. He found his amusement and recreation, as well as his employment, in his books and pen.

His profession was, of course, the first object of his study. He pursued it to an extent, and in directions, far beyond the usual range of lawyers, even of the foremost rank. He not only made himself master of the common-law and equity systems, from the work of the early sages of the profession down to the latest reported cases, but was scarcely less familiar with the civil law the French code, the jurisprudence of Scotland, and even the legislation of each of the United States. From all these sources he drew reasons, analogies and illustrations, to fortify and enrich his judicial opinions.

He possessed rare personal qualifications for a position upon the bench. Dignified in appearance and bearing, he was distinguished for patience and courtesy. He made abundant allowance for the diffident and the slow; but he had no tolerance for conceit and impudence. He had all an honorable man's aversion to meaness and the lower arts of the profession; he used his position and authority to promote no partisan or partial purposes. Knowing no favorites, he rather imposed severer terms on those whom he might be expected to favor, when they chanced to ask for some indulgence from the court.

Concluded to-morrow.

Bears, outside of the chained stock, appeared at the Crawford House week before last, and helped themselves to good fat mutton that had been obtained for better paying guests. Two sheep were taken by them in the yard within twenty yards of the hotel.

In a communication to the Mirror, W. H. Howard of Temple states that between two roosters and twenty-eight hens he got 1927 eggs, beginning with January and closing with June. The eggs, manure and chickens brought him $52.89, leaving a balance over expenses of $39.29.

During the high wind on Friday afternoon the frame of the new Methodist church steeple in Keene, was blown down. It had been erected but a short time previous, and had not been sufficiently stayed for so trying a test.—Fortunately, no one was injured, and the damage done was inconsiderable, as the work fell into the street, merely breaking some of the timbers, and causing a few days' delay. It is now up again and being rapidly completed.

On Monday afternoon, George F. Hall, of Lyme, employed on the Concord and Montreal Railroad, while looking out of the door of a baggage car, near West Rumney, was struck on the back of his head by a bridge. He was taken to Plymouth. His recovery is doubtful.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ATTENTION OF REFLECTING INVALIDS is invited to the following observations. The questions are such as the sick would be likely to ask; the replies are simple facts clothed in language that everybody can understand.

WHY is TARRANT'S EFFERVESCENT SELTZER APERIENT adapted to the care of INDIGESTION and its concomitants?

BECAUSE it tones the membranes of the stomach and promotes the secretion of the gastic juice, the solvent of food; it stimulates the bowels (the sole sustaining agent; and also because it relieves the bowels without weakening them; and moderately stimulates the bile-producing organ.

WHY is it recommended for obstructions in the kidneys and other renal diseases, and for dropsy?

BECAUSE it combines the properties of a mild diuretic saline with those of a local and general invigorant, and by promoting perspiration relieves the blood of a large amount of morbid matter which would otherwise vitiate the secretions.

WHY is it prescribed for rheumatism, and claimed to be eminently beneficial in all the varieties of that disease?

BECAUSE rheumatism is caused by the inflammatory action of an acid in the blood upon the fibres, membranes and ligaments; and the salines of the Seltzer Aperient being absorbed into the veinous system tend to neutralize the vitiating principle.

WHY is it given by the faculty in all disorders of a febrile character?

BECAUSE it opens the pores, reduces the temperature of the body, calms the nerves, and acts as a moderate evacuant, and has a refreshing effort upon the whole system. Of all fever drinks it is the most cooling and delightful.

In this brief summary of the virtues of Tarrant's Effervescent Aperient nothing is set down for truth which is not justified by testimony of competent medial men.

MY WELCOME SERENADE.

BY DANIEL A. DROWN.

Still remembered, though dark shadows
Yet obscure my weary way,
For the sunshine of your gladness
Cheered my heart anew to-day;
And I welcomed the sweet offering,
Generous friends thus proffered me,
While unseen I eager listen
To each note so gatefully.

Earnest seeking health and pleasure,
Where the cooling breezes blow,
Thoughtfully awhile you lingered,
Proofs of kindliness to show
One who cannot pluck the flowers
Which adorn your pleasant way,
Nor behold those scenes of beauty
Which invite a long delay.

Though I cannot share the pastimes
Now the freedom others know,
In whose breasts a youthful vigor
And a buoyant spirit glow;
Yet their rustic life I fancy,
Camping near the ocean's spray,
Glad that they are free to labor
Or to idle as they may.

Let one hear the lively chorus,
When the cheerful throngs go by,
Song and laughter freely blending
With the invalid's low sigh.
Life must not have too much sadness,
Though the cloud of sorrow lowers,
Cheering beams of sunny brightness
Smile between the April showers.

Mem'ries of delightful hours
Bring sweet thoughts to me to-day,
As when once I roamed the woodlands,
Gathering roses by the way,
Drinking the refreshing odors,
In some deep and cool retreat,
Where clear brooks and laughing riplets
O'er and o'er their song repeat;

And my heart is yet responsive
To the sounds of joy and mirth,—
To the beauty and the gladness
Which in innocence have birth;
But I gaze beyond the river,
Where are joys unknown before,
Where shall come no night of weeping,
E'er to dim that shining shore.

May the richest, purest blessings
Crown my friends all coming days,
Who have sought to cheer my darkness,
Asking neither thanks nor praise.
When life's twilight glimmers round them,
And earth's prospects fade in night,
May the star of faith beam o'er them,
Guiding to eternal light.

Sagamore, July 29, 1869.

ROBSON'S BEST.—In New York city, last week, as Mr. Stuart Robson, the popular comedian, was approaching the corner of Rollins and Washington streets, he encountered a pompous-looking darkey, who was in charge of a comfortable family carriage and a span of sleek-looking horses. As Mr. Robson neared him, the newly-made American citizen patronizingly accosted him with: "Young man!"

"Sir, to you," said Robson, pulling off his hat with mock politeness.

"If you are not in a hurry would you oblige me by dropping into that store across the way and bringing me a plug of tobacco? I can't leave my horses, and I'll do the same for you some day."

For a moment the comedian's dignity seemed staggered, but he quickly recovered himself, and, with an ill-concealed smile playing on his comic countenance, replied: "With pleasure, sir."

The conchman handed him a twenty-five-cent note, which was received in the most respectful manner by Robson, who proceeded directly to the store indicated, and in a few moments returned with the tobacco in one hand, and fifteen cents change in the other, which he held out to the party who had given him so striking a proof of his confidence.

Mr. Darkey received the tobacco with a slight "Thank you," and waving his hand with the most self-satisfied importance, said: "You can keep the change, young man!"

Mr. Robson's face had expressed many comical emotions in his professional capacity, but we doubt if he ever looked so quizzically ludicrous as when, fully realizing the amusing absurdity of his position—he pocketed his fee and walked briskly away.—Boston Courier.

FARMERS cannot manure more cheaply or successfully than by plowing down green clover. This is especially true with farms located so far away from cities or towns as to make the manures obtained from them expensive. A poor field of grass will not pay the expense of converting it into hay, but may lay the foundation for a good crop of wheat, by plowing it down. It is not well to take every thing that grows off of the soil, and to put nothing on. Deite's Farm Journal.

—An excellent remedy for inflamed udders on cows and heifers is to apply hogs lard warm, with a brush, and rub it gently with the hand. This should be done several times a day, rubbing the udder well each time to make it soft. It will effect a cure in the worst cases. Cows and heifers near calving time need watching, and when the udder begins to inflame this application will prevent the inflamation from extending.—Deite's Farm Journal.

DODD'S NERVINE DID IT.
NEW LONDON, CONN., April 26, 1869.
REV. DR. HEREETH, DEAR BROTHER:
I thought it well to wait another week before writing, to see if I continued to improve, as I have been doing for some time, under the treatment of the new medicine, and I am happy to tell you that I am getting better—even faster than when you were here. I commenced the use of DODD'S NERVINE without any hope of benefit to me in it. When I began with it I could only walk from my bed to the chair. My trouble has been extreme pain in the head, and has lasted over three years. All the medicine I have heretofore taken has failed to give any relief. I am now able to go up and down stairs, and daily improving. I consider the NERVINE the best medicine I ever found, and shall continue its use, for I am confident of entire recovery. I have taken only three bottles, and would not be without it on any account. [je15 8w] Very truly, MRS. I. S. NUTE.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, JULY 30, 1869.

New Hampshire Items.

Up to the 24th eighty-three students had been admitted to the Freshman class of Dartmouth, and a number of others had taken out permits for examination. The number of admissions, including advanced classes, and Scientifics, was over a hundred. There had been eight rejections. The class will probably number 110.

A laborer employed in the mica mine at Grafton, fell dead while at work on the ledge on the 22d, of disease of the heart. He came from Boston, but has been employed there a year or two.

The Reporter says that Mr. F. S. Parker was at work in his mill yard at East Canaan, on the 22d, and getting on the lower side of a log, discovered it was rolling toward him. Thinking he could step over it as it met him, in attempting to do so his foot caught and he fell crosswise the log which now served the purpose of a roller and sent him six or eight feet down the hill, where he lay facing it. He had the presence of mind to put out his arm, and raising one shoulder he made a skid on which the log passed over his body, only striking him on one leg after leaving his shoulder, and inflicting a few slight bruises on its way. The ground is nearly as steep as the roof of a house, in the yard.

A two-story wooden building, measuring sixty by twenty-four feet, recently moved from the site of a large brick block now erecting by Hiram M. Goodrick on Main street, Nashua, N. H., to Pine street, and about to be converted into tenements by Daniel R. Marshall, the owner, was fired by an incendiary twelve o'clock on Friday night and completely destroyed. Partially insured.

The Merrimack and its tributaries are so low that manufacturers who depend on water, are seriously inconvenienced. P. C. Cheney & Co., paper manufacturers in Goffstown, are so affected by the drouth that they are obliged to put in steam.

On the 27th, the barn of Mr. Arthur Fletcher in Bridgewater was struck by lightning, and burned, together with thirty tons of hay, a pair of fine oxen, and a lot of farming tools.

Mary Folen, who is supposed to have set the fire that destroyed the buildings on the Nashua City Farm, and subsequently escaped from the County Farm, was arrested in N. on the 24th.

A Baltimore lady left San Francisco on the 15th, and on the 24th was ensconced for the season at Wolfeborough. Who'd have thought of such time ten years ago?

☞ Rev. S. R. Weldon, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Put-in-Bay, in the Diocese of Ohio, where Mr. Jay Cooke has a summer residence, has withdrawn from the ministry of that church; and the church to which he ministers has dissolved its connection with the Diocese of Ohio. The Protestant Churchman, in giving an account of the facts, significantly says: "We are glad to announce, however, that Mr. Weldon does not go very far away from us, but will continue his labors in the same church, as an Independent Episcopal clergyman, and many others may yet follow his example."

☞ Edward Davis, son of Thomas H. and Ellen F. Mayo, aged 7 years, was drowned at West Stewartstown, on Saturday afternoon, July 10. He slipped from a rock, where he was fishing, into the Connecticut river. His body was found Sunday afternoon about 80 rods below where he fell in. He had returned, on the day of his death, from Boston with his father and mother.

☞ The Farmer's Cabinet, the ancient and honorable newspaper of Amherst, N. H., is now published by Edward D. Boynton & Albert A. Rotch. Mr. R. is the son-in-law of the senior editor; we hope for him a career as long and as worthy as his predecessors have enjoyed.

THE NEW ENGLAND FAIR.—We are told that over a thousand head of neat stock have already been entered for exhibition at the New England (Portland) Fair in September, and the communications received by the Secretary indicate that these figures will be at least doubled.

☞ The Manchester Mirror describes the Two Headed Girl, as a great curiosity, really a pair of twins, more closely united than the Siamese twins, inasmuch as their bodies are united so that they stand nearly back to back.—They are negroes, 17 years old.

—It is said that there are 9000 carpenters out of work in Chicago.

CHRISTIAN COURTESY.—Some of the religious papers in Boston, (we do not now remember exactly which,) found fault with Rev. Mr. McKeown's Methodist sermon, which he preached as he bade farewell to Rev. Mr. Patterson's Universalist House and People, in Roxbury, Mass. In the Report of it, (which we did not see,) they scented some heresy.

We had the privilege of hearing the discourse, and did not discover that Mr. McK. had relinquished or ignored any article in the creed of his church; but that he had seen and known so much of true kindness, and of what he deemed the christian spirit, in the devotional and actual life of the pastor and people there, that he counted them christian brethren.

This sermon, and the fault found with it, reminds us of a little discussion which occurred in an Orthodox Congregational Association, many years ago, and not long after the lines were distinctly drawn between that association and Unitarians.

The question was, whether an Intelligent Unitarian could be accounted a Christian. The answers were given individually; and it turned out that a majority of the ministers present, having each a personal acquaintance with some Unitarians, (one or more,) were fully of the opinion, not only that they might be christians, but that their particular friends were really so, in heart and life.—And a small minority, on the other hand, not having any such acquaintance, could not see how it was possible. A very natural decision, every way.

T. H. M.

CALIFORNIA.—The Cincinnati Enquirer, the leading Democratic organ in Ohio, thus sharply criticises the platform of the California Democracy:

"We can tell these California Democrats that negro suffrage is a fixed fact, and that the Southern Democrats, under a new organization, are using it with success, and that the Chinese are coming, and that it is sheer nonsense to fight them in California with Democratic resolutions. Have these California Democrats heard of the Pacific Railroad and who built it? This California platform is the stupidest thing out since the secession ordinance of South Carolina."

The California Republican Convention, while they do not, like the California Democrats, propose to shut the Chinese laborers out of the country, do propose to keep them from the ballot-boxes. Whatever either party may think about it, the Chinese will come;—and their labor will enrich the land.

Y. M. C. A.—At a meeting of the N. H. delegation attending the International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association at Portland, Me., last week, on motion of Everett O. Fose of Dover, the following resolution was passed unanimously, and the press in New Hampshire were requested to publish the same:

Resolved, That in view of the want which exists among the local associations of New Hampshire, of suitable rooms for their purposes, and the success which has attended the efforts of other places, to secure buildings of their own, we, the representatives from New Hampshire at the Y. M. C. A. International Convention, recommend that the delegates, upon their return home, call a meeting of the christian men and women of their city or town, and lay their needs before them, and cease not their efforts until such a building as they require shall be secured and paid for.

☞ Deacon Jonathan Buckmaster, of Ludlow, Vt., is 70 years old, and has been quite deaf for several years. It has been impossible for him to hear the minister at church, and he could not hear common conversation. One morning last week when he awoke he found he could hear as well as ever.

☞ The match factory of Benjamin Bunker, at Kendall's Mills, Me., was destroyed by fire on Tuesday, with all its contents; loss $7500; insured $2500, half in the Bangor Mutual and half in a New York company.

Die Modenwelt for August is profusely illustrated with Patterns, Fashions, and Fashionable Ladies in full dress, and in all sorts of fancies.

—The newest thing under the sun in an agricultural way is grafting potatoes, which is done by cutting the eyes out of one and inserting those of another in their place.

—Nineteen of the first class citizens of Springfield, Mass., paid into the Police Court Tuesday, $376 for keeping dogs without a license—an average of $19. 80 each.

—There is talk of enforcing the English laws against betting, as the only way to save the peerage from financial extinction.

—The price of butter at St. Albans on Tuesday was 30 to 34 cents.

☞ The Lynn shoe manufacturers talk of employing Chinese labor.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The World Grows Wiser.

The human stomach has been a shamefully persecuted organ. There was a time when for every direliction of duty it was punished with huge doses of the most disgusting and nauseous drugs. In vain it rejected them, and (literally) returned them upon the hands of those who administered them. They were forced down again and again, until its solvent power was thoroughly drenched out of it.

The world is wiser now than it was in that drastic era, when furious purgation and mercurial salivation were what Artemus Ward would have called the "main hole" of the faculty, in case of dyspepsia and liver complaint.

The great modern remedy for indigestion and biliousness is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a preparation which has the merit of combining a palatable flavor with such tonic, aperient and antibilious properties, as were never heretofore united in any medicine.

It has been discovered, at least, that sick people are not like the fabled Titans, who found prostration so refreshing that, when knocked down, they rose from the earth twice as vigorous as before. When invalid is prostrated by powerful depleting drugs, he is apt to stay prostrated, and the debilitated being aware of the fact, prefer the balding up to the knocking down system of treatment.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS meet the requirements of the rational medical philosophy which at present prevails. It is a perfect, pure, vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body against disease, invigorates and re-vitalizes the torpid stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, when in a morbid condition.

In summer, when the alimentary secretions are renders the human organization particularly susceptible to unwholesome atmospheric influences, the Bitters should be taken as a protection against epidemic disease. 1y21

Holloway's Ointment.—Dropsical swellings can only be reduced in two ways—by absorption and evaporation. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT acts powerfully and beneficially upon the vessels which perform the functions. It invigorates the absorbents, and promotes the expulsory action of the pores. Among all the external complaints for which the Ointment is an acknowledged specific, there is none in which it works greater wonders than in dropsical cases. Sold by all Druggists. 1y28

In Medication.

The great difficulty which physicians have been laboring for centuries to overcome, has at length been obviated. A vegetable Cathartic and alterative more efficient than any mineral preparation of the same class, and as agreeable to the taste as ordinary candy, is now offered to the sick in the form of a lozenge.

DR. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S

is the most important medicinal novelty that modern chemistry has produced. It contains two botanical extracts, perfectly harmless in themselves, but all-embodying in their remedial properties of mercury, and destined in this pleasant form to supersede and banish from general use, the nauseous pills and potions of which this mineral, one excitant is the main ingredient. More than were made by the inventor of this peerless remedy before it was brought to its present state of perfection. The Lozenge is harmless in its operation, and altogether the medicinal taste of its curative components has been extinguished by chemical art, their virtues remain as active and potent as ever.

One thousand experiments

In Dyspepsia, Biliousness Constipation, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Dropsy, and the irregularities to which females are subject, the Lozenge will be found infinitely more effective than any of the horrible and disgusting compounds usually administered in such cases. As an antibilious specific and general aperient, they have no equal either among advertised preparations or the prescriptions of regular pharmacopoeia.

☞ It is guaranteed that no one who has once tried Dr. ERASMUS WINSLOW'S Liver and Stomach Lozenge, will ever again take a purgative powder, or draught or pill.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers, and properly applied at the Wig Factory 6 Bond Street, New York.

Ellis' Iron Bitters

Will enrich the blood and prevent it from becoming watery and weak, give a healthy complexion, restore the appetite, invigorate the system, and are very palatable. These Bitters are recommended by us to all persons requiring a safe and valuable tonic, to impart tone and strength to the system, not given by Bitters merely stimulant in their effects; which, although they may possess tonic vegetable properties, cannot give the strength to the blood which the Iron Bitters will give.

Prepared by Wm. Ellis, Chemist. For sale in Portsmouth by WILLIAM R. PRESTON; by Weeks & Potter, Wholesale Agents, 170 Washington Street, Boston; and by Druggists and Grocers generally. m12eod6m

The Strongest proof of Intrinsic Merit.

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The Cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN KILLER, using as directed for Cholera. A list was kept of all whom the Pain Killer was given, and our native assistants assured us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed, recovered. It has, too, seen very useful in various other diseases. It has proved an incalculable blessing to multitudes of poor people throughout all this region. Our native preachers are never willing to go out on their excursions without a supply of the PAIN KILLER. It gives them favor in the eyes of the people, and access to families and localities by whom otherwise they would be very indifferently received.

Believe me, dear sirs, gratefully and faithfully Yours, J. M. JOHNSON.

Missionary at Swatow, China.

GRANT & PROSPERITY.

Business revives under the new regime. Other than general causes have, however, given a tremendous impetus to the sale of Cristadoro's Excelsior Hair Dye.

The chemists have come out in two leading scientific journals against the lead and sulphur poisons, ergo, lead (for the sulphur is harmless in action,) with which the country is infested, while Dr. Chilton, the first analytical chemist in America, announces to the world that and that he knows it to be so, because he has analyzed it.

CRISTADORO'S DYE IS UTTERLY POISONLESS,

CRISTADORO'S HAIR PRESERVATIVE, as Dressing, acts like a charm on the Hair after Dyeing. Try it. 3ly22

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

They remove all bad accumulations from the bowels, and purify and invigorate the system. All whose health is not perfect, owe it to themselves to take a few doses of Brandreth's Pills, because the seeds of decay are constantly eradicated by their use, and the principle of life confirmed, thus giving a vigor of body and mind to a period when we have been used to see the faltering step and the stooping form of age.

General Paez, the distinguished liberator of Venezuela, says he has used them as his only medicine for thirty years, with the most satisfactory results.

For Costiveness, Dyspepsia, and as a Family medicine they are invaluable.

Daniel I. Tenney, Esq., Astor House, New York, cured by Brandreth's Pill of Dyspepsia and Costiveness, when all other means had failed.

A gentleman, whose father died of consumption at 36 years, was also attacked, when about 21, by the disease. He had cough, pain, night sweats, and general debility. Doctors recommended cod liver oil, but he wasted away. At last he determined to use Brandreth's Pills. In two months they made him a sound man. 1y22

PAIN KILLER.

WE beg leave to call the attention of the public to this long celebrated and unrivalled

FAMILY MEDICINE.

The PAIN KILLER is a purely vegetable compound, which is in a most efficient remedy for Pain, it is a perfectly safe medicine even in the most unskilful hands.

For Summer Complaint,

Or any other form of bowel disease in children or adults, it is an almost certain cure, and has without doubt been more successful in curing the various kinds of

CHOLERA,

Than any other known remedy, or even the most skillful physician. In India, Africa, and China, where this dreadful disease is over more or less prevalent, the PAIN KILLER is considered by the natives, as well as European residents in those climates, 1e19

A SURE REMEDY.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digested and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient undergoes the chills and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter in the tubercles in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a loose cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, as the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, so that there is no more jaundice, bowels relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel is a drastic pill, which is not safe for anyone to use unless with great care, that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are safe.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food which the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heals the liver, and by so doing they change the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs take a mass of matter, and the liver is torpid. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole system. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to die late. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish to have their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 35 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. 6ly1

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ Mr. T. J. Whittem, who has been employed on the Portsmouth Journal for several months, has closed his engagement there; and Mr. Albert W. Ham, who was formerly for thirty years, as man and boy, engaged in that office, has returned thither.

It is reported that Mr. Whittem proposes to start a new paper here. If so, we wish him all success, and a good time in spending his money—as he did us when we started the Chronicle, seventeen years ago. We recommend to him that it be a Daily—only he will have to work like the devil (the printer's imp, we mean, of course) himself, or else get somebody, or party to make up deficiences in receipts. Anyway, however, the people will get enlightened and the community be improved, for Gen. Whittem don't know how to print a mean paper. The more the merrier, perhaps.

☞ The American Institute of Instruction will hold their annual meeting, in this city, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next, in Congress Hall. Addresses, applicable to the cause of education, will be given each day, by several prominent and leading men of New England, which will be free to all interested in the cause. The School Committee naturally wish to extend to the strangers who may come among us, the hospitalities and civilities usual on such occasions; and for the purpose of making suitable arrangements, very properly ask the co-operation of citizens generally.

John Kneeland of Boston is President, Samuel W. Mason one of the Vice Presidents, and D. W. Jones Recording Secretary.

☞ As indicated by the pleasing yet saddening poem we this day publish, our invalid friend, on Sagamore road, has again been cheered by that kindly demonstration which testifies that he is still remembered, even though his life be necessarily passed in darkness and seclusion. He assures us that he greatly enjoyed his recent vocal picnic serenade at twilight hour, and wishes us to say to those kind friends who thus gladly sought his pleasure, that he recognized their appropriate sacred selections, and could reciprocate their sentiments with all his heart, while he regretted his inability to thank them as his heart prompted; and now wishes each friend should receive the poem as a faint expression of his appreciation of their kindness.

A FAIR will be held at Caswell's Hall, on Star Island, (Isles of Shoals,) August 4th, and will be continued one week; the proceeds of which are to be expended for a Day School. The new Steamer Appledore will leave Pier Wharf, Portsmouth, every day on the arrival of the early train from Boston, on the Eastern Railroad, and will bring passengers across in an hour, where they will find excellent accommodation at the New Atlantic House, Union House, and at the private houses which are open for the season.

While acknowledging the liberal patronage bestowed on the Fair last year by friends in Portsmouth and elsewhere, the Society would hope a continuance of the same at this time.

SOCIAL CIRCLE.

☞ A large wagon for travelling business was seen in our streets a few days ago, very conveniently and safely moving on three wheels, ingeniously constructed, and secured by Patent. No danger can possibly occur in turning over so short; for the team can be driven round and round in a small circle, and the single forward wheel cannot be caught against any part of the carriage.

☞ Some paper (we think the Mirror) has inserted the number of years in which Mr. Edwards performed the duties of Deputy Collector at this port, previous to his late removal or supercedure. But Mr. Edmonds has been reappointed and commissioned, not removed. The new deputy named, Mr. Stackpole is stationed at Dover.

LAUNCHED,—At Mystic, Conn., 27th inst., from the yard of George Greenman & Co., a first class ship of 1880 tons, old measurement. Her length over all is 204 feet, breadth of beam 39 feet, and depth of hold 24 feet. She is intended for the California trade, under command of Capt. Bush, of this city.

☞ A large and extensive business is being done the present season in the manufacture of bricks, at the Yards of Charles H. Green, Esq., in Kittery. Ten or twelve men are constantly employed and several thousand cords of wood are annually consumed in burning the bricks.

☞ The Portsmouth Cornet Band will give their sixth concert on Market Square, this Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

CITY COUNCIL, Thursday Evening.—This was the first meeting for four weeks—the longest interim we ever knew in the duties of the City fathers. Present, the Mayor and seven Aldermen. Rufus K. Oxford, Esq., was chosen Clerk pro tem.

The Committee on Claims reported in favor of granting the petition of John Barrett, to remit his fine in Police Court, for assault, three or four months ago—as they understood from the City Solicitor, that if enforced it would send Barrett to the House of Correction, and throw his large family also on the Town.

Ald. Slater was opposed to granting the relief, and moved to indefinitely postpone. He thought Barrett's store at the North End of Market St. was well patronized, and he was able to pay his fine.

The Mayor stated that he understood Barrett had a dissipated wife, and if the fine was demanded, it would throw the family on the City to support.

Aldermen Spinney thought Barrett's groggery was making money fast. It was always full, and abundant slops were repeatedly thrown out on the street, despite the namings of the Street Commissioner and Chief of Police. The woman was well enough to tend bar—and no wonder she is dissipated, tending in an Irish rum-hole. He wished every rumseller in town was in the House of Correction—and this or any other family would be better off in the Almshouse than in such a hole. We have but little law in the city anyhow, he said, and if we are going to do away with this, he should be in favor of doing away with all pretence of law.

Ald. Miller noped the matter would be laid over till next meeting, for examination into the merits of the case; and this was done—the petition being re-committed to Com. on Claims.

A pile of Bills high enough to break a small bank, were approved—including one of $36 for expense of decorating High School at Exhibition. This was discussed some, as to whether the Sch. Com. should not pay it—but was finally approved with the rest. This being about the last of tax-payers' discount, all were desirous to get their bills in.

☞ If there was a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in this city, we should call their attention to the Newcastle Express route, which habitually puts the load for two or three good horses, on one poor one. This is especially the case since the withdrawal of the Omnibus from that route, to run to the Sagamore House. Within a few days, we have noticed loads of from nine to fourteen passengers, and much baggage and freight, on a single team!

☞ DR. STEVENS wishes to notify his Patients and Friends that having fully recovered his health, he can now be consulted daily at his office, No. 5 DANIEL STREET, upon any of the numerous diseases incident to the Dental organs. And that on and after August 2d he will recommence the furnishing of ARTIFICIAL TEETH to his patients. All operations upon the human teeth, and all work upon artificial substitutes, will receive his personal attention, and be executed in the most substantial and artistic manner.

Office hours from 9½ A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 2 to 4½ P. M.

DEATHS

In this city, July 29, after a long and painful illness, MRS. ANN O. HAM, wife of Mr. William F. Ham, aged 49 years, 7 mos. and 6 days.

Funeral from her late residence, No 5 McDonough St., Saturday forenoon at 10 1-2.

Hers was indeed a life of eminent usefulness, and its end was peace. A true and faithful wife, a loving mother and kind friend has passed to the better land. Many whom she watched over tenderly passed on before, and now that she too has gone, there are aching hearts and grief stricken relatives and friends to mourn the loss which is as yet so difficult to realize. May her memory comfort the afflicted and her example be followed so that the record of a useful life may be alike theirs who remain but a short time at the farthest ere their brief existence on earth is concluded.
